Two Societies of Crescent Ave. Church Combine to Raise Money for Foreign Work.

Chinese customs were pictured at the Crescent Avenue church yesterday afternoon and last night, when the members of the Westminster Guild and Sunshine Mission band gave a performance for the benefit of the Chinese Campaign fund, which was organized to raise money for missionary work in that country.

Seven members of the Sunshine Mission band showed those in the audience how a Chinese school is conducted, and then played a number of Chinese games. The young women appeared in attractive Chinese costumes. In the school scene one acted as the teacher and the other six as pupils. They were Gladys Carter, Dorothy Roberts, Virginia Glover, Winifred Peters, Margaret Condit, Elizabeth Brown and Sarah Carvalho.

The Chinese play presented by members of the Westminster Guild was in three acts and described the work being done by missionaries in the conversion of the Chinese young people, through the mission schools. The play, both in costuming dialague, showed careful preparation and was well received by audiences at both performances. Those who took part were Dorothy Burke, Marjorie Brown, Bessie Alpaugh, Audrey Genung, Ruth VanFleet, Rachael Aughiltree and Eleanor DeGraff.

Between $75 and $100 was realized as a result of the performances.

NETHERWOOD ENDEAVORERS TRIUMPH OVER WEATHER

Because the bad weather prevented a sufficiently profitable attendance at a supper held by the Netherwood Reformed church Christian Endeavor Society Thursday night, the society held another supper last night. The weather wasn't anything to brag about last night, but after the affair the society was richer by $15 as a result of the two suppers.

As on Thursday the Curious Catering Company gave the supper last night a distinctive touch. All the names on the program were written backwards and the readers derived a great deal of amusement from deciphering the various words. Much of the success of the affair can be credited to the committee in charge which was comprised of Miss F. Disborough, Miss A. E. Finkle and John J. Farley. The waitresses were Miss Ida Apgar, Miss Maud Disborough, Miss Mary Cooper and Miss Iola Wood. Interested dinner-planners will be unable to obtain the services of the Curious Catering Company because it was organized for the occasion only.

Miss Garyley, of Nova Scotia, a pupil nurse of Muhlenberg hospital, underwent an operation two weeks ago under Dr. Albee, of New York, and Drs. P. J. Zeglio and N. W. Curry. She is now getting along nicely and expects soon to leave for her home to recuperate.

Rev. F. St. John Fitch, of Park avenue, will preach tomorrow and the following Sunday at the Reformed church at Oceanic.

CONVERSATIONAL PARTY OF CONGREGATIONALISTS

The Young Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian church, held a "Conversational party" in the church parlors, last night. About fifty young people were present and a general good time was enjoyed. Engagement cards, resembling dance orders, given to every couple and the young men made appointments for conversation with some member of the fairer sex. Some of the subjects discussed during these conversations were: "What would I do with a million dollars," "A good joke," "My spring hat," "Hints for the Young Men's Clubs" and numerous others.

During the evening piano duets were rendered by the Misses Natalie Selby and Edith Hamilton and the Misses Helen George and Clara Karner.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Newail Karner, chairman; Fred Nickerson and Frank O. Dunning, Jr.

TWO FIRE CHIEFS WITNESS TEST OF A WONDERFUL AUTO ENGINE

Nott Fire Engine.

Under the direction of Robert Woodhouse, a representative of the Nott Motor Company, a test of the Nott triple combination motor pumping engine was given at Water street and Elm place, Thursday afternoon, in the presence of Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Councilman Fred Endress, chairman of the Council public committee, and Fire Chief McConnell and the fire committee from Buffalo, N. Y.

During the exhibition, two three hundred foot lines of hose were laid and the pumps started. Fine fire streams were thrown far above the tallest trees along Greenbrook. Then a line 750 feet long was laid and a stream thrown for some time. The completion of the test was the most spectacular of all. A fifty-foot line was laid and a large nozzle used. The stream was directed straight into the air, reaching a vertical height of 175 feet or far higher than any building in the city.

According to fire-fighting authorities this stream which was of large volume would have effectively fought fire at a height of 112 feet. The nozzle pressure registered was 118 pounds. This engine is rated by the manufacturers at 600 gallons per minute, but exceeds that amount. It was shipped today to Wilkesbarre, Pa. It is said to hold the world's record for efficiency. Those who witnessed the exhibition were much pleased with the results.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garis, of Park avenue, are the proud parents of an eight pound son, born to them this morning.

P. H. S. GIRLS LOSE OUT BY TWO POINTS

Springfield Girls Won On the Local Court Yesterday By Score of 10 to 8.

A margin of one field goal separated the Plainfield High School girls' team from victory in their game with the Springfield High School maidens on the local court yesterday afternoon and when the final whistle sounded the visitors had a total of ten points against the home girls' eight. A total of six field goals comprised the composite field scoring of the two contestants and the P. H. S. part was done by Miss Stryker, single handed. She proved to be the mainstay of her team in this department of the game and many times she shot from different angles only to have the ball roll off the rim of the basket.

Many opportunities to count from the fifteen yard line on penalty throws were wasted by each team and if either aggregation had a better proficient in this important department of the game, the score might have been vastly different.

The score:

TWO GOOD BASKETBALL GAMES AT THE 'PLAINS

Summit Chapel Club players will lineup against the Scotch Plains, first team on the Parish House court tonight and the 'Plains second will play the fast Garwood A. C. in the preliminary. Several changes are due to take place in the 'Plains' lineup before the game tonight and those interested say that the team will be materially strengthened by the shifts. The "prelim" attraction is staged between two fast junior aggregations and should prove a good appetizer for those who witness the first team struggle.

POWERS RUSH TO TURKISH WATERS

Warships Hurried by Italy and Great Britain.

WAR SEEMS INEVITABLE

Enver Bey Heads Ottoman Army as Peace Envoys are Hurriedly Recalled—Young Turks In Control With New Cabinet Sworn In.

London, Jan. 25.—Following the overthrow of the Turkish cabinet as a result of its giving in to the powers in the matter of the surrender of Adrianople resumption of the war between Turkey and the Balkans is regarded in the European capitals as inevitable.

Italian, British and other warships have been ordered to proceed immediately to Turkish waters, according to dispatches from Mediterranean ports, which announce that there is considerable activity among the fleets of the great powers.

The Young Turks are now in control of the government and have formed a new cabinet with Mahmoud Shefket Pasha as grand vizier and minister of war. The cabinet met during the day, and the retiring foreign minister explained the Balkan situation.

The Ottoman peace envoys at London have been recalled and Enver Bey, prime mover of the revolt, has been made chief of the general staff of the army.

The peace delegates at London believe war will begin almost immediately, and hasty messages are being exchanged with their governments. The European governments are already in communication in regard to the situation.

Nazim Pasha's Funeral.

Constantinople, Jan. 25.—The funeral of Nazim Pasha, who was killed here, took place yesterday. The new grand vizier and minister of war, Mahmoud Shefket Pasha, an old comrade of the dead commander in chief, was present.

After the burial the members of the cabinet went, to the palace and took the oath of allegiance to the sultan. Subsequently the retiring foreign minister, Nora Anghatian Pasha, was called to a meeting of the cabinet council to explain the foreign situation.

The sultan went to the mosque to attend the usual selamik, at which Mahmoud Shefket Pasha and Enver Bey also were present. The function passed off without incident.

The new Turkish cabinet is constituted as follows:

Grand vizier and minister of war, Mahmoud Shefket Pasha; president of council of state, Said Halim; interior, Hadji Adil; foreign affairs (temporary), Mukhtar Bey; marine, Tschuruksuln Mahmud; justice, Ibrahim Pasha; finance, Rifaat Bey; public works, Batzaria Effendi; pious foundations, Hairi Pasha; agriculture, Djelal Effendi; posts, Oskian Bey; public instruction, Shukri Pasha.

With the war party in power as the result of a coup d'etat which resulted in a new cabinet active preparations for the renewal of hostilities by Turkey against the Balkan allies were begun with the recall of the Ottoman peace envoys at the London conference and the appointment of Enver Bey, prime mover of the revolt, as chief of the general staff of the army.

Talaat Bey, the new minister of the interior, who with Enver Bey fired the shots which killed Nazim Pasha, commander in chief of the Turkish forces at Tchataldja, in a demonstration for the new regime, has issued orders to provincial governors to preserve order.

This was necessitated by the disorder and rioting which has followed the coup d'etat.

The Turkish government has requested the return of its ambassadors at Vienna and St. Petersburg. It was announced before this move that Hussein Hilmi, the Turkish ambassador to Vienna, had been offered the foreign office. Talaat Bey has notified the foreign embassies that all measures to insure safety in Constantinople will be taken by the new government.

VICE GRAFT PROBE OFF TO FEB. 17

No "Higher Up" Indictments Have Been Reported.

New York, Jan. 25.—The extraordinary grand jury which has been investigating the police and vice situation adjourned to Feb. 17 without further action in the attempted bribery of George A. Sipp, graft witness, or in the case of Patrolman Charles Foye accused of perjury before the Curran committee.

If an indictment was voted against Foye, as has been said, it was not handed up. Indictments against "men higher up" in the Sipp case did not materialize. It is understood, however, that the district attorney has plans laid for swift action on the reconvening of the grand jury.

George A. Sipp, accuser of Patrolman Eugene Fox; Sipp's son Howard and Henry Kaufman, clerk of the Hotel Avenel, formerly the Baltic, were witnesses before the grand jury preceding its adjournment. So was Spielberg, one of the syndicate owning the Avenel. He had the hotel's books with him.

The police trial of Fox was called by Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh at police headquarters. Sipp, his son Howard, and Thomas Dorian, another witness, were absent.

Walsh announced that District Attorney Whitman had requested Police Commissioner Waldo to order the police trial of Fox postponed until after he is tried criminally and that he had been directed to comply with the request.

Full confession of the system's working methods in grafting and protecting vice is the only thing, it is said, that can prevent Fox, indicted for extortion and said to have been a Harlem police graft collector, from going to trial on Feb. 3.

SEEK BODIES IN RUINS.

Eight Known to Be Dead In Collapse of Building In Texas.

McKinney, Tex., Jan. 25.—Eight persons were killed and fifteen injured in the fire which followed the collapse of the Mississippi Dry Goods company's building here, according to the estimates made by the men directing the work of rescue. Digging in the ruins was resumed, and it was said there was a possibility that more bodies would be found.

The department store collapsed when the walls of an adjoining building owned by the Tingley Implement company fell and crashed into it. A sale was going on in the store at the time, and the number of people in it cannot be definitely learned. Some of the rescuers still stuck to their statements that at least thirty-five persons had perished.

Stories of terrible suffering were told by some of the rescuers. Victims were slowly incinerated by the fire that followed the collapse of the building.

BISHOP O'CONNOR DEAD.

Roman Catholic Prelate Was Fifty-two Years a Priest.

Peterboro, Ont., Jan. 25.—The Right Rev. Richard Alphonsus O'Connor died at St. Joseph's hospital after an illness of ten days. On Aug. 2, 1911, the golden jubilee of his lordship was celebrated, marking the completion of the half century of his priesthood.

Bishop O'Connor was born at Lisdowell, County Clare, Ireland, on Aug. 18, 1838. He came to Canada in his childhood with his parents and was educated at St. Michael's college, Toronto.

To Aid Cotton Growers In Sudan.

London, Jan. 25.—Government aid for the Sudan cotton industry is promised in the near future. It was announced that Premier Asquith is preparing to introduce a bill in parliament authorizing the treasury to guarantee the interest on a loan of $15,000,000 to cotton growers of the Egyptian belt.

Those work seekers who expect to find a job through one publication of a want ad are sometimes disappointed—though not always.

MAN BADLY HURT IN REVOLVER DUEL

"VICTIM" WENT PREPARED

Declares He Received Demand to Give Up $500 and Went Armed to Place Named and Shoots Man Who the Police Say Was Agent.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 25.—Frank Gurlach, or F. Cullico, is dying in the City hospital here. He was shot six times in an encounter near the bridge which spans the Morris canal at Avenue C. A Black Hand demand for money is said to have led to the affair. Cullico, the police say, was the man sent by the gang to meet the man upon whom the demand was made.

Cullico was found on an eastbound Montgomery street trolley car by Patrolman Doderer. He was very weak. He said he had been shot at a point on the Hudson boulevard far removed from the place where the police found a man had been shot.

Patrolman O'Neil meanwhile had arrested Tony Paredo of 60 West Nineteenth street, Bayonne, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Paredo said that he had received a demand for $500. He was to pay it to a man whom he would meet at midnight 100 feet east of the canal bridge. He was there, but armed for trouble. He says that he met a man who had a revolver in his hand and that both began firing as soon as the man saw he was also armed.

Paredo was held under $500 bail, Judge Butler saying he had made the bond as low as he could.

SUSPEND CIGARETTE FIENDS.

Florence Public School Principal Says Such Boys Can't Learn.

Florence, N. J., Jan. 25.—Declaring that the state is only wasting its money in trying to educate cigarette fiends, Supervising Principal Machlas of the Florence public schools has suspended several boys addicted to the cigarette habit. This action was taken after a consultation with County Superintendent H. A. Stees, who visited the school.

Parents of the boys are incensed and threaten to carry the case to the state commissioner of education, but it is understood that the state educational authorities will back up the Florence board and other local boards who take similar action. School commissioners here declare that when the boys say they will give up cigarettes and show that they mean business they may return to their desks, but they are determined the troubles of the teachers shall not be increased by the futile task of attempting to impart knowledge to smoke and dope befuddled brains. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of three local tobacco dealers charged with violating the state law by selling cigarettes to minors.

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR ROBBERY

Youth Threw Pepper Into Girl's Eyes to Get $500.

Camden, N. J., Jan. 25.—Alfred W. Colsey, a son of City Councilman Arthur W. Colsey, was sentenced by Judge Barrow in the criminal court to fifteen years in state prison for robbery.

On Jan. 11, as Helen M. Jefferies, twenty years old, was leaving the works of the Richard W. Jefferies company with $500, which she as cashier was to deposit in the bank, Colsey grabbed the bag she carried with the money. The girl tried to fight him, and he threw pepper into her eyes. The girl's cries caused pursuit, and Colsey was run down. Colsey is but twenty years of age. A year ago Colsey eloped with a girl younger than himself.

WOULD END JERSEY PASSES.

Railroads of the State to Curb Free Transportation Privileges.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 25.—War has been declared on the free pass "evil" in New Jersey.

The Lackawanna Railroad company has announced its intention of materially curbing the use of passes in the future, and other lines leading through the state are expected to follow suit. The state law requires that certain state officials shall be accorded free transportation over the railroads of the state, but it is liable to be amended soon. The law as it now stands authorizes the secretary of state to issue passes and specifies that they shall be honored on all lines touching New Jersey.

MOSQUITOES GETTING BUSY.

Swamps and Water Barrels Humming With Thriving Families.

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 25.—Owing to the continued spell of hot weather mosquitoes are breeding in all North Jersey swamps and every exposed water barrel is humming.

The majority of the laborers whose duty it is to oil or fill swamps have been laid off for the winter months and unless there is a heavy frost the spring crop of "Jersey 'skeeters" will be very large.

SOME STRAY TOPICS IN NEW YORK TOWN

News and Comment Which Attracts Attention of America's Metropolis.

New York, Jan. 25.—Between strikes, the police investigations, the "arson trust" muddle, the suffrage agitation and the disgraceful disclosures concerning the abuse of the pardoning power by former Governor Dix there is always something new, something exciting going on in this old town. If there should be a little lull once in a while some big crime or accident is sure to occur to fill in the gap. The strikes of the hotel waiters and the garment workers are still continuing but, excepting the incendiary speeches of Ettor and the other I. W. W. agitators, furnish but little excitement.

Peaceful and law abiding citizens are beginning to wonder how long the authorities intend to wait before they put a stop to the criminal methods of agitation of men like Ettor and his associates of the I. W. W. The principal reason for the ill-advised forbearance of the authorities seems to be the fear of doing anything that might be interpreted as an infringement upon the sacred right of free speech. This right of free speech, although only too often shamefully abused by unscrupulous scoundrels in days past as well as present, is considered rightfully one of the main stays of liberty and, for that reason is so carefully guarded that no one seems to dare even the suggestion that no matter how sacred that right may be there should be some limitation to prevent its abuse. It would require great moral courage on the part of any jury or court to decide that utterances like those made by Ettor and other anarchists at different times constitute the abuse of a constitutional right and should not be tolerated. Their decision would undoubtedly cause a great howl from the thousands of unthinking persons who fail to grasp the true meaning of constitutional rights and the danger which lies in their abuse.

How different it is to account for differences of taste and to please everybody was clearly shown last week when, within two days, one man tried to escape from the Tombs while another, whose release had been ordered by the court, refused to leave the shelter of the prison. The man who tried to escape was a professional thief who had spent an aggregate eight years of his life in prison cells. The man who refused to leave the Tombs was an Italian who had been arrested for carrying a revolver and was awaiting the action of the grand jury. As the grand jury had failed to indict the man, his release was ordered. But that did not suit the prisoner. "I don't want to leave," the prisoner said. "I like it in the Tombs too well. I get good hot food and they give me steam heat, and I can't see why I should want to go out in the cold." The amusing part of it was that as the man refused to aid it his id mity he had to be sent back to the Tombs until witnesses could be found to identify him.

The Bayonne correspondent of one of the New York dailies must have been pretty hard up for news the other day. He felt in duty bound to turn in some story and as there was nothing to report that had actually happened, he considered it his duty to manufacture news. Being resourceful and having had a High School education, it occurred to him that a modernized version of the "Ring of Polycrates" story would make good reading. The rest was easy. According to his version, which duly appeared in his paper, a fisherman of Bayonne went fishing off Barnegat a week ago and while pulling in a line dropped a fine diamond ring, which was a little too large for his finger, into the water. He was fortunate, however, in catching a lot of fish which he brought home. The other day his wife prepared some of the fish for supper and in one of the fish she found the diamond ring which her husband had lost.

The present day agitation of the problems presented by the high cost of living has caused many real or would-be experts to spring new theories concerning the best methods of reducing the cost of living upon the public. Some time ago one of the students of Cornell worked out a plan which would enable a person to live on 85 cents a week. Now an ambitious New York student of economics has "gone him one better" by disclosing how a person could comfortably live on five cents a day. Cornmeal, oatmeal and beans form the chief components of the diet suggested and the amount of food to be consumed is limited to two and one half ounces of food per meal. The figures given by the originator of the theory to prove that this diet would amply suffice for the needs of the body as they contain all the proteids, carbohydrates, etc., required by the human system, are quite impressive but scarcely convincing to the average individual.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., recently added to his big estate at Pocantico Hills by having some property adjoining his estate from George Fee, a green ice man. The new addition includes a big pond from which the former owner used to harvest his ice crop. It is said, however, that Mr. Rockefeller does not intend to venture into the ice business.

No one can blame people for trying to prevent the tragedy of the drug fiend's life more drastically than the recent act of a man, a victim of the cocaine habit, in this city. He began to use the drug about six or eight months ago and quickly became a habitual user of cocaine. Becoming incapacitated by the drug, he lost his position and soon found himself in the "down-and-out" class. Homeless and starving, he wandered through the streets, intent only upon obtaining enough money to be able to procure enough of the drug to satisfy his craving. At last the moment came when his resources failed him and in a moment of despair the thought came to the degraded victim to end it all. As a last ray of hope the idea came to him to sell his secret of the source from which he obtained the cocaine for enough money to satisfy his craving once more and then to place himself in the hands of the law. This plan he carried out. He informed two detectives that he knew of a place where cocaine and other tabooed drugs were sold to habitual users and volunteered to prove his statement if they would give him money enough to buy some of the drug. The detectives agreed and the plan was carried out. The cash obtained his "dope," the detectives arrested the man who had sold it and also the man who had given the information and he will be sent to an institution where an effort will be made to cure him of the insane craving.

The violent ringing of a burglar alarm caused great commotion in one of the downtown hotels the other night. An investigation showed that one of the guests, fearing somebody might break into his room at night, had fastened a burglar alarm to his door knob. In some manner the alarm was set off, but although everybody else in the house was aroused from sleep the guest of the alarm continued to sleep peacefully without out all the noise and commotion.

With but a single dissenting vote, the Wagner resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to permit women to vote passed the New York state senate. Senator Cullen of Brooklyn was the only senator to vote against the resolution, while forty were recorded in its favor.

SULZER'S HEALTH IS WORRYING HIS WIFE

Fearing Breakdown, She Summons His Physician.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25.—While Governor Sulzer insists that he is as well as ever, his physical condition is worrying his family, and Dr. John F. Crosby, who has been the governor's physician for some time, arrived in Albany to look the governor over.

Mrs. Sulzer is said to have been responsible for his visit. The physician said he feared that the governor's health might be seriously impaired by the strain he was working under.

Those who see the governor every day have noticed an increased nervousness of manner which has become very pronounced since the subway matter became acute.

Since his inauguration Governor Sulzer has seldom finished his work at the capitol before midnight, and his friends fear a nervous breakdown if he continues at the pace he has set.

Mr. Sulzer and his committee of inquiry made a personal inspection of the work of repairing the west wing of the capitol building, which was damaged by fire in 1911. The work is being done on a percentage basis. The governor's committee believe it would be to the interest of the state to cancel this arrangement and award a contract for the completion of the work, after competitive bidding.

SHOTS FIRED IN WAITERS' STRIKE

Wild Rioting In New York Hotel District.

POLICE USE CLUBS FREELY

Scores of Arrests Made—Three Hundred Bluecoats Sent Out at the First Sign of Trouble—Several Dining Rooms Closed.

New York, Jan. 25.—The hotel district—Broadway from Twenty-third to Fifty-ninth streets—was in a state of turmoil as a result of the waiters' strike. Shots were fired, bricks flew, clubs were wielded, glass was smashed, policemen and strikers were hurt, and arrests by the dozen were made.

At midnight about 2,500 or 3,000 waiters, cooks and bus boys were out. They had come from nearly every one of the prominent hotels and eating places. Several dining rooms were closed because of the absence of help. There was scarcely one that was not badly crippled.

At that hour the strikers were parading from place to place, calling to those still employed to lay down their trays and come out. Many did so. Many others promised they would join the strike as soon as they were through the night's work.

Wide Spread Is Threatened.

Leaders of the International Hotel Workers' union, among them Carlos Tresca and Miss Elizabeth G. Flynn (both of whom, by the way, were injured in one of the riots), said:

"By Saturday night at dinner time we will have 10,000 waiters on strike and there will not be half a dozen big hotels or restaurants able to serve food."

Members of the Hotel Men's association hearing this threat asserted that it was impossible of accomplishment. They had to admit, however, that the places of nearly all their members were badly crippled.

They were getting some strike breakers to take the places of the workers who quit, but they were having great difficulty, because the strikers adopted a new move—"picketing" the employment agencies and persuading or frightening away nonunion men who went there to get jobs.

Almost 300 extra policemen were mustered at the West Thirtieth street station soon after nightfall and were sent in groups of twos, fours and six's to points where trouble seemed likely to take place. They had their hands full all night. There are 500 on special strike duty today.

$2,000,000 STOLEN BY BROKERS' BOYS

Amazing Theft of Stamps In Financial District.

New York, Jan. 25.—That from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 worth of stolen stamps are being sold each year in New York, mostly in the financial district, to the very persons they are stolen from and hundreds of "fences" are making from $25 to $100 a day profit by this method of business was the statement made by Warren F. Dickinson chief postoffice inspector.

In small shops in Ann, Nassau and other streets in the financial district to all outward appearances conducted as picture post card shops and tobacco stores boys employed in the offices of big financial and commercial concerns bargain away the stamps they steal for spending money. These same boys when sent to the postoffice for stamps purchase back the same stamps, receiving a rebate.

Mingling with these boys are yeggmen fresh from a trip through the country where they have done a flourishing business in breaking into small postoffices. The postoffice inspectors have received evidence that is certain to bring indictments against the stamp brokers in a few days, Mr. Dickinson said.

The evidence against these men was obtained by Mr. Dickinson and five of his assistants following the arrest a short time ago of three postmasters in small towns near New York who were detected selling stamps to these fences. Through the confession of the postmasters Richard Fredericks, who is said to have done a business of $500,000 a year, and Irving Sevel have been held for receiving stolen goods by Judge Rosalsky in the court of general sessions.

IN WOMAN'S REALM

WHAT IS WORN.

Sapphires Are Popular Ornaments For Smart Women.

The sapphire is considered beauty's chief adornment this winter. Blue has prevailed so long in the affections of the well habited woman, and the sapphire reflects that wonderful blue which hints of Italian skies at night.

It harmonizes perfectly with the severely tailored suit or the exquisite dinner gown.

are simple and easily carried out. The corset cover is a straight one piece effect made with embroidered flouncing, and the petticoat is smooth fitting over the hips or with habit or inverted plait. A yoke also may be used.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the corset cover from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and for the petticoat from 22 to 32 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents each for the patterns to this office, giving numbers—corset cover 7612, petticoat 7577—and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MAPLE CANDIES.

THERE is nothing in the shape of candy more wholesome for the little ones than confections prepared with maple sugar.

No matter how simple these are, if perfectly fresh they are delicious. The boiled maple sirup may be run into fancy buttered tins to form all sorts of quaint figures. Tins of this sort, intended for small cakes, may be bought in the shops.

Delicious Confections.

Maple Caramels.—Here is a simple recipe for caramels: Take a pound of maple sugar and break it into pieces. Put the pieces into a pint of milk which is part cream and boil until it hardens when tested by dropping a little into cold water. Pour into buttered pans and mark into squares.

Maple Nut Taffy.—Take two pints of maple sugar and just enough water to dissolve the sugar. Boil until it will snap when dropped in cold water, add a tablespoonful of vinegar and pour over nut meats previously placed in buttered pans.

Simple, Yet Dainty.

Maple Fudge.—Take half a cup of granulated sugar, one and a half cupfuls of maple sugar and a cup of milk. Heat together, then add an ounce of grated chocolate and butter the size of an egg. Boil for about twenty minutes or until a little dropped in cold water will harden at once into a soft ball. Take from the fire and add a teaspoonful of vanilla and beat until it begins to thicken, then pour into greased tins and when cooling mark off into squares.

Like French Candy.

Cream Maples.—Take some fondant made for cream candies, work a little vanilla flavoring into it and form into balls the size of small marbles. Set these in a cool place to harden. Prepare the dipping fondant as follows: Put a cup of fine crushed maple sirup in a smooth, clean saucepan with a cupful of granulated sugar and three-quarters of a cupful of boiling water. Cook in same manner as white fondant, but do not let it stand. When done put a little in a tiny saucepan that will fit over the tea kettle (unless you have a tiny double boiler for the purpose). Stir the fondant as it melts and as soon as soft drop in a ball of the white fondant, roll it around quickly until entirely coated, then with a little wire candy dipper lift out quickly and lay on oiled paper, giving the dipper a little twirl to give that curl seen on "French bonbons."

FADS AND FASHIONS IN GAY NEW YORK

Some Hints of Interest to the Women As to What's the Latest In Styles.

New York, Jan. 25.—The fashioning of gowns is no longer a matter subject to set and rigid rules; it has become an art and only artists in their metier can ever hope to succeed in producing modern gowns and costumes that are really beautiful and becoming. Darts, gores and other devices for the shaping of garments are eliminated from fashionable toilettes of the present. A length of goods is draped about the figure to form the skirt, the fullness being lifted or lowered at will to form the drapery. Fabrics are neither cut nor sewn, but swathe the figure. They are often left open at the hem to reveal a glimpse of the ankles, and in the formation of the train there is no set rule. It may be at the back if it conveniently falls that way, but in some of the new draped forms the train goes off to the side.

The natural and beautiful lines of the body are retained in the fashions of today. In all of the new draped effects the skirt is close about the feet, and the fullness spreads just below the curve of the hips. This fullness is often placed in the form of hood-like or loop draperies hanging from the belt. Such a thing as a dart for fitting a skirt is at present unknown. If the material cannot be adjusted to the belt through the dropping down of a part of the fabric fullness it is laid in irregular pleats or gathered.

In the construction of the bodice quite as many new and extraordinary ideas prevail as in the skirt. The jackets and coats of the present also come in for their share of eccentricity in cut. They defy all rules, having seams where seams are least expected to be found, and having no seams where they have heretofore been found.

In the newest bodices and coats the underarm seam is lacking. The shaping is done by means of the shoulder seam, or through the application of a curving yoke which extends down to form the top of the sleeve. Unlike the kimono cut of the ordinary form, which had no shoulder seam or armhole seam, but did have an underarm seam, the new bodice now has no underarm seam, but has an armhole and a shoulder seam.

Sleeves for street wear are long. Many of the new separate waists, as well as simple costumes, have full-length sleeves and there are also many of the more dressy gowns with long sleeves. The kimono form has been retained to some extent, but it is the kimono set on to the drooping or extended shoulder and brought down into fitted form. There are a hundred variations of this style of sleeve, some of which are straight hanging, others flaring and open, and still others in the bell shape.

New evening skirts are slashed and cut up about the feet in all sorts of frivolous fashions, and yet such skirts do not appear the least out of the way when worn by a lady. The long lines and the openings disclose nothing save a dainty white or colored stocking, and stockings being in evidence this winter, now fill an important place in the wardrobe for both day and evening wear. Low shoes or, rather, slippers, are still worn for the street, and it is considered quite chic to put a pair of colored hose with a black slipper.

Women who go out a great deal in the evening, or those who put on evening dress for dinner, this winter are having several plain satin slips of white and various delicate dyes made, over which is to be slipped a tunic of net, mousseline, or tulle, embroidered, beaded or finished in pearl trimming. With such changes, a new gown is the effect all the time, while the expense is greatly reduced.

A practical scarf to be thrown over the shoulders at the opera or in a draughty ballroom is one of coarse lace edged with swansdown, the latter of white or any tone one wishes. The scarf is about a yard and a half long by half a yard wide, or it may be three-cornered in shape, all at the desire of the wearer. The effect is dainty, the lace is softening and enriching to no matter what colored toilet one wears, and the covering is just enough toc heer without heating the shoulders.

Many fashionable women still cling to the flat stole of swansdown. But this, while beautiful, is too warm, and removing it from the neck one is apt to take cold.

Fur continues to dominate for trimmings for evening wear. Nothing is prettier or softer, but for good effect only the real peltry looks well, while imitations look outrageously vulgar.

Colored gloves are to be much worn. They are shown in almost every color in which afternoon gowns and street suits are made, in all shades of red and blue, in green and every variety of tan and brown.

White lace kid gloves lined with pink or blue kid show heavy real lace in a turned back cuff over the colored lining.

Black and white gloves are also smart. Heavy white stitching shows on the back of black glace kid gloves which have big white rimmed, black centred pearl buttons and which show facings of white kid at the wrist.

White street gloves, on the other hand, show black stitching, a black wrist facing and black rimmed white pearl buttons. Black gloves with a pinked frill of white kid at the wrist are also in evidence.

Stockings in colors for wear with evening gowns are manufactured in almost every imaginable shade. If the exact shade of the slipper cannot be found, however, the stockings can be dyed to the shade desired. Some stocking dealers make a specialty of doing this dyeing in a few hours' time.

Silver-beaded black dull kid slippers are popular for house wear. They are made with half a dozen little cut-out straps across the instep. On almost all low shoes, street shoes and house and evening slippers buckles of some sort are displayed. The variety of brilliant buckles for evening wear is almost endless. Street and house shoes are adorned with leather and suede-covered buckles and buckles of gun metal, silver and gilt, either chased or plain.

Black and white as a faddish combination affects even the realm of footwear. Black and white house shoes of corded silk, the stripes about an eighth of an inch in width, are among the newest shoes. These shoes are really very striking when worn with a black and white house frock.

Attractive small hats for the spring are made entirely of roses or other small flowers. Soft straw and mousseline is so worked that it is impossible to tell which is straw and which is mousseline or ribbon. The brims of these little hats are jaunty and narrow.

Sashes of bright-colored velvet are edged with small silk or satin roses and give a pretty effect.

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS.

Conducted by the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

EDITOR
MRS. E. F. FEICKERT.

After careful investigation and consideration, the Board of Trustees of the League has decided that the most pressing need today in the Plainfield crusade against tuberculosis is an Open-Air School for anaemic children. A site for such a school has been purchased, on Muhlenberg place in probably the most congested residence section of the city, and arrangements are under way for having the pavilion formerly used for the treatment of tuberculosis cases, which is now located on the grounds of the hospital, moved and converted into such a school.

The league, therefore, now desires to appeal to the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield for co-operation and help. The physicians most actively interested in local anti-tuberculosis work all agree that there are dozens of children now attending the regular schools who would be immensely benefitted by special care during their study hours. The school will be planned so that all its class-rooms will be practically outdoors, although sheltered from the most severe weather and high winds. Special clothing will be provided for the scholars, so that they will always be thoroughly warm, and one or two simple meals will be served to them during the day.

This sort of work is not experimental. It has been tried out all over the country, and two such schools in our own State, in Montclair and Orange respectively, have proved so successful that the Board of Education has taken them over and made them part of the regular school work.

Every good citizen of Plainfield and North Plainfield is asked to help in this work. Membership in the league costs only one dollar a year, and over five hundred of the league's seven hundred members only contribute this amount, the remaining two hundred members giving from two to two hundred dollars apiece annually. All people who are willing to become members of the league and help in its splendid work, are asked to send their names to Mrs. William H. Murray, chairman of the membership committee, 737 Watchung avenue, and checks for the amount which they will subscribe annually may be sent either to Mrs. Murray or to James P. Murray, treasurer, also at 737 Watchung avenue.

A Plainfield physician who is doing a great deal for the Anti-Tuberculosis work contributes the following interesting article on local conditions.

The endless questions, "Why do we need an Open-Air School?" "Why do we need a Tuberculosis Clinic?" and above all "Why does the league need money?" may be best answered indirectly by telling of a few actual cases, indicating the treatment needed and leaving the reader to form his own conclusions. Some minor details in the instances given are altered to prevent identification, but none of the essential features.

A woman, not over thirty years of age, with five children, has an acute form of tuberculosis, and is in desperate physical condition. The children are from two to ten years of age, and so not very efficient as regards housekeeping. The youngest is quite ill with an intestinal disorder. The father's wages are just about enough for a bare substance under ordinary conditions, but cannot meet the demands of illness.

What is to be done?

Send the sick child to the children's ward at the hospital; put the others in a home, sending two that are anaemic to the Open-Air School (if you will contribute the money to open it); let the mother go to Bonnie Burn to make a good battle for life, with a few things at last on her side; and last but not least, call in the Board of Health to disinfect the house and its contents.

Of course, not all of the things advised can be done in Plainfield, and probably in this case nothing will be done until death solves the problem, because the mother cannot bear to let the children out of her sight, and the father wants to hold the home together. So these little human creatures play about, alone and neglected, on the edge of a physical and moral abyss.

What does this case teach us? It shows that ignorance and obstinacy still withstand the progress of the crusade against the Great White Plague, exposing the innocent to infection and leaving the community a focus from which the contagion may spread. It shows why someone should be delegated to deal with such cases, even if the cases do not want to be dealt with, just as the proper authorities now deal with scarlet fever or diphtheria. It also shows that an Open-Air School is needed, for the predisposed—those pale, poorly nourished children who are becoming ripe for infection with tuberculosis.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—The breach of promise suit brought by Gertrude W. Hassler against Carl G. Fisher, millionaire automobile manufacturer and builder of the great motor racing speedway which has made Indianapolis famous, was called in the superior court today. The trial, which is expected to get under way next week, promises to attract wide attention because of the wealth and prominence of the defendant and the character of the evidence that the plaintiff's attorneys are expected to introduce. Mrs. Hassler is suing for $500,000. Attorneys for Mr. Fisher deny all the allegations contained in her complaint.

ENOUGH TO MAKE ANY COP "TIRED"

"MAC" SAYS

Something is bound to happen at Hope chapel tonight when the Ajax and Hope chapel basketball fives come together in their second clash of the season. Ajax got away with the initial set-to, but the wearers of the blue and red are hot on the trail of the second.

Nobody was killed in the Company K game at the theatre last night! The soldier boys must have been so far in the lead that they didn't need to waste the ammunition.

Basketball on the stage does not seem to agree with "Cutie" Glover, the husky Ajax guard. The reason he played so well was because he played "Good."

An audience of the fair sex in front of a basketball court and on a lowel level is enough to put any player on the blink, but the teams last night were more than effected by the cries for more baskets.

P. H. S. added another victory to its string yesterday afternoon. When the Upsala team came on the floor one of the local school boys was heard to say something about janitors, doctors, hospitals, etc., but soon after the contest started, aggressiveness ever-ruled weight.

A North Plainfield High School feminine delegation witnessed the game between the Springfield and Plainfield High School girls yesterday afternoon. The P. H. S. contingent would like to know why.

SPORTING SQUIBS

Jim Thorpe, the greatest of all athletes, is a professional, according to Charles Clancy, manager of the Winston-Salem baseball club of the Carolina Association. Clancy says Thorpe played professional baseball two years. Clancy said: "I signed Thorpe up as a pitcher." But the baseball man is not specific as to the time of Thorpe's alleged transgression from the ranks of amateurism.

C. Webb Murphy, president of the Chicago National League club, was in Cincinnati yesterday and conversed with Miller Huggins, new manager of Mrs. Robinson's Cardinals in an endeavor to obtain by trade or sale both First Baseman Konetchy and Pitcher Sallee, of St. Louis.

Pitcher Louis Drucke, who was a member of the Toronto International League pennant winners last year, was released outright by the New York Giants yesterday to the Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast League.

Manager Clark Griffith, of the Washington American League baseball team, has planned to have the regular members of the 1913 team see the inauguration of President-elect Wilson as the guests of the club management.

Hugh Bedient, the Red Sox pitcher, whose brilliant work was one of the sensations of the last world's series, sent in his signed contract for next year. Bedient is the only member of the world's champions' regular pitching staff to agree to terms so far.

that Dooin is prepared to talk trade with Johnny Evers, manager of the Cubs, provided the latter is reasonable.

Manager Connie Mack, of the Athletics, has received the signed contracts of John "Stuffy" McInnis, the diminutive first baseman, and of two recruits, Pitcher Taff and Outfielder Stevenson. Connie has not yet heard from Frank Baker, the only member of the $100,000 infield who has not signed up.

William H. Locke resigned on Wednesday as secretary of the Pittsburgh National League Club to take up his new duties with the Philadelphia club of the same league. Leslie H. Constans, assistant secretary, succeeded Mr. Locke as secretary of the Pirates.

Mike Donlin and Manager Charles Dooin, of the Phillies, have come to terms, and Sir Michael affixed his signature to a contract, which contract, it is said, will call for $3,500 for the season.

Shortstop Bush, of the Detroit American League Club, has signed his 1913 contract.

WITH THE BOXERS

Joe Rivers and Frankie Russell have been signed to box in New Orleans Jan. 31.

Champion featherweight Johnny Kilbane and Charley White, of Chicago, will meet in an eight-round bout at Omaha, Neb., Feb. 7.

Manager Emil Thiry is figuring on taking Packey McFarland to London in the Spring for some theatrical work and a fight with Freddie Welsh.

Fred Delaney, the English boxer, who performed in this country a few months ago, has challenged Freddie Welsh to box him for the English lightweight title.

Promoter Tom McCarey is offering a diamond belt to the winner of the battle between Kid Williams and Eddie Campi which is scheduled for Los Angeles Feb. 22.

Tom Jones is anxious to become the manager of Jess Willard and has offered Charley Cutler, Willard's present manager, $2,500 to release Willard from his contract. Cutler refuses to side-step.

BASEBALL NOTES

Golf is a new method of baseball training which will be used at the White Sox camp in California this Spring.

No less than eleven men are associated with Billy Locke in the ownership of the Philadelphia National League Club.

Rumors are still floating around the circuits of the big leagues that the Cleveland club intends to trade Larry Lajoie.

Pitcher Raymond Krepps, of the Tufts College nine, dnies the report that he had signed a contract to play with the Athletics.

Jake Stahl says he intends to play first base for the Champion Red Sox next season unless one of the recruits beats him out of the job.

Pitcher "King" Cole, who was a sensation with the Cubs a couple of years ago, has signed to pitch for a Chicago semi-professional team next season.

Bob Harmon, the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, is in vaudeville doing his ragtime violin specialty. His alibi is that vaudeville patrons stand for Rube Marquard.

Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, has closed his theatrical engagement and is now busy making arrangements for the Giants' training work at Marlin, Texas.

Fred Burchell, former Boston pitcher and present manager of the Syracuse team, had a narrow escape from death by drowning recently, at Cross Lake, New York.

Manager Fred Clarke plans an early start in Spring training for the Pittsburgh Pirates. He has ordered all his pitchers and catchers to report at West Baden on March 2.

Should Cy Young sign with the Atlantic club the Crackers would have in the veteran pitcher and catcher Lew McAllister the oldest battery in organized baseball.

Charley Frank, president-manager of the New Orleans club, has been a manager in the Southern League for thirteen years and in that time he has won four pennants and has always kept his team in the first division.

RACING AT CHARLESTON.

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 25.—The Charleston Fair and Racing Association began its winter racing season this afternoon, when the gates at Palmetto Park were opened for a five-five day meeting. Nearly 800 thoroughbreds are now quartered at the track, and applications for additional stable room are being received daily. Gathered here are many of the best known owners and jockeys of America. Nineteen stakes, with an aggregate value of about $50,000, will be decided during the meet, the most notable among them being the Palmetto Derby, which will be run on March 29, the closing day of the season.

GREAT BASKETBALL CARD FOR TONIGHT

Individual and Team Records of Teams Due to Clash On Hope Chapel Court.

One of the greatest basketball games of the season is due to be pulled off at Hope chapel tonight with the Y. M. C. A. Ajax and the Hope chapel five as the participants. The previous meeting of these two aspirants for the city championship resulted in a victory for the Y. M. C. A. players, but since that meeting the Hope contingent has struck a winning stride and has not been defeated. Records go to show that the Hope team has won twelve games and the only defeat encountered was administered by the Ajax, while their opponents of tonight have struck three reverses and romped home victors in eleven games.

Individual scoring records also seem to be slightly in favor of the Chapelites, three of their players having passed the century mark in point scores, while the Ajax have but one player in that position and he has just an even one hundred. It is a well known fact that the Ajax have been slipping since their game with the N. P. H. S. Alumni but appeared to have picked up some of the lost ground at Scotch Plains two weeks ago when they brought home a win after two successive defeats. Hope chapel, on the other hand, has plastered every other aggregation it has stacked up against with the exception of the Ajax and they intend to acomplish this fact tonight by treating the association players to a trouncing. The Ajax are equally as confident, and although the team has not played together for nearly two weeks, all of the players have been engaging in more or less basketball and are in fit condition to tackle any proposition.

No matter which team wins the game tonight, it is bound to be a corking good contest and the winner will have to put up a superior article of the indoor game. If Hope chapel wins, it will necessitate another game being played to decide the championship and if the Ajax are fortunate enough to take a plus score away from the Hope court, they will be acknowledged as city champions. A record of the two teams that will oppose each other is compiled below with the team and individual scoring records to date.

WHO IS THE STATE FOOTBALL CHAMPION?

Nash Says That the Dexters, of Perth Amboy, Were Indignant.

Jim Nash, the local athlete and Leal School boy, took a trip to Perth Amboy last Saturday afternoon to visit his old schoolmates in the town where he formerly lived and starred in athletics of every branch. Nash is well known in Perth Amboy and when he attended the Riverside-Michelin basketball game at the Auditorium sporting the Holy Cross football medal with the words "Champions of New Jersey" inscribed on it, he was immediately surrounded by a group of those interested in Perth Amboy's gridiron achievements.

The Amboy athletes expressed surprise and a little indignation at the thought of a Plainfield team claiming such exalted honors and they informed Nash that the Dexters, of Perth Amboy, had laid claim to the same honors and the local boy made his exit through a riotous mob of excited Amboy students.

At any rate both teams are claiming the championship of New Jersey in football. The teams in the neighborhood of Paterson have not been considered by either of the claimants. The football season is over and it is unlikely that the hatchet will be uncovered and more games played despite the pleasing weather. So that the only supremacy which can be decided at present is through matter of argument.

The Holy Cross have many points in their favor, the greatest of which is that they defeated the Vikings, one of the strongest teams that up State football has known. They have also victories against the elevens from Elizabeth and thereabouts.

On the other hand the Dexters have not been scored on. They walloped—not alone trimmed—the only teams they did meet from New Jersey and never were scored on. Not alone were they never scored on but not once did a team ever claim that a "raw" deal kept them from scoring. But these are not the strong parts of the Dexter claim. Practically all the strength of argument can be placed in the statement of Manager John Seel that he tried to arrange for a game with the Holy Cross and that it was through the Plainfield team's unwillingness that the game for supremacy was not staged.

Manager Seel did not refuse to stage the game in Plainfield, he states. However, he asked as much a guarantee for staging the game in this city as he offered the Holy Cross to have the battle played in Perth Amboy. This no doubt sounds reasonable to any unbiased judge. Therefore Amboy fandom believes that the claim of the Holy Cross does not compare in strength with that of the Dexters, who are the conceded champs of Middlesex county and who also cleaned up the best on Staten Island.

It is an easy matter to have "champions" inscribed upon a fob, say several of the Dexters, but some real strong claim should be given for supporting the action. The Dexters believe they have more right to support the title than have the Holy Cross.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TROUNCED UPSALA

Easy Victory Encountered By P. H. S. Basket Cagers Yesterday Afternoon.

Aggressiveness once more asserted its superiority over weight on the Plainfield High School court yesterday afternoon, when the heavy Upsala quintet went down before the P. H. S. boys for the overwhelming count of 51 to 18. Loose guarding coupled with their speedy team work gave the local players a chance to run up a big advantage in the first period and many substitutes were called into the game in the final half.

The Upsala team appeared to be completely lost on the local court and the eight field goals that they secured were all made from difficult angles. All of the local players took a hand in the scoring and many of the regulars ran up high individual marks during the course of their afternoon's work.

CO. K QUINTET BEATS JOLLY FIVE

Thompson's Boiler Makers Drive Rivets Into Opponents In Tragedy.

In a game featured by the work of Nolan, Glover and Good Company K basketball players defeated the Jolly five last night at the Plainfield theatre by a score of 39 to 19. The game, which was the second that has been staged as an "added attraction" in the playhouse, proved to be one of the most interesting encounters from the spectators' standpoint ever contested on local courts. Although the floor was several yards shorter than the regulations admit and the playing of the men was therefore hampered in a large part, enough team wrok was in evidence to create the impression that the men were in fighting trim and groomed for a "finish" scrap. To a critic, however, the players on both squads appeared to be in poor form and several were exhausted before half-time was called.

The game was a farce as far as any team work was concerned. This was undoubtedly because of the short court. The players were content to put up an individual rather than a unified play. On occasions, and not infrequently, the basket was the target for throws down the entire length of the floor. At times when such plays were attempted an attacking man was immediately beneath the ring and a shot to such a player would have been as good as a brace of points, but the men threw caution to the winds and passed wildly and ineffectually. Captain Thompson, the leader of the Front street sharpshooters, was one of the chief offenders in this respect. But this may be accounted for, in part at least, for the reason that the player was suffering from injuries received in the Company K-Company M Cadets game last week. His condition forced a retirement after the first period.

"Cutie" Glover, who succeeded Thompson at center, put up a scrappy game against Good. The P. H. S. pivot man starred yesterday afternoon in the local "prep" school game easily outclassed soldier Thompson but he ran up against a snag in Glover, the former boiler maker. Nolan played a star game for Company K. He left his position as defender on no less than eight occasions to register sparkling baskets. His all-around efforts was the feature of the night's play. Seal played well on the offence but Darling could not locate the basket for an effective work, due possibly to the injuries received in the game against the Company M. Cadets. Good was not quite good enough to withstand the combined play of the soldiers. He composed eight-tenths of the attack and defence which was put up by the Jolly five.

Wittnebert, the Company M. Cadet player, who was knocked out over six hours as a result of colliding with Seal last week, was on the sideline in the capacity of chief scorer. Gennerich's speedly defensive tumbling tactics amused a large audience. The theatre games have every indication of being regular features. They have surely been a success so far. The score:

The Here and There of CUBA'S TOBACCO INDUSTRY

Typical Cigarette Girls of Havana

A Room in One of the Large Cigar Factories in Havana

A Field of Tobacco

THE word "tobacco" is Indian and is derived from the name of an island in the Lesser Antilles called Taboga, where the plant grows in wild profusion. The first mention of its use in history occurs in the diary kept by Christopher Columbus on the first voyage. Under the date of Tuesday, November 6, 1492, Columbus relates how two men he had sent into an inland district, which is now Oriente Province of Cuba, in the course of their reconnoitre met men and women "smoking herbs." Later it was discovered that aboriginal Indians whom the Spanish found inhabiting the islands of the West Indies used tobacco in their religious ceremonies. Its smoke was the incense with which the priests accompanied their prayers to the gods. It was also learned that they sometimes sprinkled the heads of their idols with snuff or powdered tobacco. The medicine men stupefied themselves with this herb when they consulted oracles in divination, and by it they cured the sick in medical practice. The process of inhaling the smoke through the nostrils is mentioned in several accounts of their ceremonies and according to one authority special tables covered with lighted tobacco were placed before their idols.

Las Cacas when he came to write in his history of the Indies, using for his authority the diary of Columbus, explains how the Indians smoked a sort of rude cigar which they made and called "Tabaccos"—a name still used in Cuba. "I knew," Las Cacas adds, "Spaniards who smoked, and when they were reproved for it and told that it was a vice said they could not leave it off. I do not know what pleasure or profit they got out of it." It seems singular that this "vice" originating with the Indians should prove one of the richest sources of revenue for the Island through the fondness of the civilized world for the use of this same plant.

The plant is extremely delicate, being sensitive to cold or heat, to drought or rain, and even to the direction of the winds. From October, when the plants are usually taken from the seed beds and transplanted, until March, when the cutting or harvesting begins, is an anxious period of constant watchfulness and care to the grower. Even after the tobacco is cut and is hanging on the polls in the drying barn in the first curing process the danger is not entirely past. During this time the leaves change from a vivid green to different shades of brown. These colors are carefully sorted and packed into separate bales before the crop is shipped to the factories in Havana—famous throughout the world for the incomparable cigars which they turn out.

The tobacco is kept in a well ventilated warehouse near the factory until it is needed, and during this time curing continues—usually about two years. When the leaf tobacco is received in the factory the bales are opened up and the leaf sprayed with clean, pure water; then it is repacked in the bales (the leaves being spread out) for several hours until the leaves become pliant so each one can be opened without tearing or breaking. It is then selected and graded according to its strength, size, color, etc. After this selecting, the leaf intended to be used as fillers is placed in barrels with ample openings at the sides and top for ventilation, evaporation and further curing. This process takes from two to six weeks, according to the different grades of leaf, and is watched daily by experts. When the leaf is entirely ripe it is sent to the factory to be rolled into cigars. As fast as they are rolled they are passed to the foreman or inspector of the factory, who carefully examines each cigar, after which they are placed in the "escarpartes" or seasoned cedar bins. All "rejections" are packed separately and sold as such. The acceptable cigars remain in these bins until orders are received from the shipping department, when they are passed to the selectors, who in separate rooms at polished tables under a north light assort the cigars into various colors and shades (about thirty), rejecting any one imperfectly made. Afterward they are sent to the label girls, who put a band around each cigar. It costs one Havana firm alone nearly a quarter of a million dollars a year for cigar bands. After "banding" the cigars are put up in lots of twenty-five, fifty and one hundred and placed in boxes ready to be shipped throughout the world.

The factories of Havana employ thousands of persons—one alone giving work to three thousand cigar makers. The rooms where these men work are especially interesting, for rolling a cigar properly requires no little skill. In this room are men who as boys served a long apprenticeship to learn the rudiments and fundamentals of cigar making and who have steadily improved and gained in skill in making the same size and shape cigar all the time. A number of the workers have made the same type of cigar every working day for twenty years. Some of these men are really artists in their work. The cigar maker is given his filler and wrappers (the former weighed and the latter counted) and under his expert hands the material is made to assume one of the hundred shapes in which Havana cigars are put on the market. His only tool is a sharp cigar maker's knife, with which he trims the wrapper to meet his requirements, and he selects by his eye and his cultivated sense of touch just enough material to make the cigar exactly the proper length, and, more difficult still, the right amount to preserve the absolutely uniform thickness of the particular size on which he is working. Since the color and texture of wrapper leaves cannot be controlled by the grower to any appreciable extent, it is impossible to supply the modern demand for light color wrappers—a demand based entirely upon the erroneous idea that the color of the wrapper is an index of the strength of the cigar. While it is true to a limited extent that the color of the wrapper affects the strength, representing as it does only a small part of the whole cigar, it is only reasonable to state that this factor is of minor importance, the real strength depending upon the class of tobacco used in the filler. If, for example, a cigar carrying the blend intended for the United States market, where heavy-bodied cigars are not in demand, should be given a dark wrapper the strength would not be noticeably affected, although so great is the power of suggestion that the cigar would not sell, consequently, as far as possible, the cigars shipped to the United States have light colored wrappers.

The workmen of each factory organize and elect a president, secretary and treasurer. A reader is employed to read aloud to the men several hours each day. This "entertainer's" salary is from thirty to sixty dollars per week, the amount being collected by the treasurer from the workmen—usually fifteen cents from each man. The reader must be a man of intelligence, as he is often called upon to make comments and explanations on certain articles in the newspapers, for a part of each day is spent in listening to the news of the day. One of the most popular "readers" fills a place on the editorial staff of a local paper when he is not engaged at the factory. A prominent member of the Cuban Senate is said to have been a factory reader only a few years ago. Books, too, are read, and these are selected by the men by vote. Don Quixote is a prime favorite, and in one factory Quo Vadis was highly appreciated. Reading aloud several hours a day is a strain on the throat and frequently the reader must rest for several days, during which time he employs a substitute. This institution, strange as it may seem to American eyes, works well for both employer and employee. The Spanish race invariably illustrate their conversation by a free use of their hands, and as cigar making is a work of the hand and not of the brain it becomes monotonous unless there is something to employ the mind. Naturally the men would talk, make gestures with their hands, and few cigars would be made. The reader gives the workmen something to occupy his mind, and the work goes on in almost absolute silence, except for the voice of the reader. The workmen in this manner become well informed on current events and on some of the best literature of the day. The idea originated with Saturnino Martinez, a poet about twenty-seven years ago. In one instance the owners of a factory decided to discontinue it, and there was almost a riot among the workmen until the old custom was revived.

The cigarette factories, too, are interesting from the fact that hundreds of girls make their living in the manufacture of the millions of Cuban cigarettes consumed each year. These workers vary from children of twelve to women of fifty. Some of them are exceedingly pretty, although there are few who bear any resemblance to Carmen as she is pictured by our operatic stars. Others are slovenly and are incessant smokers. The tobacco used for cigarettes is stored on the top floor of the factory, and its odor is so strong that the visitor can only remain in the rooms there for a few moments. Several floors are given over to the different processes of cigarette making. The machine has practically superseded hand labor, although certain branches of the trade still demand hand-made cigarettes. Nearly all the work in these factories is done by women, who roll, tip and pack the cigarettes. They usually come to work in their gayest clothes, especially during the carnival season. The Queen of Havana's Carnival is always from these workers, being selected by popular vote of the cigarette girls of the city.

The whole process of cigar and cigarette making from the growth of the tobacco until it comes out a finished product is interesting anywhere, but especially so in Cuba on account of its vastness and the great number of people employed in the industry.

Four Alaskan Beauties ©F.H. HOWELL

ONLY a few Esquimos have been brought to the United States but in reality they are among the most interesting people on our continent. Those who have not had much contact with the whites still remain honest, truthful and simple. The way the whalers and gold seekers in the extreme north have treated them is a blot on our civilization. A few men who have labored among them have tried to better the condition of those who have been deprived of the fish they needed for food and the game that they ate and skins they used for clothing, dwellings and boats. Until the advent of the white man they never lacked for supplies of this nature but after he came with his superior weapons these poor people began to suffer for necessities. It was on this account the reindeer were introduced into the far north and their story makes interesting reading. They have not only been a blessing to the Esquimos but they are about the only foreign animal that we have domesticated with success. Camels were a failure in the great American desert but the Bureau of Education—for the reindeer industry is under this part of the government—has made a success of the reindeer industry.

Dr. Sheldon Jackson, who worked for many years among the natives around the Artic Circle, was the first to suggest that they might be benefited by supplying them with reindeer; and on the whole, his policy was far reaching and wise. It took him sometime to convince people that the moss on which the wild Alaskan reindeer lived was the same that nourished the Siberian animals, but after a while friends raised over two thousand dollars to import some reindeer to this country. Even with this money difficulties arose for the Siberians did not care to sell and as they had no use for cash it was necessary to supply articles to use for barter. Then, he and a companion were obliged to coast over fifteen hundred miles along Siberia and to stop at many villages before they could obtain animals. They returned with sixteen, all that they could buy, for the Siberians were afraid that if they sold to Alaska they would no longer be able to exchange deer skins in exchange for oil.

The success in getting sixteen animals encouraged Congress to appropriate several thousand dollars for an industrial reindeer school near Bering Strait. Siberian herders were imported to show the natives how to care for and raise the animals and later a colony of Lapps were brought over from Northern Europe. It took sometime, however, to convince people that the reindeer were adapted to our extreme north, though as a matter of fact, we have a vast area of tundra and moss adapted to these animal's sustenance, and those who have been instrumental in bringing reindeer have often suggested that it would be a profitable business for some capitalist. The flesh is excellent and much like venison and the hides are well adapted to many purposes.

This importation of Laplanders was an original and daring venture. A whole ship was chartered for them when they came over and there was a miscellaneous assortment of Lapland men and women, reindeer, dogs, queer clothing and thousands of bags of moss for fodder. Uncle Sam received a delegation that attracted attention everywhere for the men were dressed in great fur coats with red borders, their trousers were of fur, four cornered red hats covered their heads and their moccasins were tipped with red flannel. The women wore in addition many rings and bracelets, but lacked the huge knives which the masculine element deemed necessary. Unfortunately, the reindeer died after crossing our continent but this was not surprising for they had a long voyage to New York, another hard trip across the United States and a journey of several days by water after they reached Seattle. The Lapps, however, were so much impressed with the trip and our country that they decided to remain.

In the meanwhile the few reindeer that we had were carefully tended and had increased. They had also taken part in some notable expeditions for rescue, the most daring of which was the saving of some starving sailors who were caught in the ice near Bering Straits. Eight whaling ships were imprisoned and four hundred seamen were without food, nor was there any prospect of help until the ice moved in the spring. No boats could get near nor could provisions be taken overland. The reindeer were not near but were the only possible means of help so the government sent a revenue cutter as far as it could go, landed men, dog teams and reindeer and after three months the whaler was reached and the men rescued. All this was accomplished in the dead of an Artic winter and through a country which was never before traveled by white men.

This rescue alone was enough to convince us that we ought to obtain more deer. And the lieutenant of the revenue cutter who did such good work in the case of the imprisoned whaler was sent to Siberia to obtain a larger deer than we possessed. With men under him as assistants he landed on the Siberian shore, went into the interior, bartered, and after enduring many hardships came back with two hundred immense animals which were enough to found the present reindeer industry. They are now used in connection with the postal service, trips around the Arctic Circle are made with them and they are useful in innumerable ways.

The color of the fur is usually seal brown and rich in appearance. It is soft, glossy and pliable. When Dr. Jackson first brought the animals the natives were obtaining skins with great difficulty, sometimes from Siberia and rarely from a wild reindeer, but today the imported animals furnish the skins for the main part of the Equimos' "Sunday go-to-meetin'" dress. Clothing, however, is only one thing these animals furnish for they solve the problem of transportation to and from stations and mining camps. It is remarkable what one of these animals averaging two hundred and fifty pounds in weight can do. It can haul immense loads over frozen snow and succeed well even on light snow. They are somewhat like oxen, sure-footed, slow and safe. Thirty miles a day is a fair average with a load resting on the shoulders.

These gentle creatures are about two years old when broken to the harness and they are often used for hauling as well as for burden bearers. They are somewhat awkward to ride as the riders feet almost touch the ground. They are often driven two abreast and the harness is of the simplest—usually a head stall, breast strap and belly band. One jerk line is used by a driver who walks by the side of the load and sometimes several loads follow in succession, the sledges being provided with a reindeer who follows the first load. The males do the hauling.

Horses have never been a great success in this country because of the difficulty in obtaining food for them in winter. In fact, men have been accused of turning their horses out to die of cold and starvation when the long, cold season advanced. Because of the scarcity of food supply for animals the reindeer are invaluable. They pick their own fodder by pawing the snow and they even eat the snow for water. All the herder does is to lasso them to a frozen mound of earth and they take care of themselves. So far there have been three classes of reindeer stations, Government missions where herds are loaned and an equal number eventually returned, and relief herds which are stationed at suitable points for emergency purposes. But there is one great misfortune. Though they were originally brought over for the Esquimos there is only a small per cent. owned by these natives. The Lapps and other inhabitants are more fortunate. Many reasons are given for this, one being the reluctance of the Esquimo to leave home and a herder must go with his flock far away from the villages.

The Laplanders are paid to show the natives how to make sledges and halters and the Esquimos in turn instruct them how to make their wonderful skin boats that have no seams and fishing tackle. They also can be made to show the "Lapps" how to make dog harnesses, for the natives have the peculiar Esquimo dog for hauling. They used him before the reindeer came and still employ him for many purposes. These dogs are part wolf, they look like wolves, never bark and have the wolf nose. Their fur is so thick that they seem to enjoy lying and sleeping in the snow. The "huskies" are so strong that six or eight of them hitched together can haul a heavy load and cover many miles a day. Hitched, one after the other, they pull with fierce energy and howl in concert if they cannot get started. They have the advantage of living on fish but to do this it is necessary to have fish constitute a good share of the load.

JOVIAL HERMIT LIVES NEAR HERE

"John-the-Baptist" Dwells Alone in the Washington Valley Near Springdale.

HE EKES OUT A LIVING

An Industrious Chap Who Fishes, Hunts, Raises Vegetables, Chops Wood and Acts As Guide—Has Two Treasures.

This is a story of pseudo-hermit, a hermit merely in the sense that he lives alone. That is, he lives alone without other human companions to share his hut, but he has plenty of other companions. This hermit dwells in Washington Valley, near the small town of Springdale, which is some miles over the mountains north of this city. He goes by the name of John-the-Baptist. The name was given him, presumably, because he lives in the wilderness. It was surely not because he bears any physical resemblance to the Biblical character of that name for cheir is nothing Semitic in the appearance of this hermit. His true name is John Thamens.

John is an industrious soul and mainly supports himself in summer by a small garden he has cleared in the forest, and in winter by hunting and trapping. He is an ardent fisherman and has an enviable collection of fish lines made of braided horse hair. To these lines he has attached sinkers made from a piece of lead pipe and carved in beautiful and intricate designs. Not that fish bite any better on such tackle, but that John is an artist in his way and loves things of beauty. When not in use these lines are wound on beautifully carved blocks made from the heart of red cedar. John's fishing grounds are the Green Brook to the south and Dead River, a tributary of the Passaic, to the north. Sometimes he goes farther afield and he never fails to return with a glistening string of brook fish. On one of these occasions he brought back with him a number of brook trout, which he placed in a little spring that furnishes him with his water. These little fish, though naturally timid, have become very tame and feed readily from his hand. He always exercises great care in dipping his water lest inadvertently he should boil one in his coffee.

This spring of John's is in a sheltered nook, and when all the watercourses of the neighborhood are frozen over still remains open. Here belated woodcock on their way South stop to feed. Though this hermit is a hunter these birds are never molested, but are welcomed kindly, as are all other dumb visitors. The denizens of the woods seem to know this for they never seem so plentiful or so tame as in this dell. Near the hut is a barrel in which are confined a number of large snapping turtles. These are being fattened, later to be transformed into delicious soup.

In a store-room are the products of the garden kept for winter fare—potatoes, turnips, cabbages, pumpkins, celery, squashes and a species of Indian or Kentucky beans. Of these beans John is very fond. They grow on a vine, and the vine is pulled and hung to the rafters, the beans drying in the pod. He also raises and cures his own tobacco—a species of Indian tobacco which he mixes with birch and other barks. In a corncob pipe this makes a delightfully cool smoke, and gives off a fragrant odor of incense.

In the winter time he acts as guide for hunters, and for this purpose has seventeen trained rabbit and "coon" hounds. When not hunting or otherwise engaged with his favorite pursuits, he puts in his time as a prosaic wood-chopper. He utilizes in this occupation a unique contrivance whereby a cross-cut saw can be worked by one man. With this implement he is able to cut as much wood as two ordinary choppers with axes. His two treasured possessions are this instrument and his gun.

REV. A. A. PFANSTIEHL'S FAREWELL AS PASTOR

Somerville, Jan. 27.—Rev. A. A. Pfanstiehl preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning as pastor of the Second Reformed church, and that edifice was filled to its capacity. In the afternoon he delivered his farewell address to the members of the Men's Bible Fellowship class, which he organized soon after commencing his ministry here. A feature of this service was the presentation to the retiring pastor of a handsome gold watch. The presentation speech was made by former Mayor Kenyon, who has been the president of the class since its organization. The pastor feelingly responded, and thanked the members for the splendid token. The watch is suitably inscribed.

THESE REVIVALS BROUGHT SOME GOOD RESULTS

The two weeks' revival services at the Temple Baptist church were concluded yesterday afternoon, when Rev. Frederick W. Hagar, assistant pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, was the special speaker. As a result of his talk more than twenty young people signified a desire to lead a Christian life. During his talk, Mr. Hagar told many pathetic stories in connection with his ministry in New York, and the large audience seemed to be deeply impressed.

The service ended with a season of silent prayer. Rev. E. C. Conover, the pastor, and L. W. Randolph, superintendent of the Sunday school, assisted at the meeting. As a result of the revival a large number of persons accepted Christ and have expressed a wish to unite with the church.

BEAVERS IS READY TO SURRENDER FOR BANK THEFT

Highbridge, N. J., Jan. 27.—Abraham L. Beavers, the missing cashier of the First National bank of this place, has not yet surrendered himself, and no action will be taken against him until later. Meanwhile United States Bank Examiner Fowler and his men are analyzing the bank accounts, seeking to learn how much more is gone than the $82,000 embezzled, according to the cashier's own confession. The bonds abstracted to cover margins may run the sum up far beyond the original figure.

The report that Beavers was about to surrender was denied, while United States Commissioner Stockton at Newark said that any such surrender would be followed by an immediate commitment to jail should any complaint be made. Beavers' counsel, ex-Governor Voorhees, hastened to explain that his client was in no sense a fugitive from justice, but was merely in "seclusion."

FORMER FULTON, N. Y., RESIDENTS' REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. LaPorte Entertain Old Friends At a Dinner Party.

A part of school friends and former residents of Fulton, N. Y., were entertained at dinner Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. LaPorte in Jackson avenue. The table was decorated in purple and gold, the colors of the class of '85, Fulton Academy, three of whose members, Francis G. Coates, of New York; Frederick G. Lasker, of Brooklyn, formerly of this city, and Alfred E. LaPorte, were present.

The place cards were picture postals of familiar scenes in Fulton and led to the recital of many reminiscences of school days. The guests in addition to those already mentioned were the Misses Mayme Breads, Helen Osborne and M. Josephine Skillings, of Washington School, this city, graduates of and former teachers in the Fulton school; Mr. and Mrs. Albert N. LaPorte, of Springfield, Mass.; Mrs. F. G. Lasher, Miss A. M. RUMP BOARD CHECKS PROMPTLY HONORED

Bonnie Burn and Court House Employes Receive Their Pay From Old Board.

Elizabeth, Jan. 27.—The help at the Courthouse and Bonnie Burn Sanatorium Saturday received their wages as usual regardless of the effort being made by the small Board of Freeholders to prevent the bank honoring N. R. Leavitt's signature on county checks as the authorized collector and proper person to draw the money.

The checks were cashed at the Union County Trust Company here Edward A. Faulks, secretary-treasurer of that institution, stated that as yet no notice from the small board had been received to the effect that Mr. Leavitt had been succeeded as county collector by Abe J. David and until such official notice is received he did not care to say what attention, if any, would be paid to it. The matter would be presented to the bank's counsel for an opinion Mr. Faulks thought.

A number of lawyers have expressed opinions as to the advisability of the small board trying to tie up the county funds and the consensus is that it is an unwise procedure which will accomplish nothing through lack of recognition by the banks. Legal steps to compel recognition, they aver, would be a hardship on many innocent persons and would create a likelihood of involving the county affairs in what might develop into serious complications.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin, Stillman and Whittier Public Schools will hold a "Question Box" meeting in the assembly room of the Franklin School tomorrow night. Similar meetings in the past have always proven highly interesting and tomorrow night's event will furnish several surprises, says the committee in charge. Superintendent Henry M. Maxson will preside.

The want ads will find work today for workers to whom a longer period of idleness would be a serious matter.

Special Services Planned In Churches Where Objects of the Conference Will Be Explained By Leaders In the Movement.

President-elect Woodrow Wilson will not be able to attend the State Conference of Charities and Corrections to be held in this city next week. The committee or arrangements has received a letter from Mr. Wilson in which he states that owing to a pressure of other duties he must decline the invitation to come to Plainfield at this time.

The conference will open Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. with an invocation by Father B. M. Bogan, pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church; followed with an address of welcome by Mayor Percy H. Stewart; the response and president's address will be made by Dr. Frank Moore, and there will be an address by Joseph P. Byers, of Trenton, commissioner of charities.

Two union services have been arranged for Sunday night, with the general topic of "The Church and Social Service." One service will be held at the First Baptist church, Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, the pastor, presiding. Dr. Charles L. Thompson, representing "The Commission on the Church and Social Service," will make the address. The other service will be held at the Crescent Avenue church, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor, presiding. Dr. J. Howard Melish, of Holy Trinity church, Brooklyn, will make the address. Following these meetings there will be an informal conference of delegates in the Plainfield High School gymnasium.

The conference will really continue on Monday and Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. and Plainfield High School when there will be a consideration of various subjects under the general topic: "New Jersey's System of Humanics."

NEWARK CONFERENCE WILL DROP MAC RORIE

Although it is generally understood that no indictment was found against Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the former pastor of the Mt. Horeb, Martinsville and Springdale M. E. churches, by the last grand jury, and as a result he will not be brought to trial, the Newark Conference of the Methodist church which meets in Newark in March, is not likely to pass the incident without some action. The conference will undoubtedly sever all his relations with that body.

Mr. MacRorie has already relinquished his three pastorates. He still continues to live at Mt. Horeb with his family, but it is said that he expects to remove from that locality within the near future. When the conference meets another appointment will be made for the three churches formerly served by MacRorie.

WAGONS COLLIDE.

The wagon of the Merchants' Express and Transportation, which delivers packages in this vicinity for New York stores, ran into the light furniture wagon owned by T. P. Neilson, of East Front street, in front of F. L. C. Martin's garage, on Park avenue, Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock. When the two vehicles had become disentangled it was found that the rear wheel of Nielson's wagon had been demolished and that the Merchants' Express vehicle had escaped without damage. The driver of Nielson's wagon demanded payment for the damage done but it was of no avail. Patrolman Tobias Nolan happened along while the drivers were arguing and ordered all concerned to report at police headquaters and settle their dispute before the desk-sergeant. The parties, however, came to an agreement before headquarters had been reached.

WILL RECEIVE PROTESTS.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to receive written protests against the granting of liquor licenses, as announced. At that time a date will be fixed for a public hearing when those opposing or favoring licenses will be given an opportunity to be heard on the subject. This hearing will be held possibly within a week or so. Action on the liquor license applications will be taken at a subsequent meeting soon after the public hearing.

RELIGIOUS QUESTION ANSWERED BY PASTOR

Selecting as his topic, "How Can God be Good and Let Men Suffer," for the second of a series of sermons on "Plain Answers to Religious Questions," Rev. Frederic L. Greene, the pastor, spoke before a large congregation in Hope chapel last night. After explaining the original sin and the fact that man was responsible for the suffering which he brought upon himself the pastor said this explanation is inadequate to answer the question satisfactorily for the great masses of men. Continuing he said:

"Yet we become reconciled to our sufferings through the fact that Christ is the great burden bearer of mankind. He meets the needs of the people in all walks of life by bearing the burdens of the individuals."

PLAN BALL FOR SWEET CHARITY

Big Social Event to Be Held By St. Mary's Parish Holy Name Society Next Friday.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Two Large Halls at Sebring's Auditorium to Be the Scene—Albert F. La Rock Chairman of General Committee.

The first annual charity ball of the Holy Name Society, of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, will be held in Sebring's Auditorium Friday night. The object of the society in arranging the event appealed instantly to the generous people of the city, and, irrespective of religious belief, they have come to the assistance of the various committees so generously that success is already assured.

The chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, Albert F. LaRock, has been busy with the plans and scope, while the sub-committees have taken up the various details with such orderly system that even the work of preparation has had much of the pleasure that the evening will bring to the guests of the society. The two large halls at Sebring's Auditorium have undergone a wonderful change under the direction of expert decorators.

In the large ballroom the cotillon will be conducted by the floor manager, Daniel J. Courain, while the lower floor will be given over to the less formal dances, under the supervision of James J. McCann. Handsome souvenirs will be distributed to men and women during the evening, and a buffet lunch served at midnight. The Holy Name Society finds in this effort to put a fund at the disposal of the Sisters of Charity who work among the poor a proper expression of the spirit that animates the society. Up to the present the permanent organization that confined its work to the relief of the poor has been the sewing circle of St. Mary's church, which has provided more than eleven thousand articles of clothing for the poor. They are much gratified at this new impetus given to the work they have at heart, which, through the same avenue—the Sisters of Charity—will reach further and give greater comfort to a large number of unfortunates.

On Sunday a week ago an unusual demonstration of affectionate respect was shown the retiring president of the Holy Name Society, Paul H. Burns, who is leaving Plainfield to take up important legal work. During Mr. Burns' term of office the work of the society has broadened and the zeal of the president created enthusiasm in all the events of the society's year of activity. He is succeeded by Wilbur H. Schaeffer, the unanimous choice of the society. The committees in charge of the charity ball are as follows:

JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Distinguished Lawyer and Statesman Celebrates His 81st Birthday.

Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to the court of St. James and one of America's most distinguished lawyers, celebrated his eighty-first birthday with a dinner at his home, 8 East Sixty-third street, New York. Mr. Choate entertained eighteen guests, some of his oldest friends among them. Mr. Choate visits his office in Wall street daily, save in inclement weather. A great many letters of congratulation were received, and there were many callers. The former ambassador is in excellent health, and he said that his birthday found him feeling well.

STUDENTS TAKE JOBS OF CHOIR ON STRIKE

Princeton Men Sing at Trenton Church Services.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 27.—Eighteen Princeton students played the roles of strike breakers at two services in St. Michael's Episcopal church, taking the places of the thirty-five members of the church choir who were out on strike. The choirmaster, who also struck with the singers, was not on hand, and neither was the old organist, his place having been filled at the morning and evening services by George Chapman.

The strikers did such effective picket duty, however, that the church, usually well filled at service, contained many empty seats at both the morning and night services. The Princeton boys did very well as supplanters of the regular choir, and they seemed to enter into the work with a determined spirit.

The choir went on strike because, they declared, the rector, Rev. W. B. Eddy, was interfering with them and also with the choirmaster.

It was hinted today that there would be several resignations of vestrymen handed in to the pastor within a day or so as a result of the choir incident.

The Princeton boys after the night service boarded a train and returned to the university.

SLANDERED SOLDIERS TO SUE

Hawaii Schoolmaster Wouldn't Retract His Charges of Misconduct.

Honolulu, H. T., Jan. 27.—United States soldiers took action to raise funds to prosecute Perley L. Horne, president of the Kamehameha schools of the island of Oahu, for alleged slander. Horne at a mass meeting last December said the misconduct of soldiers made the islands unsafe for Hawaiian women. It was said the soldiers' reply to the charges would be sent to the war department.

Representatives of the army men demanded a retraction from Mr. Horne, which he refused to give, and a grand jury investigation vindicated the soldiers.

Neill, head of the United States bureau of labor, is chairman of a committee that will report on the model State mediation bill. August Belmont is head of a committee that will present a draft of a workingmen's compensation bill. COURT OF CHANCERY IS MUCH CONGESTED vors Appointment of Anoth- And Chancellor Walker Fa- er Vice Chancellor.

Trenton, Jan. 27.—So great has been the increase in the business of the Court of Chancery during the last year that the agitation has been renewed for the creation of another Vice-Chancellorship. Chancellor Walker favors the appointment of another vice-chancellor as a means of relieving the congestion in the court. He said today that the work of the court is very much congested and another vice-chancellor is badly needed.

It will rest on one of the legislature to provide for another vice-chancellor, and if such an act were passed it would place another important appointment in the hands of Governor Wilson or Senate President Fielder, if the act were not passed before Governor Wilson goes to Washington. The salary of a vice-chancellor is $[illegible],000 a year and the term seven years.

Louretta Taylor in "Peg O' My Heart," at the Cort Theatre, New York.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

Laurette Taylor has begun the seventh week of her engagement at the Cort theatre in New York with every indication that she will remain the attraction at John Cort's beautiful playhouse well into the summer. Oliver Morosco exercised judgment in making Miss Taylor a star following her success last season in "The Bird of Paradise," and in selecting J. Hartley Manners' delightful comedy "Peg O' My Heart," as her starring vehicle he proved conclusively that plays with the "punch" are not essential to success. Nothing more charming has been seen in the New York stage this season than "Peg O' My Heart," and no comedienne of recent years has scored such a pronounced hit as Laurette Taylor.

FORMER SENATOR AND WIFE TALK SUFFRAGE

Summit, Jan. 27.—Former State Senator and Mrs. Everett Colby were the speakers at the special meeting of the Equal Suffrage and Good Government League in the auditorium of the Public Library. About fifty persons were present.

Mrs. Colby, who was before her marriage, Miss Edith Hyde, of Plainfield, introduced herself as a living refutation of the argument that women suffrage breaks up the home. Before she became interested in suffrage, she said, she stayed home while the Senator carried on his politicail campaigns. Now they go together to Progressive and suffrage meetings alike.

Speaking as chairman of the committee on legislation, Mrs. Colby described the organization of the women's work in this State, and urged the members of the league to attend the meeting in Trenton February 18 when the women are to appear before the Legislature.

It would be strange, said Mrs Colby, if the men and women of Colorado, or Washington, or California, had adopted the women's cause if it had proved a failure in the adjoining States, were they had good opportunity to note how it worked.

Senator Colby gave a sort of confidential rehearsal of his conversion to equal suffrage. Both speakers insisted that they had been able to find no argument against it, and recited the practical considerations that had led them to adopt it.

Naming health, good surroundings character and education as the four prime requisites of happy and useful life, Mr. Colby claimed that woman was a greater influence than man toward getting all these things, and deplored that they should be excluded from having a voice in the efforts of the State to obtain them all for the people.

A proposition was launched to form a men's auxiliary.

PETITION STRICTER SUNDAY.

New Brunswick, Jan. 27.—Petitions for a better observance of Sunday by local merchants were circulated in the churches yesterday for signatures. These petitions ask the Common Council to have all local merchants close Sundays, it being held that many foreigners now keep open seven days in the week. The city has an ordinance which practically covers the situation and this will be amended if possible to bring about the desired result. The Retail Merchants' Association and Board of Trade here will back up the movement.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

The competition for the best plan for advertising Plainfield as a desirable place of residence and a slogan for the city will come to a close on Saturday. As might be expected, the Chamber of Commerce, which seeks the information and is willing to pay for it, has received many suggestions, but in a contest of this sort it is not unusual for some comparatively unknown person who files his plan at the eleventh hour to win the big prize and therefore there should be no hesitation on any one's part to enter the contest now. Here is an opportunity for some bright High School boy or girl to make some money and they stand as good a chance as the grownups. This fact is illustrated in the result of the Elizabeth Board of Trade's competition for a design for a poster to advertise the forthcoming industrial exposition, the first prize being awarded to an eighteen years old youth.

TWO APPOINTMENTS.

Either at the session tonight or tomorrow, it is expected that the Legislature will receive from Governor Wilson his appointments for the judgeship and prosecutorship of Union county. It seems reasonably certain that James R. Connolly, the city attorney of Elizabeth, will be named as judge to succeed E. S. Atwater, as he has the endorsement of the Democratic administration. Former Judge Gilhooly and William R. Wilson, however, are still in the running and neither will admit the claims made by Connolly's friends. For the prosecutorship, the fight is between former Mayor Stein and Elections' Board Chairman Robert H. McAdams, both of whom are also from Elizabeth. It is a toss-up which will be chosen, but it is a fairly well established fact that the loser will receive the appointment of district court judge of Elizabeth as a consolation prize.

RADICAL AND RIGHT.

As an exchange observes, Wilson's anti-trust bills are considered radical by the rich man who feels that the same punishment should not be meted out to him as to the humble offender. He thinks it perfectly proper, no doubt, to send some hungry mortal to jail for stealing a loaf of bread, but if he corners the market in wheat and commits a crime against humanity in general a nominal fine he believes is sufficient punishment in his case. It's the man who stifles competition, who waters stocks and who makes prices so exorbitant that the poor can hardly get the necessities of life who is the great menace of today and though he represents some huge soulless body, guilt is personal and he should be placed where all enemies of society belong—behind the prison bars. Taking this view of the situation, it is a pity that the Wilson measures are not even more radical than they are.

GUBERNATORIAL TIMBER.

rial nomination is not to be allowed to go begging is quite evident for Mayor Wittpenn, of Jersey City, is an avowed candidate, Senator Fielder is being groomed, although he has stated that he will retire from politics when he has filled out Wilson's unexpired term in 1914, and a boom for Frank S. Katzenbach is to be launched by the allied clubs of Mercer county at Trenton on February 11. Both Fielder and Wittpenn are warm friends of Wilson and supporters of his policies although the two Hudson county men do not travel with the same political crew. Katzenbach, on the other hand, is classed as an anti-Wilsonite and he will be backed by the reactionary forces. From the present outlook, however, with the Governor's friends supporting Wittpenn, the Jersey City mayor should have no trouble in capturing the nomination.

The Legislature this week will go through the form of electing an United States Senator to succeed Frank O. Briggs and as William Hughes was an easy winner in the primary contest he will take his seat at Washington. For the first time in many, many years New Jersey will be represented in the United States Senate by two Democrats, both of whom are ardent supporters of the President-elect to whom they are both responsible for obtaining the toga.

BOND FOR $30,000 SAVES GEN. SICKLES FROM JAIL

New York, Jan. 27.—Sheriff Harburger this morning received a telephone message from D. P. Hayes, attorney for Daniel E. Sickles, that a bond for $30,000 had been furnished by the General. The attorney declined to say who the bondsmen were.

New York, Jan. 27.—If a conference that General Daniel E. Sickles is to have with his wife and his son, Stanton, brings about certain concessions on his part, the beleaguered veteran will probably come happily out of the tangle he is in with the state because of an admitted deficiency of $23,476 in his accounts as president of the State Monuments association. But if the general, who requested Mrs. Sickles to talk to him, changes his mind again he will be left to the tender mercies of Sheriff Harburger.

With the possibility of General Sickles voluntarily admitting the sheriff to his Fifth avenue fortress and the subsequent removal of the general to quarters in Ludlow street jail, persons interested in the general's behalf were thinking up ways and means of preventing his incarceration.

Sheriff Harburger announced that a national fund, designed to relieve General Sickles of his financial embarrassment, had been decided upon, that Comptroller Sohmer who made the proposal had headed the list with $100 and that the second contributor was none other than Sheriff Harburger, likewise to the amount of $100.

The sheriff said that he would announce later who would be treasurer of the fund and that he was confident of raising the desired amount within ten days. Anybody anywhere can join in and, as the sheriff phrases it, "help to keep the only surviving major general in the civil war from the ignominy of a prison cell."

The concession that Mrs. Sickles demands of the general is that he dismiss from his home Miss Wilmerding, his housekeeper. If he would consent to that the money for his indebtedness to the state would be forthcoming, but he has so far refused. His son Stanton thought that his father's request for his wife to come to see him indicated that he was weakening and that a satisfactory arrangement would be reached.

If the general sticks by his determination to retain Miss Wilmerding his wife will allow the law to take its course.

WM. COOGAN LOSES HIS LIFE IN ACCIDENT

Killed at Cincinnati But Details As to the Fatality Are Missing.

The body of William Coogan, formerly of this city, who was killed Tuesday in an accident in Cincinnati, Ohio, is being sent to this city, where interment will be made. Mrs. Margaret Hoffman, of 438 West Third street, Mr. Coogan's mother-in-law, learned of his death Saturday when she received a newspaper clipping from a friend, giving an meagre acount of the fatality. She was not sure that the Coogan mentioned in the account was her relative, however, until a reply in the affirmative had been received from the Cincinnati authorities, in answer to a telegram she had sent them giving a description of the victim.

Mr. Coogan has had a varied career. Although married he did not live with his wife who died several years ago, leaving two children, Margaret and William Coogan, age 12 and 11 years old respectively, who are now making their home with Mrs. Hoffman.

EXPOSITION PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

Elizabeth's Big Industrial Show to Be Featured By More Than 100 Exhibits.

Elizabeth, Jan. 27.—Preparations for the industrial exposition to be held under the auspices of the Elizabeth Board of Trade from February 10 to 15 are being rushed to completion. The big show will be held in the Second Regiment Armory, where thousands of persons can be admitted daily, and all indications point to a record-breaking attendance. There will be more than 100 exhibits of varied character, scarcely any two being similar. It is only two weeks until the opening of the exposition and the committee in charge is now chiefly engaged in examining floor plans and arranging details in connection with the exhibits.

Widespread interest is being created in the forthcoming show by the comprehensive plan of advertising that has been adopted. During the past week announcements of the exposition were placed on 1,700 billboards in all parts of the State and the same announcements have been on many big signboards for several weeks. Space has been engaged in more than 100 newspapers and advertisements of considerable size will be placed in all of them.

Features of the opening days of the exposition will be addresses by either Governor Woodrow Wilson or State Senator James F. Fielder, president of the Senate, who will be acting governor after Governor Wilson resigns to go to Washington, and other prominent men, and a dinner to representatives of the press and the commercial executives of New York, Philadelphia and New Jersey, which will be held on Tuesday, February 11. There will be a special musical program each day of the exposition, features of which will be concerts by the singing societies of this city, which are known as among the best in the country.

CONGRESS WILL HAVE WILSON ON ITS HANDS

President-elect Has His Own Ideas On Currency and Tariff Legislation.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Gradually the belief is spreading among Democratic Senators and Representatives that Congress is going to have Wilson on its hands, reversing Grover Cleveland's oft quoted saying. Returning pilgrims from Trenton bring intimations that the President-elect has some well-fixed ideas of his own. One of these is a currency plan of his own which he will submit to Congress.

Already Congressmen are beginning to apprehend serious differences between the viewpoint of practical and experienced legislators, and that of Mr. Wilson. The tariff hearings by the ways and means committee end next Friday. A caucus of Democrats of the House will be held within a very few days thereafter to determine the form of legislation.

Chairman Underwood has been making inquiries among his colleagues and says privately he thinks the caucus will adopt his suggestion of considering the schedules in separate bills. Chairman Underwood is opposed to any other legislation at the extra session. He would like to have the attention of Congress and of the country centred upon the tariff revision, get the work done and let the Congressmen go home and prepare for the long session of general legislation next December.

The House will get up steam this week on appropriation bills. Now that the Pujo committee is out of the limelight, the currency sub-committee under Representative Glass will take the stage with further currency hearings.

MRS. CORNELIA J. STILLWELL.

Mrs. Cornelia J. Stillwell, aged 78 years, widow of Daniel Stillwell, died yesterday at her home, 121 East Fourth street, following a long illness. Mrs. Stillwell was born at Middlebush, Somerset county, and had been a resident of this city many years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Lincoln Giles, of this city. The funeral will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at the late home. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will officiate and the burial will be at Middlebush.

IN THE TOILS AGAIN.

Aaron Reed, 55 years old, of 18 Fritz place, who had probably been arrested more times than any other citizen of North Plainfield, was apprehended by the borough authorities Saturday night for being intoxicated and failing to support his family. Arraigned before Recorder Gano this morning, he was sentenced to serve a term of 90 days in the county jail in Somerville. Chief Marshal Weiss took the prisoner to that institution this afternoon.

COUNTY LAW LIBRARY BOOKS REPORTED GONE

Forty-one Volumes Missing, Possibly Removed By Lawers and Not Returned.

In a report presented to James Connolly, as president of the Union County Bar Association, it is shown that forty-one volumes of the Law Library at the Courthouse in Elizabeth are missing. Many of the most important sets found in the library are broken, and their value consequently impaired to a serious extent.

The library which intact was valued at $10,000. The Union County Bar Association receives an appropriation of $500 a year from the county for books. Members of the association are the only ones having access to the library at present. The small Board of Freeholders, if given possession of the county government, will have a librarian in charge, according to the slate elected a few weeks ago.

The books missing include the following: New Jersey Law reports, volumes 1, 5, 9, 16, 23, 33, 34, 35, 37, 40, 42, 45, 46, 49, 53, 58 and 60; New Jersey Equity, volumes 4, 22, 23, 24, 30, 34, 37, 54, 60 and 61; Atlantic Reporter, volumes 7 and 9; Southwest Reporter, volume 25; New York Supplement, volume 134; New Jersey Digest, volume 5.

No trace has been found of any of the books. It is believed by officers of the association that lawyers have taken the books to their offices, intending to return them, but through an oversight failed to do so.

The law of self-interest makes the advertisement of your people Important to every possible buyer of it!

MAKES IT ILLEGAL FOR WHITE AND NEGRO TO WED

Trenton, Jan. 27.—The State Board of Health has drafted a bill for introduction into the Legislature making it illegal to issue a license for the marriage of a white person and a negro or mulatto, or to perform such a marriage ceremony. The bill has been inspired by the discovery by the Board that there has been lately a considerable increase in these mixed marriages.

The law will provide that it shall be unlawful for any public official to issue a license for the marriage of a white person to a negro or mulatto. It will then provide that it shall also be unlawful for any person, official or religious society to solemnize such marriages.

Violations will be made misdemeanors punishable by a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for three years, or both.

SEEK REDEMPTION OF WHITE SLAVES

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Explains Purposes of Bureau.

EXPERT STUDY OF PROBLEM

George J. Kneeland, Who Directed Chicago Vice Inquiry, and Abraham Flexner, Medical Examiner, Preparing Reports—Social Hygiene Organization's Fight on Social Evil.

New York, Jan. 27.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is among the foremost men of the country who have given critical consideration of the social evil with a view toward its humane and scientific abatement. Ever since he sat as foreman of the grand jury in New York about two years ago Mr. Rockefeller has been keenly interested in discovering a sensible plan for curtailing the white slave traffic. He was largely instrumental, both financially and personally, in the organization of the bureau of social hygiene, started with the deep and earnest purpose of thoroughly investigating the present conditions of the social evil and of eradicating them in so far as possible. Mr. Rockefeller now makes public the following interesting and important statement as to the origin, work and plans of the bureau:

"The bureau of social hygiene came into existence about two years ago as a result of the work of the special grand jury appointed to investigate the white slave traffic in New York city which served during the first half of the year 1910. One of the recommendations made by it in the presentment handed up at the termination of its labors was that a public commission be appointed to study the social evil. The foreman of that body subsequently gave careful consideration of the character of the work which might properly be done by such a commission and the limitations under which it would operate.

"So the conviction grew that in order to make a real and lasting improvement in conditions, a permanent organization should be created, the continuation of which would not be dependent upon a temporary wave of reform nor upon the life of any man or group of men, but which would go on, generation after generation, continuously making warfare against the forces of evil.

Members of the Bureau.

"Therefore, as the initial step, in the winter of 1911 the bureau of social hygiene was formed. Its present members are Miss Katherine Bement Davis, superintendent of New York State Reformatory For Women at Bedford Hills, N. Y.; Paul M. Warburg of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Starr J. Murphy of the New York bar and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. As the work develops new members may be added.

"One of the first things undertaken by the bureau was the establishment at Bedford Hills, adjacent to the reformatory, of a laboratory of social hygiene under Miss Davis' direction. In this laboratory it is proposed to study from the physical, mental, social and moral side each person committed to the reformatory.

"Arrangements were made, therefore, in the early part of last winter to secure the services of George J. Kneeland, who had directed the Chicago vice commission investigation. Since that time Mr. Kneeland, with a corps of assistants, has been making a thorough and comprehensive survey of the conditions of vice in New York city.

"At the same time the bureau was fortunate in securing the services of Abraham Flexner, whose reports on the medical schools in this country and in Europe are so well known, to study the social evil and the various methods of dealing with it in the leading cities of Europe.

"Based upon all of these studies, which will probably be published by December of this year, it is the hope of the bureau that there may be devised a practical plan for dealing with the social evil in New York city, a plan which public opinion can be brought to support."

Because These Are Silks That Women Want to Buy And NOT Merely Fabrics That We Want to Sell

An Overwhelming Success Has Followed This Presentation of

The ANNUAL SALE of SILKS

Each succeeding event of this kind concentrates the retail silk business of New York more firmly at GIMBELS—already distinguished for its rich stock of exclusive silks. A year ago the Sale exceeded our expectations, though it began in a blizzard.

This year we have more Silks, and finer Silks, of the soft, clinging kinds that are precisely in the highest favor—and Silks are more fashionable than ever!

We will not describe in detail the successful carrying out of arrangements, begun months ago with manufacturers, to secure exactly the Silks we wanted, in colors of our own selection, and yet get such great concessions in the matter of price, that

Savings Average Better Than One-Third

Suffice it to say that the Silks are here—as women can see for themselves—and in very liberal quantities. That the savings are also here is evident to everyone who knows silk values as most New York women do. Here is the full list headed by the amazing group of

$12 to $35 Foreign Brocaded Silks, in Profusion, at $6 Yard

Canceled orders came thick and fast upon the Paris wholesalers of these magnificent Silks, when the Balkan war began to paralyze business in Austria, Hungary and other great silk-using countries of Eastern Europe. We foresaw this, and were early on the spot to secure these rich fabrics, at an insignificant fraction of their real worth. And they are simply regal! There are Brocades, actually stiff with gold and silver thread; stunning floral patterns, in vivid colorings, either in damask effects, or with raised velvet pile—fabrics that are superb for evening wraps, coat linings, or panels on rich costumes.

Then there are Chiffons, and other light weight Silks, with brocaded designs in metal silk or velvet, for exquisite evening gowns. In short, an astonishing variety of sumptuous fabrics, at a price which in no case is more than half the original value of the Silks. Dressmakers, in particular, are vastly interested in the offering.

ASBURY PARK PEOPLE DEBATE WATER THEME

Asbury Park, Jan. 27.—Suggestion was made at a mass meeting of citizens that Asbury Park abandon its municipal water system and secure its supply from a corporation. Former President of the Council Thomas J. Winckler, a former Plainfielder, offered this suggestion, supported by George W. Pittenger, but they were the only ones in the audience to entertain such an idea.

The meeting was called to discuss a proposed bond issue of $650,000 for a new water supply system. It was decided that certain new equipment is needed immediately, but that the question of constructing a 25,000,000 gallon reservoir for the storage of Shark River water, the proposed new source, be held up until it is learned whether the artesian supply is exhausted.

If it is necessary to turn to Shark River, it was held that the entire district from Deal Lake to the river is vitally concerned, for the artesian water hereabouts is obtained from the same strata. Any scheme to use the river water, it was urged, should contemplate a system for this district.

This could be done, it was suggested, either by the annexation to Asbury Park of Neptune Township, Bradley Beach and Avon, or the creation of a municipal water district to supply that territory.

AUTO REVENUE BILL TO BE INTRODUCED

Senator Fielder to Present Administration Measure In Legislature Tonight.

Trenton, Jan. 27.—The bill increasing the automobile registration fees, which it is estimated will bring the State something like $100,000 increased revenue for good road repairs, will be introduced in the Senate tonight by Senator Fielder. It has been drawn to meet the views of State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Job H. Lippincott and will have his support. The fees provided in the measure vary slightly from those recommended in the annual report of Commissioner Lippincott and which were recently published.

The bill amends section 3 of the present act so as to provide the following fees, the present fees and horse-power being in parathenses, in each case:

10 horse-power, or less, $5 (10 horse-power of less $4.50).

11 to 30 horse-power, inclusive, $10 (11 to 29 horse-power $7.50).

46 horse-power and over $20.

It will be noted that the new bill makes four classes, instead of three, changes the classification of horse-power slightly and raises the fee for the first class $1.50; for the second class $2.50; for the third class $5, and makes the fee $20 for the new class. In his annual report Commissioner Lippincott recommended a fifth class including cars of 50 horse-power and over, the fee to be $25. After investigating the subject, he thought it better to eliminate this class.

The provision in the new bill for fees for motor trucks is that trucks weighing unloaded over 6,000 pounds shall pay $5 additional for each thousand pounds in weight thereafter, and when such trucks weigh a fraction of a thousand pounds additional, the fee shall be the maximum fee under the above classification, provided such fraction of a thousand pounds is greater than one-half.

Motor trucks at present are made to pay fees as follows: "Trucks weighing unloaded over 4,000 pounds, shall pay to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for each registration a fee of $10 in addition to the fee provided to be paid under horse-power rating."

State Road Commissioner Edwin A. Stevens will also support the provision for increased fees. He has shown that even with the $100,000 added income from this source there will not be money enough to keep all the improved highways in proper repair. Commissioner Lippincott already has several automobile bills before the Senate. They increase the number of inspectors to 16; permit the Commissioner to revoke the reciprocity privilege for cause and make other more stringent regulations.

REMARKABLE RECORD OF SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Where Is There One to Surpass the Congregational For Attendance?

Those interested in Sunday-school work often have their attention brought to some schools because of the large membership and attendance. Plainfield should be proud of one of the schools which, while not one of the largest, certainly has, so far as some of its classes are concerned, an enviable record. This school is the Congregational of which John M. Whiton is superintendent.

Its record of attendance for the years 1910, 1911 and 1912 follows:

1910—average number of pupils, name of teacher and average per cent. attendance, respectfully, follow: 11, Mr. McClymont, 97.1; 5, Miss Morgan, 95.6; 7, Miss Winckler, 91.2; 5, Miss Barre, 91.1; 5, Miss Weseman, 91.1; 7, Mr. LaRue, 85.2.

1911—average number of pupils, name of teacher and average per cent. attendance, respectfully, follow: 11, Mr. McClymont, 98.5; 7, Miss Winckler, 97.9; 6, Miss Morgan, 97.1; 5, Miss Barre, 95.4; 5, Miss West, 89.3; 7, Mr. Newman, 83.9.

1912—average number of pupils, name of teacher and average per cent. attendance, respectfully, follow: 10, Mr. McClymont, 99.2; 6, Miss Winckler, 98.1; 6, Miss Morgan, 94.1; 7, Mrs. Hylan, 88.1; 7, Dr. Hubbard, 83.1; 6, Miss Barre, 81.6.

A three year summary of the four highest classes follow: Mr. McClymont's class, 98.35 per cent.; Miss Morgan's class, 95.74 per cent.; Miss Winckler's class, 95.67 per cent.; Miss Barre's class, 89.11 per cent.

The record of no class is considered which had not an average membership of at least five pupils. The attendance in some of the other classes was high, in one case being 100 per cent. for a full quarter.

LAST OF BLUE FAMILY IS DEAD AT DUNELLEN

Miss Caroline R. Blue, the last member of the Blue family who for years owned and worked the large farmer at Blue's corner on the south side of New Market, on the road to Stelton and New Brunswick, died at the home of John Huff, of North avenue, Dunellen, in her seventy-sixth year yesterday morning about 9:40 o'clock. Intestinal troubles caused her end.

For years the farm, which is located on the triangle formed by the junction of two roads, one which leads to Stelton and New Brunswick, and the other to Randolphville, was operated by the Blue family, up to about ten years ago when Calvin Blue, a brother, died. After his death the two sisters, the Misses Jane and Caroline Blue, continued to keep house at the old homestead. A few years ago when Miss Jane Blue died the only surviving sister sold the farm to Edward Vail, of Plainfield who has since then occupied the premises. She went to Dunellen where she has boarded ever since.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of John Huff and the interment will be made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

A Little Valentine Girl With a Great Big Heart.

The young lady in the picture surely has gone to a great deal of trouble with her valentine. Just think what an amount of work and patience were required to fashion such a large and beautiful heart! She is evidently pleased with her handiwork. The expression on her face shows that. Of course she must have made it all by herself! She wouldn't look so happy otherwise. Wonder who she intends it for? Perhaps for papa or perhaps for mamma. More likely it is for mother, although it is hard to tell. Anyway, whoever gets it will be overjoyed, for who could help being happy when such a charming little girl remembers them so lovingly on Valentine morning?

Lincoln and the Boy.

Here is a story of Lincoln and the children:

When the president was in Springfield, Ill., he met a little boy who was introduced to him and allowed to shake the great man's hand. Of course the boy boasted of this honor among his schoolmates, who wouldn't believe him, making his life miserable by their unkind speeches. Young America, however hurt he felt, was not going to be put down by a little thing like that. No, indeed! He sat down and wrote a letter to Lincoln telling him of his trouble. After awhile he received a letter which is still preserved. It read:

Executive Mansion, March 19, 1861.
To Whom It May Concern:
I did see and talk with Master George Evans Potter last May at Springfield, Ill.
Respectfully, A. LINCOLN.

From that time young George, instead of being laughed at, became the envy of the other boys. The part of the story that most interests us, however, is that Lincoln at this anxious time, amid the thousand things demanding his attention, should have found time to heed the unimportant request of a schoolboy. It shows us that Lincoln hated all injustice, however humble the object of it might be.

Lincoln, the Kind Hearted.

When Lincoln visited Fortress Monroe in 1863 his attention was called to a narrow door, bound with iron, the use of which he was anxious to learn.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Oh, that is the sweat box," was the reply. "It is used for refractory sailors. A man in there is treated to a big dose of steam heat and has very little ventilation. It brings him around pretty quickly."

Lincoln, ever merciful, demanded that he be allowed to try the treatment to which thousands of American sailors were subjected yearly.

Taking off his hat—for he was several inches over six feet in height—he entered the inclosure, which he found to be little more than three feet in length or width. At a signal from him the door was to be opened. It was then closed and the steam turned on. He had been inside hardly three minutes before the signal was given. President Lincoln had experienced something he had never known had existed before. Turning to Secretary Welles of the navy department, he ordered that no such inclosure as the sweat box should ever be allowed on any vessel flying the American flag.

Conundrums.

Why are bakers the most self denying people? Because they sell what they knead (need) themselves.

What relation is that child to its own father who is not its own father's own son? His daughter.

When does a pig become landed property? When it is turned into a meadow.

Making Valentines.

All the year we save up things
Cut from papers, hearts and rings,
Pretty boys called Cupids, too,
And all sorts of flowers will do.

Then we take some paper white,
And we scallop it just right,
And across the top we write
Some nice line that reads like this:
"To my sweetheart, with a kiss."

Now we're ready to begin,
And we paste a Cupid in
And perhaps a wreath and dove,
With a scroll which says, "True love."

We pick out from all the rest
One for mother that is best,
And we write, "Our hearts are true,
Dearest Valentine, to you."

HOMEMADE SAUSAGES.

If you own a household vegetable or meat chopper you can make your own sausage meat just as you need it. There should be no monotony about this popular winter dish, for there are various ways of making the sausage meat.

Succulent Combinations.

Plain Sausage Meat.—Take one cupful of chopped pork, one-half cupful of chopped beef, one-half cupful of dried breadcrumbs, a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful powdered sage. Mix the pork, beef, breadcrumbs, salt, pepper and sage well together and then make into small flat cakes. Put into a hot pan and either place in hot oven or fry slowly over the fire.

English Sausage Meat.—Take half a pound of calf's liver, four ounces of bacon, six ounces of fine breadcrumbs, one egg, a little dried and powdered sage, pepper, salt and nutmeg. Stir the liver until tender, mince the bacon finely, add breadcrumbs and finely chopped liver and seasoning. Bind with the egg, well beaten, form into sausages, roll in flour and fry in boiling fat. Serve very hot, garnished with parsley and cut lemon.

Made in Quantity.

Country Sausage.—Take six pounds of lean and three pounds of fat fresh pork. Mix these together and run through the meat chopper. Stir into this meat six tablespoonfuls each of salt and black pepper, twelve teaspoonfuls of powdered sage, two teaspoonfuls each of powdered cloves and mace and one grated nutmeg. Pack in a stone crock, pour melted lard over the top of the meat to keep out air. When to be used pat it into small cakes and flour the outside. Fry in butter till brown on both sides.

An Elaborate Mixture.

Mixed Sausages.—Take a half pound each of lean fresh pork, veal and beef suet, four ounces of breadcrumbs, the grated peel of a quarter of a lemon, three powdered sage leaves, a sprig each of summer savory, thyme and marjoram and half a grated nutmeg. The pork, veal and suet should be chopped separately and as fine as possible. Then they should be mixed together. Add the breadcrumbs, lemon peel, nutmeg, a half a teaspoonful of pepper, a teaspoonful of salt and the sage, thyme and marjoram. All the ingredients should be chopped fine and then mixed well together. They should be shaped into neat cakes, sprinkled with flour and fried in butter.

MARSHMALLOWS.

The Culinary Possibilities to Be Found In These Sweets.

The housekeeper who has not tested the culinary possibilities of marshmallows has little idea of their many uses. For emergencies a tin box of these inexpensive candies is a good asset for the supply closet.

Should the supply of eggs give out when filling or frosting is wanted for a dark layer cake marshmallows may be substituted. While the cake is still hot place marshmallows torn in halves between the two layers and also on top of the cake. Replace the cake in the oven for a few moments until there is an even layer of partially melted marshmallows over the cake.

For the afternoon tea table the plainest of little cakes topped with marshmallows and placed for a moment in a slow oven are transformed into French confections. Spice cake baked in a thin sheet and cut in small rounds of the size of a marshmallow is an inexpensive substitute for the small fancy cakes of the caterer. Top each little circle with a half marshmallow and partially melt in a slow oven. Decorate with a single nut meat, half a cherry or a cross marking of chocolate or colored frosting.

If the material for a fruit salad is scant cut marshmallows in quarters, using a well floured pair of scissors. Equal parts of grape fruit, English walnuts and marshmallows mixed with half the quantity of diced pineapple make a salad combination well suited to a French dressing flavored with wine.

Ordinary chocolate ice cream is easily transformed into an apparently expensive novelty by adding a plentiful supply of quartered marshmallows when the cream is half frozen. If the chocolate is rich and dark these dull white particles make an effective showing and also add an unusual flavoring.

KITCHEN NEATNESS.

Food and Drink May Become Dangerous Purveyors of Disease.

Scrupulous neatness should always be observed in keeping, handling and serving food. If ever cleanliness is desirable it must be in the things we eat, and every care should be taken to insure it for the sake of health as well as of society.

Cleanliness in this connection means not only absence of visible dirt, but freedom from undesirable bacteria and other minute organisms and from worms and other parasites. If food, raw or cooked, is kept in dirty places, peddled from dirty carts, prepared in dirty rooms and in dirty dishes or exposed to foul air, disease germs and other offensive and dangerous substances can easily get in.

Food and drink may, in fact, be very dangerous purveyors of disease. The bacteria of typhoid fever sometimes find their way into drinking water, and those of typhoid and scarlet fevers and diphtheria into milk and bring sickness and death to large numbers of people.

Oysters which are taken from the salt water where they grow and "floated" for a short time in brackish water near the mouth of a stream have been known to be infected by typhoid fever germs brought into the stream by the sewage from houses.

Celery or lettuce grown in soil containing typhoid germs has been thought to convey this disease.

ECONOMY HELPS.

When coloring is required for stews or hashes let the onions used have the outer skin left on, and no burnt sugar or other coloring matter will be required.

When cutting new bread heat your knife by dipping it into a jug of hot water. In this way you can cut the thinnest bread and butter from a new loaf quite easily.

Many people dislike stoning raisins because of the unpleasant stickiness. This can be quite prevented by rubbing butter on your fingers and on the knife before beginning.

Try mixing pancakes in a pitcher of the bellboy shape, one that an egg beater fits in nicely. It is much easier to pour directly from this pitcher on the griddle instead of ladling the batter out of a bowl.

To clean a meat chopper put a piece of bread through it after you have been chopping raisins, meat or anything that is hard to wash out of a chopper and you will have no difficulty in washing it afterward.

Salt and vinegar make an excellent mixture for cleaning water bottles and wine decanters. Put a dessertspoonful of rough salt into a decanter, moisten it with vinegar and then shake the decanter till the stains are removed.

The Widener Memorial.

Mrs George D Widener, who was a passenger on the ill fated Titanic, her husband and son losing their lives on it, will give $2,000,000 to Harvard for a library in memory of her son, Henry M. Widener. He was graduated from Harvard in 1907, and his collection of books will be housed within it. It will be erected next to the present Harvard library and will be a work of art, as much pains has been taken in selecting plans for the building.

HOLY CROSS TEAM RESENTS AN ATTACK

Manager Doyle May Run a Post-season Championship Game With the Dexters.

Lingering spring or belated winter, as the case may be, has brought all kinds of trouble down upon the head of the weather man. People with nerves are peppering the weather man with protesting letters. Manager Doyle, of the Holy Cross football team, has written him to ascertain what sort of weather may be expected on a certain Saturday afternoon, on which he proposes to start a revival of the gridiron season and settle the points of dispute started by the Dexter eleven of Perth Amboy. The Amboyites claim that the local players have no right to wear watch fobs inscribed with the words, "Champions of New Jersey" and that they, the Dexters, are the real title holders. They also set forth the argument that Doyle avoided their challenges and would not consent to meet them in a game with the title at stake.

Doyle and his players have a decidedly different opinion of the whole affair, however, and are considerably peeved by the alleged unsportsmanlike belittling of the honors by the Amboy players. Although the Dexters were not scored on the entire season, they are charged with stacking up against light elevens which were easily conquered. Doyle says that it is still seasonable for the pigskin sport and his players are just itching to get a whack at the claimants for their honors. Cricket field is in the best condition for a game and the settling of the championship question would probably draw a large crowd.

If the New Jersey club championship is desired by either of these teams, however, and they really want a clear title to it, it would be wise for the respective managers to schedule games with a number of other club elevens that are not looking for limelight honors but are strong enough to be considered as championship timber. Take for instance, the Orange eleven, captained by Arthur Howe, the former Yale captain and quarterback. This deputation would without a doubt give either the Holy Cross or Dexter team a substantial run for the title wreath.

"MAC" SAYS

Even the Ajax followers had some grounds for consolation after the defeat at the hands of Hope chapel Saturday night. The evening up of the series means that a third game will be necessary to decide the city championship and it has been proposed to award some sort of a trophy to the winner.

The two managers got together after the game Saturday night and started negotiations for the playoff. There is a possibility of it being pulled off at Saengerbund Hall and if not there it will be played on some other neutral court.

Jack Martin entered the dressing rooms after the game to congratulate the players and he made the same remark that he passed around after the first game of the series which was won by the Ajax. Jack said he was satisfield that the best team won again. Something must be wrong, there couldn't be two best teams. Some think the court has proven the winning asset in both cases and it certainly looks that way.

All the doubt that surrounds this matter,however, will be cleared up at the third meeting on the neutral court.

Hope chapel rooters are a set of the loudest in the city. They kept up a constant din whether the team was in the rear or away out in front. Although the Ajax cohorts numbered in the neighborhood of five they also did some efficient lung work.

As a referee, Frank Rimmer, the Hope chapel official, is hard to surpass. There was hardly anything that escaped his notice on either side. Although in some tight places his decisions were always instantaneous and seldom doubtful.

The game was one of the cleanest and fastest ever pulled off in this city and the Ajax downfall can be attributed alone to their deplorable weakness along the shooting line.

When seen Saturday night Jack Martin confirmed the statement prevalent that he would not go south with Driscoll's all stars in February but would wait until the Yankees started on their Southern trip.

Martin will devote his time to coaching the Plainfield High School baseball players as he did last year and made final arrangements with Captain Good Saturday night.

Roy Hartzell, a team mate of Jack's, has submitted his signal contract. Also a request for a tryout on the keystone sack. Looks as though Martin would have some opposition to contend with if the speedy little Hartzell really means business.

Two points separated the Y. M. C. A. first team from victory when the final whistle sounded in their game with the Presbyterian five Saturday night. It was a hard game to lose as the church boys made their winning points on mean fouls.

Ernest Dorflinger now comes across with the announcement of another Central New Jersey Baseball League. It's a good thing, push it along.

The game scheduled to be rolled by the local Elks with Hoboken tonight has been postponed and will probably be decided Thursday or Friday night instead. Several of the members of the local team had dates around the sugar "bowl."

MARTIN WILL COACH P. H. S. CANDIDATES

The Yankee Shortstop Held a Conference With Captain Good Saturday Night.

When asked to verify the report now in circulation that he would not be a member of the Driscoll baseball team when it starts on its southern tour February 15, Jack Martin did so on Saturday night. He said that he would wait until Frank Chance and his team of Yankees started for the Southern clime and he would be right in the running when the season opened. Martin does not intend to give his wing a rest however, but will devote the extra time to coaching the Plainfield High School baseball candidates in the fine points of the game. He trained the schoolboys last year and it was due to his efforts that a wealth of green material was turned into a half way descent representative high school nine.

Martin has been laying off all winter and says that he is in the finest kind of condition at the present moment to pound the horsehide to the four corners of the lot and the little exercise he gets in the P. H. S. cage will put the final edge on so that he will not be troubled with Charlie horses or any other early season affliction when he starts work in the South. The fact that he has applied to Chance for a tryout on the second sack, means that he will have to show just a little better article of ball than Roy Hartzell, who has also announced himself as a candidate for that berth. Hartzell has played nearly every position on the diamond and outfield and will be a stiff proposition to displace.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIELD TRIALS.

Grand Junction, Tenn., Jan. 27.—With a week of field events in prospect, dog owners and handlers with their strings of honor winners have assembled here in numbers to compete in the national championships under the auspices of the United States Field Trials Clubs. The trials here will mark the official end of the season's running. Five pointers and fourteen setters are entered for the National Championship, the most coveted of all stakes of its kind in America.

LAWN TENNIS AT PINEHURST.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 27.—A well-filled entry list assures some spirited competitions in the third annual midwinter lawn tennis tournament, which opened today on the courts of the Pinehurst County Club. The events will continue through the entire week and will include women's singles, men's singles, mixed doubles, men's doubles and women's doubles for midwinter sterling cups.

ELKS' CONTEST POSTPONED.

The bowling contest scheduled to be rolled tonight between the Elks' team of this city, and the Queensboro antlered tribe was called off by the local players, several of whom have important business engagements which they cannot break. The game will probably be contested Thursday or Friday night of this week.

BASEBALL LEAGUE MOVEMENT STARTED

Central New Jersey League Will Be Reorganized With Six or Eight Teams.

A movement was started Saturday night to reorganize the old Central New Jersey Baseball League that flourished here two summers ago and the activity manifested assures the local fans of some more real baseball. Invitations have been sent to all of the surrounding semi-professional diamond aggregations including all of the nines that comprised the team during its initial season. There is a possibility that all of the old aggregation with the exception of High Bridge, will take out a franchise and it may be necessary to increase the organization to eight contestants instead of the half dozen it formerly included.

It is likely that Somerville, Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Westfield, Scotch Plains and this city will send strong representative teams and a number of other baseballically inclined towns in this vicinity. The reported transfer of the Driscoll team to New Brunswick may mean a new set of diamond artists for this city, but it is safe to say that Ernest Dorflinger, the local manager, will have a nine that will be in the running when the league pennant is awarded. It fell to the lot of the Dorflinger herd to annex the bunting two years ago and they did it by taking a great game from the Somerville bunch who are out to turn the tables if another league is organized.

At the meeting Saturday night Mr. Dorflinger was elected to send out invitations to the possible league contestants to attend a meeting to be held February 15, at which time the final arrangements for the new project will be completed.

THE THROPE CASE SHIFTS TO NEW YORK

Glenn Warner, the Carlisle Coach, to Confer With A. A. Union Officials.

Glenn Warner, the athletic director of the Indian School, started for New York last night with the intention of delivering to the athletic authorities of the Amateur Athletic Union all the information in his possession in regard to the case of Jim Thorpe, wherein America's greatest athlete is charged with having infringed the amateur rules by playing with professional baseball teams.

Mr. Warner had received a command from the Middle Atlantic division of the A. A. U. wherein it was stated that action would immediately be taken by that body of the A. A. U., to the effect that his presence would be desired at a hearing to be held in Carlisle today in an endeavor to help clarify the situation in regard to the charges revolving around the greatest athlete in the world, but Warner presumably preferred to go to headquarters in New York.

Mr. Warner would say nothing in relation to the case other than that he had received intimation from the Middle Atlantic Association that Thorpe's record during the years named in the published charges would be inquired into and that any information Warner had to give would be thankfully received by the governors of amateur athletics.

It was also intimated in the word to Warner that the A. A. U. officials intended empowering the managers of the Southern Association to make special inquiry into Thorpe's doings in the Carolina district during the years he is said to have played baseball there.

AJAX DEFEATED BY HOPE CHAPEL FIVE

Third Game For the City Championship Will Be Played on Some Neutral Court.

Hope chapel evened matters up with the Y. M. C. A. Ajax in the second game of their city championship series on the Hope court Saturday when they took the association players into camp by a count of 37 to 26. Although leading at the end of the first half, the Y. M. C. A. five weakened along the shooting line in the final period and the Hope contingent swung into the lead never to be headed off. A deplorable deficiency along the scoring line forced the Ajax to take the runner up position in the final half, and the Chapelites, who shot from all angles of the floor, took the lead and the game at one grasp. The Ajax were closely guarded by the strong Hope guards but were afforded plenty of opportunities to score of which they could not seem to take advantage.

Allen Snyder, from his position at guard, had the whole Ajax team worried, especially in the last few minutes of play when he scored five of his six field goals. He was all over the floor and his speedy team work completely bewildered the opposition. He had a good running mate in the scoring department in the person of Johnny Heron, the little Hope captain, who, by some strange coincidence, played against Captain Brynarski, of the Ajax, as he did in the previous game. For the Ajax, no one man stood out with any remarkable degree of prominence over his team mates, for none of the players approached their standard of playing either in shooting or passing.

The teams have each won a game to date and negotiations are now under way to play the third and deciding contest on some neutral court with a trophy as an award to the winner of the series. It has not been definitely decided where the game will be played but it is likely that the playoff will be staged either at the theatre or at Saengerbund Hall.

SUMMIT CLUB LOST TO THE 'PLAINS FIVE

Parish House Team Trims Visitors By a Count of 40 to 20.

A basketball team from the Summit Parish House invaded Scotch Plains for the third time this season Saturday night, and for the third time went home a loser. It fell to the lot of Scotch Plains to administer this walloping and they did the trick with a count of 40 to 20. The visitors were never in it after the first few minutes of play and by a mixture of snappy passing and accurate shooting they swept the Summit aggregation off its feet. But two field goals were scored by the visitors in the first half while the home players were totalling up twelve of the two point variety.

The Scotch Plains' five was both weakened and strengthened when it took the floor Saturday night. Weakened by the loss of Lidgate, who was out of the game because of an injured ankle, and strengthened by the addition of Jack Ricketts, the former Plainfield High School captain, who played guard. PARISH HOUSE FIVE LOST TO WESTFIELD

Scotch Plains' Second Team Falls Before Westfield A. C.

A delegation from Westfield lined up against the Scotch Plains' Parish House second team on the latter's court Saturday night and went back to Mt. Ararat a victor by a score of 27 to 16. Great field shooting on the part of Allegar was responsible for the home team's downfall and all that it could do along the guarding line was fruitless in checking the scoring of this little athlete. The game was rather rough and fouling frequent on the part of both teams, the 'Plains aggregation taking advantage of six of the penalty throws.

Most of the Westfield players are regulars on the high school quintet of that place and the showing made against them by the Parish House five was therefore a creditable one.

SLOCUM TAKES TREATMENT.

Louis Slocum, local baseball player and present pitching recruit, with the Philadelphia Athletics, began treatment today with a local masseur. Slocum tore a ligament in the shoulder of his "salary wing" last summer while twirling on the sand at Asbury Park. The ground gave no support for his feet and as a result the local "phenom" had to rely solely upon his shoulders for speed. The constant pressure upon the member gradually wore away resistance and a small ligament was badly bruised and lacerated.

PRESENT LOVING CUP TO MASTER OF HOUNDS

The members of the Watchung Hunt Club at their meeting, last week, gave the master, Rufus C. Finch, a surprise, when they presented him with a loving cup, bearing the inscription, "In Appreciation of a Season's Good Sport." Mr. Finch was taken wholly by surprise.

Owing to the weather conditions the club has been obliged to abandon its weekly hunts, but several interesting fox hunts, after the American hounds, have been held. If the weather will permit one of these hunts will be held this week.

CHANCE HAS HARD JOB.

Fielder Jones, Former White Sox Manager, Registers a Knock.

Fielder Jones, former leader of the Chicago White Sox, said recently that, while Frank Chance was certainly worth all he could get from the New York Americans, he doubted whether Chance would please the Gotham fans. "Chance cannot possibly make a first division team of the club this year," said Jones, "for Boston, Philadelphia and Washington will have a firm hold on the top places, and Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland will all have clubs which I doubt Chance will be able to pass.

"If Chance puts the Yankees in the first division in three years he will be doing a wonderful thing, and long before three years the fans will be knocking him so hard that much of the ambition to build up a winner will be taken from him."

GUYON COMING ATHLETE.

Carlisle Man Likely to Rival Jim Thorpe Some Day.

Jim Thorpe, the world's greatest all round athlete, is to have a rival some day, according to latest advices from Carlisle. He is Guyon, the star Indian tackle, who played his first football game for the redskins last year.

Guyon, according to Warner, the coach and athletic director, is headed the right way and is as good a natural athlete as Thorpe. In the interests of science Thorpe has recently been undergoing measurements on the theory that his development is physically that of just about the perfect man. He is above all a product of gradual development.

INDOOR TRAP SHOOTING.

The annual sportsman's show will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, from Feb. 27 to March 8.

The trap shooting tournament will be conducted by Luther J. Squier of Pittsburgh. Besides the regular contest, there will be various special and team shoots and another interesting competition between Philadelphia and New York. The individual gunners will include the world's record makers and among them Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Minn.

NEXT GUARD ENCAMPMENT WILL BE AT SEA GIRT

Trenton, Jan. 27.—The New Jersey National Guard will camp at Sea Girt next summer, instead of participating in Government maneuvers. There will be no Government appropriations available for maneuvers and it is expected there will be a full five weeks' camp at Sea Girt as prevailed before the Government established the annual mimic war tactics.

The regular camp will open July 5, and if present plans are carried out, the Fourth Regiment, of Jersey City, and the Signal Corps will be the first commands to march into the military quarters at Sea Girt. The Fourth Regiment will be chosen in honor of the then Governor James F. Fielder, of Jersey City, and the camp will be known as Camp Fielder.

It is likely that the first three weeks of the camp will be taken up with the military schooling of the First Brigade, composed of the First, Fourth and Fifth Regiments, while the fourth and fifth weeks will see the Second Brigade, composed of the Second and Third Regiments, in camp. Brigadier General Hine will be in command during the first three weeks, by virtue of heading the First Brigade, and General Dennis F. ALLIES PLANNING TO RENEW WAR

Negotiations For Peace Are Abruptly Broken Off.

TURKS RE-ENFORCE ARMY.

Strong Campaign Against Adrianople and Tchatatja Allies' Program—With War Party In Control of Turkey, Renewal of Hostilities Certain.

London, Jan. 27.—The allies decided to break off the peace negotiations with Turkey and to appoint a committee to carry the decision into effect. This was agreed on at an hour's meeting at the Hyde Park hotel. The rupture would have happened Saturday, but the Servians awaited instructions.

The decision of the allies to break off peace negotiations means a resumption of the war unless there is a humble request for more time from Constantinople within a few hours. With the recent coup d'etat in the Turkish capital and the war party now holding the reins of government such a request is highly improbable.

It is evident that the Turks will not yield without a further taste of the sword. The Turkish people have not lost faith in their defeated army. Its leaders have told the people that the Ottoman forces are now re-enforced and can send the allies flying back across their borders. European observers consider this impossible. Further Turkish reverses are taken for granted.

Allies Prepare For Campaign.

Previous to the envoys' announcement word had come from Thrace that the allies were preparing openly for a strong offensive campaign against Adrianople and Tchatalja.

The Bulgarians, Greeks and Servians will attack these two points, with the possible addition of the Gallipoli peninsula. If the latter is assailed, however, Tchatalja will be the final object of the operations. The Greeks hope by forcing the Dardanelles to let their fleet through for a sea attack on Constantinople.

The allies may then attempt to force the south end of the Tchatalja line along the seacoast with the auxiliary fire of the Greek warships substituted for the galling bombardment of the Turkish fleet.

A detachment of Servians will be sent to aid the Montenegrins in the campaign against the stubborn garrison of Scutari. At the same time Janina is being approached by 50,000 Greeks in a semicircle. The Greeks have never signed the armistice. Winter weather and the mountainous region are aiding the Turks, but the Greeks are making progress.

TWENTY BITTEN BY DOG.

Hudson City Section of Jersey City Thrown Into Panic.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 27.—The streets of the old Hudson city section were filled with boys and girls on their way to Sunday school shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning and none of them paid much attention to a yellow mongrel dog that was trotting peaceably along Hancock avenue. At the corner of that thoroughfare and South street little Florence Pierce of 408 Palisade avenue was standing talking to some of her chums when the dog suddenly ran toward her and before she could back away or protect herself in any way the animal sprang at her face. His teeth sank into the flesh of her cheek, and then, as she tried to beat him off, too frightened to make any outcry, he chewed at her hands and did not break away until she had fallen to the sidewalk, while all the other children in the group had run screaming in every direction.

In an hour and a half, before the dog was killed, the maddened animal had bitten and torn fully twenty persons, most of them boys and girls. Nine of them were hurt so seriously that they were removed to Christ hospital and the city hospital, while a tenth was taken immediately to the Pasteur institute in New York.

AEROPLANES TO FLY UNSEEN.

Material Discovered by Which They Can Be Made Invisible to Enemy.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Invisible aeroplanes will soon be in use in the war department as the result of discoveries made by officers of the signal corps.

The "invisible" material is liquid and is molded into shape, but it is said to be lighter and stronger than canvas and to be adaptable to any description of frame. The war department expects soon to make public the discovery.

The great advantage of the invisible aeroplane in time of war is regarded by army officers as incalculable. With the use of the new material they believe that a heavier than air machine would be indistinguishable at a distance of 500 feet, a much nearer flight to an enemy's position than any aviator probably would essay under present conditions.

Murder and Suicide After Revelry.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 27.—Charles F. Long, a wealthy wholesale liquor dealer of this city, shot and killed Miss Suzella Dickinson of Wilmington, Del., and then killed himself. The tragedy occurred in Long's office after a night of visits to roadhouses near Jacksonville.

MAY BE BRITISH QUEEN.

Roumania Princess Reported Engaged to Prince of Wales.

There is a rumor—of course, unconfirmed—that the Prince of Wales will marry Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, who was born on Sept. 29, 1894. Her royal highness is the second child and the eldest daughter of the crown prince and princess of Roumania.

WAITERS LOSE OUT; MANY SEEK OLD JOBS

Blame Police Clubs and Lack of Public Support.

New York, Jan. 27.—The general strike of the hotel workers, which was promoted and nursed by the agitators of the big Bill Haywood organization, the Industrial Workers of the World, has collapsed. The strike leaders admitted that the fighting spirit had oozed out of their followers and that within twenty-four hours waiters and cooks and others would be scrambling for their old jobs.

The organizers sent by the Industrial Workers of the World to show the hotel workers how to fight according to the tactics of Haywood and Ettor were the first to admit defeat. Patrick Quinlan, the general organizer, and Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the principal speechmaker, were hard at work trying to convince the leaders of the International Hotel Workers' union that he who fights and runs away can live to fight another day.

Less astute perhaps than the professionals of the Industrial Workers of the World, the leaders of the Hotel Workers' union were struggling at the executive committee meeting to prolong the strike but they were told frankly by the Industrial Workers of the World strategists that the battle was lost and that terms had better be made as quickly as possible. There were a number of causes for the failure of the strike. Among them were an absence of public sympathy, the lukewarm attitude of 75 per cent of the union waiters satisfied with their pay and the discovery of the strikers that the police were not afraid to use their clubs.

After three days of window smashing, of assaults on nonunion waiters and of noisy demonstrations there was less work last night for the police and the private guards by whom most of the hotels were guarded.

SHE KILLS HUSBAND IN DUEL.

Wife Accepted Challenge With Rapiers, Saying Honor Was Attacked.

Moscow, Jan. 27.—Mme. Madia Putchin killed her husband in a duel with rapiers, to which she had formally challenged him. The Putchins were both professors of fencing, and their rooms were crowded every day with fashionable people. One of these was an army officer who aroused the jealousy of M. Putchin. The jealousy of the husband led the officer to issue a challenge, but Mme. Putchin, declaring that her honor had been insulted sent seconds to her husband and insisted that he should fight her first.

In the actual duel Madia made a vigorous attack. The husband contented himself with parrying her thrusts, but in the third bout his wife's rapier pierced his heart and killed him instantly.

Spano, who was with his wife when she started on a walk, is missing. The couple went to Watervliet from New York last month. A revolver was found near the body.

DOG LEADS POSSE TO DEAD MASTER

Boy Found Drowned Face Downward In Pool.

TERRIER GUARDED BODY.

As Posse Was Returning From Unavailing Search Dog Runs From Woods In Front of Them and Barks Till Men Follow Him.

Phillipsburg, N. J., Jan. 27.—Because of the loyalty and intelligence of a pet fox terrier which guarded the body of his little three-year-old master where it lay face downward in a pool of water in a swamp at Oxford, the parents of William Thorne have recovered the child's body.

The little boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Thorne. A posse of men had been searching for the child in the belief that he had been kidnaped, as several men of suspicious appearance had been seen in the neighborhood of the home of the Thornes.

As the posse was returning from an unavailing search the dog ran from the woods in front of them, barking and dashing into the underbrush, only to return and repeat the performance. When he had done this several times the men followed him.

The dog led the posse through the woods to a swamp and, threading his way over the marshy ground, took them to a shallow pool, where his master was found face down in the water and dead from suffocation.

It was customary for the lad to play with the dog near his home, and it is thought that the child had followed his pet into the woods to the swamp. The child evidently got caught in the mire and when exhausted by his struggles to free himself fell into the water where he was found.

MAN NEARLY ELECTROCUTED.

Lamp Wire Drops on Horses and He Barely Dodges It.

Riverton, N. J., Jan. 27.—John Watson, a farmer, and two horses narrowly escaped electrocution when an arc lamp wire dropped on the team as it was crossing Broad and Lippincott streets. Both horses were felled by the voltage from the electrified strand, and the driver dodged just in time to escape the wire.

Police telephoned to the power plant to cut off the current, and when this accomplished it was discovered that the horses, although badly burned, were still breathing. It is believed they will live.

LIVE WIRE A THIEF TRAP.

Robber's Dead Body Found by Store Owner In the Morning.

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 27.—Michael Fallon, nineteen years of age, of this city was killed by electricity while he was robbing the small fruit store of Anthony Menzi here. The hand of the young man was badly burned, indicating that in groping about the place in the dark he had touched a live wire.

The body was found by Menzi when he opened up for business. He immediately notified the police, and a doctor was called, but he said the man had been dead for several hours and that in all probability he had been killed by a live wire.

GAS CONTRACT OF CITY VALUABLE

Corporation Counsel Warns Council of Probable Losses by Its Surrender.

HAS PURCHASE OPTION

Chemist for Sewage Disposal Works Engaged at $100 a Month—Judge Collins Retained as Special Counsel.

Referring to the old agreement between the city and the Plainfield Gas Company, in support of his argument that the city should hesitate in making a new contract with the Public Service Corporation, Corporation Counsel W. M. Stillman communicated with the Council, last night, informing that body that under the old contract the city has ample redress in case it considers that it is not getting the best service.

Mr. Stillman further called attention to the fact that under the original agreement the company must provide free lights for all public buildings, and in addition the city is given an option to buy the plant in 1923 and 1928 and every five years afterwards. He urged the Council not to surrender this contract, which was so carefully drawn by the late Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh. The communication was referred to the street lighting committee.

The Universal Audit Company, of New York, offered to audit the city's books for $500. This was referred. The semi-annual report of the Plainfield Fire Department Pension Fund Association was filed.

Permission was given the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield to remove a pavilion from the Muhlenberg Hospital grounds to Muhlenberg place, where it is proposed to establish an open-air school. Charles Peterson, sewer contractor, was granted an extension of time to May, 1913, to complete his work.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane called the attention of the Council to the fact

QUARANTINE STUDENTS AT CHAPTER HOUSE

Harry D. Smith, One of the Afflicted D. K. E. Boys, Removed to Hospital.

New Brunswick, Jan. 28.—Eleven members of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity of Rutgers College are under quarantine in the chapter house in College avenue. Harry D. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith, of Grandview avenue, one of the members of the fraternity who has been suffering from scarlet fever for several days, was removed to St. Peter's hospital.

The other members of the fraternity who have been brought into contact with the stricken student are under quarantine and are not even allowed to poke their noses out of the chapter houses, a condition which college students find it difficult to endure. The situation is doubly serious in view of the fact that the college examinations are going on and the young men are unable to take the tests with their classes. Instead they are writing their examinations at the chapter house under the honor system.

Young Smith was formerly a student in the North Plainfield High School and is one of the most popular members of the sophomore class at Rutgers. He belongs to various class societies and played on his class football team last fall. The other inmates of the chapter house will have to undergo ten days' isolation. In view of the fact that steps were taken immediately after Smith became ill to enforce quarantine no epidemic of scarlet fever is feared.

Although his condition was at first considered grave, Smith has rallied favorably and his complete recovery is expected. His parents and immediate members of the family were permitted to see him for the first time this afternoon, although they were forced to carry on their visiting through a pane of glass.

A STILL ALARM.

Firemen were called out at 10 o'clock this morning in answer to a still alarm from the Synagogue Ahavat Chasad, at 534 West Third street. A candle in the front of the edifice had burned down and it was feared that the structure was in danger of destruction. No damage was occasioned. The building is owned by S. Taub.

GERMAN SOCIETY FIFTY YEARS OLD

Big Banquet Marks the Golden Anniversary of the Gesang and Turn Verein.

AT SAENGERBUND HALL

President Henry Haurand and Rev. George Hauser Speak—Musical Selections and Dancing—Brief Sketch of Club's History.

Addresses, following a banquet and a general celebration, which included musical selections and dancing, provided the program enjoyed last night by members of the Gesang and Turn Verein in Saengerbund Hall, in observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the society. The golden celebration lacked none of the enthusiasm which has distinguished the society since its organization during the stirring period of the Civil War. The event was featured by the presence of several of the older members.

The celebration was begun with a selection by the singing section as the guests seated themselves around the banquet table. Henry Haurand president of the society, acted as toastmaster, and delivered a lengthy address in German, telling of the organization of the Gesang and Turn Verein and of the untiring efforts of the early members to make it a large and prosperous body.

The Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, also made an address in the German tongue. He said in part: "I sincerely regret that we may not be here to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of this splendid organization, which is composed of such good Germans and good Americans. I hope you will all be brave and noble citizens; take active part in the affairs of the community and affiliate yourselves with the government for the universal betterment of the Christian world." He ended his address with a toast to the society and its president, Mr. Haurand. Other speakers throughout the evening voiced their senti-

CORPORATION COUNSEL IS A VERY BUSY MAN

For His $1,200 a Year Salary He Has Done Extraordinary Amount of Work.

William M. Stillman, who has tendered his resignation as corporation counsel to take effect February 1, or when his successor is appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart, presented his annual report at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night, showing that during his term of office he has been busily engaged in attending to the city's legal affairs. In view of the increasing duties of the office, Mr. Stillman suggested that the city employ an attorney and counselor as an assistant.

Mr. Stillman's report states that he has rendered one thousand opinions, drafted resolutions, ordinances, attended various meetings of the Council and committees and had appeared in court on seventeen occasions in the interest of the city. Mayor Stewart will name Mr. Stillman's successor at the February meeting of the Council, but as yet no hint has been given as to who will be selected for the position.

The salary of the corporation counsel is $1,200 a year.

PLAINFIELD GIVES AID TO CHARITY BALL ARRANGED BY HOLY NAME SOCIETY

WM. L. SAUNDERS IN GIANT CONCERN

One of the Incorporators of the International Harvester Corporation.

PERKINS IS A DIRECTOR

Papers Filed at Trenton Yesterday—Old Harvester Company Under Fire of the United States Government.

Trenton, Jan. 28.—Undeterred by the introduction of the Governor's Anti-trust bills in the Legislature, the interests in the International Harvester Company, one of the alleged trusts which is the target of a United States suit for dissolution, have just incorporated another big company here. It is the International Harvester Corporation and has an authorized capital stock of $70,000,000. The incorporators are: Harold F. McCormack, William J. Loudenback and John A. Chapman, of Chicago; Clarence F. Gregory and Robert H. Neilson, of New York, and William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield.

The capital stock is divided into $300,000 preferred bearing seven per cent. dividends, and $400,000 common, the par value of a share being $100. The present harvester trust which the Government charges with engaging in operations in restraint of trade is the International Harvester Company, capitalized at $140,000,000. It is a New Jersey corporation with these officers: President, Cyrus H. McCormack; treasurer, Harold F. McCormack. One of the directors is George W. Perkins, one of the leaders of the Progressives.

The charter of the new company permits it to operate under section 51 of the corporation law as a holding company. It may, therefore, acquire the stocks, bonds and other securities of other corporations and thus form other combinations. As it is chartered before the passage of the Governor's measure prohibiting formation of holding companies in the future, it will not be affected by the proposed legislation.

Plans are complete for the big charity ball to be given in Sebring's Auditorium, Friday night, by the Holy Name Society. The object of the ball is to provide an increased fund for the use of the Sisters of Charity in caring for the needy people of the city irrespective of religious belief. The committee is now busily engaged with the decorations which will be unusually attractive.

Among the especially invited guests of the evening will be Father B. M. Bogan, Father Hogan and Rev. Vincent Sciolla, of St. Mary's R. C. church; Mayor Percy H. Stewart, Police Chief P. S. Kiely and many others.

The ball promises to be the most successful affair held under the auspices of the Holy Name Society in many years. The complete lists of committees were published in the Daily Press yesterday.

SAYS HE KEPT MONEY FOR WAGES IN ARREARS

Joseph Carson, of North Plainfield, a former employe of Charles W. Harrison, a wood dealer, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged with embezzling $12, the amount of a collection made for his employer, which it was claimed he had appropriated for his own use. Although $12 is the amount specified in the complaint, Carson, the police allege, had taken more amounts. He was represented by Robert Newton Crane.

Carson did not deny collecting and keeping the money, but said in his defense that it was money due him from his employer for back wages. After hearing several witnesses the court released Carson in bonds of $200 to await the action of the grand jury. His father is his bondsman.

HETFIELD SECURE BY CIVIL SERVICE

Present Asst. Prosecutor of Union Co. Cannot Be Removed Except for Cause.

SAYS CHIEF EXAMINERS

His Office Will Therefore Not Be a "Plum" to Be Given a Democrat—Hetfield, Jr., Has Performed His Duties Satisfactorily

While there is much speculation among Democrats upon the expected appointment of an assistant prosecutor for Union county, the present incumbent, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of this city, is protected by civil service. Word to this effect has been received from Gardner Colby, the chief civil service examiner. As his work in the office has won commendation from Democrats and Republicans alike, his friends declare he cannot be deposed. There must be some charge preferred against an official under civil service and he must further be given a hearing by the State Civil Service Commission, before any steps can be taken to name his successor.

Mr. Hetfield is under the non-competitive classification in civil service, Mr. Colby states. This means that no examination was required for him, but otherwise it is no different from the competitive classification under which most employes of the State and county are listed.

All assistant prosecutors in the State are under civil service, it is understood, through an act of the Legislature in 1908. Mr. Hetfield was appointed assistant prosecutor several months before that law was adopted. He received notification from the Civil Service Commission that he was included among those whom it affected, however.

The assistant prosecutor is appointed by the prosecutor, and contrary to the opinion of many neither the Governor nor anyone else besides the prosecutor legally has a voice in his selection. Due perhaps to the fact that he appreciated the civil service feature of the situation, it is declared that Governor Wilson has not interested himself in the assistant prosecutor contest. If such an appointment were to be made here, it is said that he considered that his selection for prosecutor would be well qualified to name a satisfactory and competent man.

A CORRECTION.

It was incorrectly reported yesterday that Daniel J. Courain would be the floor manager for the ball to be given by the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish on Friday night. Owing to a death in the family, Mr. Courain will not participate in the affair.

WANTS TO RETAIN ITS HIGH SCHOOL

North Plainfield Principal Opposes Transferring Pupils to City High School.

GIVES SOME FIGURES

Board of Education Alarmed at Number of Children Applying for Working Papers and Grievance Committee Will Get Busy.

Supervising Principal Arthur B. Vossler, of the North Plainfield Public Schools, appeared before the Borough Board of Education, last night, and presented arguments against the proposed plan of sending High School pupils to the Plainfield school instead of erecting a new High School building in the borough. He submitted his comparison of the cost involved by the two plans, his figures asserting that the borough would save no money by sending the children to Plainfield. He alleged that by abolishing the High School the borough would take a big step in lessening real estate values "over the brook."

It was also set forth in Mr. Vossler's report that the cost of supplies for the kindergarten are the same as those for the High School pupils. He explained that owing to the large enrollment in the kindergarten it is proposed to divide the class on February 1, holding two sessions, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon.

The many applications received by the Board for working papers for children between the ages of fourteen and seventeen years of age has aroused the members and steps will be taken making it more difficult to secure such papers. In the future each case will be carefully investigated and papers will be granted only where there is shown to be an absolute need of the pupil going to work to help provide for the family.

The Misses Edna Pangborn, Anna Johnson and Charlotte Sutton and Jack Harper, James Wherry and LeRoy Taynor filed application with the Board, giving various reasons for wanting to leave school. The mother of James Wherry complained that her boy had lost considerable time this winter because of the non-completion of the new heating plant in the school and she had decided to put the boy to work. All the applications were referred to the greivance committee, comprising Charles I. Nash, Francis L. Sill and Hiram A. Woodruff, and each case will be investigated personally. A report will be made at the meeting of the Board, Monday night, February 10.

Mrs. Sarah Warner, who has been a substitute teacher, was appointed a temporary teacher at a salary of $3 per day, to serve during the absence of Miss Anna McGrane, due to illness. This formal action was taken to overcome a provision of the law which says that no "substitute teacher" shall receive more than $2 a day. This rule, as well as others which are deemed antiquated, will be revised.

PROTESTS FILED WITH THE COUNCIL

One Huge Petition Against Increasing Number of Licenses.

RECEIVE MANY OTHERS

Public Hearing to Be Held Following a Conference of the License Committee With the Other Members of the Common Council.

If there was any doubt in the minds of the members of the Common Council as to the advisability of increasing the number of license places in the city, renewing the applications of Christian Gloekler or Alexander D. Findlay or extending the "Tyler License Zone," they must at least have been impressed with the forcible protest against such action as presented at the adjourned meeting of the Council last night. Not in recent years have the people displayed so much interest in the matter. The city fathers had announced that all protests in writing must be presented on or before January 27, and there was a general response. The Council decided last night to hold a conference with the license committee on Thursday night for more careful consideration of the protests and liquor applications, at which time a date for a public hearing will be fixed. In response to several requests the members also went on record as being in favor of the plan of holding a hearing in a large public auditorium, such as the Plainfield High School, giving all who desire an opportunity to attend and be heard. This hearing will probably be held some time next week.

In anticipation of an interesting session, the lobby was filled with people, some opposing and others favoring licenses, but no action was taken other than to refer the protests to the license committee to be taken up later for more mature consideration. Among the communications

SEEK AMENDMENT OF BUILDING CODE

Council Hears Spokesman for Parties Desiring to Erect Moving Picture House.

The question of amending the building code to permit Harry Dreier, Morris Abrams and Jacob Fass to erect a moving picture theatre on the Martine tract on West Front street, which they recently acquired, was again brought before the Common Council last night. Mr. Dreier was given the privileges of the floor, upon request of Councilman Reville.

It was explained that the code at present provides that all entrances to such buildings shall be twenty-five feet, while Mr. Dreier and his colleague desire it amended allowing eighteen feet for that purpose. The reason for making this request is that the rest of the frontage is needed, he said, for stores. He assured the Council that a fine, modern building would be erected, one that would be an ornament to the city. It is proopsed to operate a moving picture theatre only and not give regular plays or vaudeville performances. In answer to a question he said that the lobby would be about sixty or seventy feet deep.

Councilman Endress in answering Mr. Dreier's statement that he wanted the code amended to cover but the entrance, said that it would also have to be amended to meet the proposed plans of one exit in the rear, the code providing for two, and this could not be done, he said, unless the corporation counsel drafts an ordinance. The whole matter was referred jointly to the committees on laws and ordinances and fire and buildings.

ARRESTED FOR BEGGING.

Elizabeth, N. J., Jan. 28.—Lawrence Powers, who gave his address as Apartment No. 10, Madison avenue, Plainfield, was arrested here last night by Constable Thomas L. Carey, for begging from him and others in his neighborhood. When arraigned before Judge Mahan this morning Powers denied the charge of panhandling and referred the court to Police Chief Kiely, of Plainfield, as to his character. The Judge suspended sentence after an investigation.

MAYOR'S HOME IS A HISTORIC MANSION

Bound Brook's Executive Lives in Baron Steuben's Old Headquarters.

Standing on the old turnpike leading from New Brunswick to Morristown, just south of the village of Bound Brook, is the old Staats homestead of pre-Revolutionary days. This building is now the residence of Eugene D. La Tourette, mayor of the village of South Bound Brook. Though several modern wings have been added, the central part of the house remains as it originally was. The old-fashioned double half-door with bull's-eye windows; the square window sashes with their tiny panes; the steep roof with its dormer windows; the broad stairway; the low ceilings with their heavy hewn beams; the wide deep-set fireplaces all show the ancient date of its construction.

In this house you can really feel influenced by its architecture and interior adornments, that you are back in the early days of the settlers. Here you may feast your eyes on a wealth of Revolutionary relics. Here you can look upon oil paintings of those true American patriots, Abraham Staats and wife, in their quaint Dutch dress, who resided here during the Revolution, and were always true to the cause of liberty though often sorely beset by British foes. You may be honored by being permitted to sit in the very chairs that once held Washington and his amiable wife, and many of the distinguished men of the Revolutionary period. You may walk upon the same rugs they trod; look upon the same ornaments and pictures, and even quaff the "elixir of life" from vessels that were old when Washington was young.

It was here that Baron Steuben, Major General of the American forces, had his headquarters while the army lay in camp on the nearby mountain side. It was here that spies were sheltered on their way from British lines to patriot headquarters at Morristown. It was past this house that General Lord Cornwallis led his 4,000 British troops on the early morning of April 13, 1777, to defeat General Benjamin Lincoln and his 500 American soldiers in the battle of Bound Brook. The old Staats house is, indeed, an ancient relic, and worthy to be preserved as a historical landmark.

Those work seekers who expect to find a job through one publication of a want ad are sometimes disappointed—though not always.

BREAKING OF PEACE PLANS DELAYS WAR

May Be Two Weeks Before Hostilities Are Resumed.

London, Jan. 28.—The drafting of the note rupturing the peace negotiations to be presented by the delegates of the Balkan nations to the peace plenipotentiaries of Turkey was begun by the committee appointed by the four allied delegations. The committee consisted of Michael Madjareff, Bulgarian minister in London; Professor Georgios Streit, Greek minister to Austria-Hungary; Dr M. R. Vesnitch, Servian minister to France; Count Voynovitch, chief of the cabinet of King Nicholas of Montenegro, with M. Politis of the Greek delegation as an adviser on questions of international law.

The complete note will be submitted to a plenary sitting of the Bulgarian, Greek, Montenegrin and Servian delegations.

However, even if the Balkan allies were anxious to resume hostilities, which it is currently reported they are not anxious to do, at least fifteen days must elapse before the guns can begin to go off again.

As it is understood that the note will give the Turkish delegation three days in which to answer, the expiration of that period would occur on Sunday, so that the Turkish reply would not be delivered until Monday next.

Then the allied delegations will have to notify their respective governments and ask Sir Edward Grey to convoke a final sitting of the conference for the official rupture of the negotiations, and also in order to thank the British government for its hospitality. This will take at least three days.

Even admitting that working with exceptional celerity this could be done the next day, hostilities could not be resumed until Feb. 11, owing to the four day notice required to be given of the conclusion of the armistice.

In the meanwhile, the fortress of Adrianople may fall, which is expected to become the automatic solution of the problem.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

On Saturday afternoon and evening "The Spring Maid" will pay a visit to this city at The Plainfield Theatre. Music lovers will remember this joyous operetta. Most of them are familiar with the many melodic gems from its tuneful score. Who does not recall its seductive waltz number, "Day Dreams," or the romantic duet, "Two Little Love Bees?" Nor can we forget "Fountain Fay," "How I Love A Pretty Face," the comical "Three Trees" number and other lilting melodies that will live for many years in memory. Miss Gene Luneska, the captivating little Russian lady who won so many hearts last year, will again be seen in the role of the saucy Princess Bozena, while once more J. H. Goldsworthy will sing the role of the dashing Prince Aladar. Werba and Luescher, the producers, promise even a better company than last season. The production will also be entirely new as to scenery and costumes. "The Spring Maid" chorus and ballet which achieved an enviable reputation by their splendid singing and wonderful dancing last season, will again be one of the features as will the Metropolitan orchestra carried by the company. "The Spring Maid" has surpassed everything in the field of lighter musical entertainment of the past few years and this bubbling operetta bids fair to become one of the classics of the modern American light opera stage.

SEARCHES WITH "ADS" FOR BORROWED BOOK

Red Bank, Jan. 28.—Having loaned a book several weeks ago and forgotten the borrower's name, Joseph Reilly, a local lawyer, has adopted a novel advertising plan in the hope of tracing the stray volume.

Since the book left the lawyer's shelves he has advertised weekly in the local papers in terms calculated to strike the borrower with shame. The latest of these notices was as follows:

"May the Lord bring your shriveled soul to repentance, inspiring you to return volume 6 of Burton's Arabian Nights."

Wilbur, of Philadelphia, and Prof. Daniel Evans, of Andover Seminary, are among those who will be heard at the several sessions.

OLD FASHIONED MATS.

CONSTANT READER—In making the old fashioned braided rag mats or rugs, if wool rags are used, the strips must be cut two inches wide. If cotton is used, cut three inches wide. In either case sew evenly together in strips about five or six feet long. If sewed longer they cannot be braided easily. In braiding give the strip an inward turn each time to make it form a roll. This process can be kept up until the desired quantity is reached. Sew these braided strips together, commencing at the centre and working around in a circle or oblong shape as desired. A small piece of Brussels carpet makes a good centre.

SOMERSET IN THE SENATE.

Although it would be a trifle too premature to intelligently forecast the probable choice of the Somerset county Democrats for State Senator, there appears to be a strong sentiment in favor of former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield. As he is a man of extraordinary business capacity and of a high type of citizenship, clean and progressive, he would make an ideal candidate for the party. Should he receive the nomination, the Republican party would have a sorry time of it to find a candidate to beat him and many in close touch with Somerset county affairs appear to be firm in their conviction that with Mr. Saunders on their ticket the Democrats would sweep Somerset.

Mr. Saunders belongs to the political school of which Governor Wilson is the recognized leader and spokesman and he has been a consistent and persistent advocate of the progressive measures championed by the Governor. His devotion to Jeffersonian principles of government is well exemplified in his views on the tariff question. His stand in favor of revision downward is most unusual for a director and stockholder in big manufacturing interests, and all the more commendable when it is considered that he is president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, the largest manufacturers of drills in the world, and a director of the Harvester Company, the biggest concern of its kind in existence, both of which would naturally oppose stronger foreign competition. This is but an evidence of his sincerity in holding the interests of the country above his own personal interests. He is the kind of public servant that will be needed at Trenton to carry on the work instituted by Woodrow Wilson and his loyal and patriotic supporters in the Legislature when Wilson will have taken his place as the President of these United States.

BISHOPS' LAW ATTACKED.

There appears to be but little chance for the passage of House bill No. 21, for which Assemblyman Bredenbek, of Hudson county, is sponsor, but as it would constitute a repealer of the Bishops' Law, it is well to call attention to its many bad features, some of which follow:

Saloons will be legally open on Sundays after 1 o'clock P. M.

The age of a minor to whom a saloonkeeper can legally sell is reduced from 21 to 18 years.

Liquor may be sold to children accompanied by parent.

Reduces rate for license for wholesalers from $500 to $300.

Permits any saloon with a "club" attachment to serve liquors in any part of building.

Practically kills the screen-removal law by re-writing it in jumbled, meaningless terms.

Treats the "back room" prohibition in like manner.

Limits residents authorized to make complaints for revocation of license to "legal voters."

Permits saloonkeepers to appeal when found guilty, but refuses appeal to the complainants.

Removes all criminal penalty from violation of the screen law.

As the Elizabeth Journal well says:

"Certainly this measure strikes a blow at law and order on Sunday in New Jersey. It seeks privileges that the liquor trade would not even dare ask of the Legislatures of other States in this section of the country. The tendency everywhere is to curb this dangerous business rather than grant it increased privileges. The fact that in this State the liquor trade has pracically a free hand, and that the people have little or no opportunity for interference is probably the real reason that has encouraged the trade to attempt to increase its hold.

"As far as Union county is concerned," the Journal correctly states, "it is not difficult for anyone who cares to sound public sentiment to find out where the people stand. The last county conventions of the Republican and Democratic parties declared emphatically for the bishops' law. That there has been a change in sentiment toward the law since that time it would be foolish for anyone to assert."

Some short time since, Senator Fielder announced that he would retire to private life after filling the unexpired term of Woodrow Wilson in the gubernatorial chair. Now it seems that he does "not feel that it would be right to definitely decline at this time." It's a safe bet that Fielder will get in the race within the next fortnight, but he will have a mighty hard time to defeat Jersey City's mayor for the gubernatorial nomination.

AGED MAN IS FOUND DEAD IN HIS HOME

Well Known Somerville Painter Had Succumbed to Heart Disease Several Days Ago.

Somerville, Jan. 28.—Edward Mathews, aged seventy years, a well known painter and handy man about town, was found dead yesterday about noon in the small building which he occupied alone on the former Keys property on East Main street. The man had been last seen about the place on Friday. Edmund Dorn found him lying behind the stove and apparently had been dead for several days. County Physician Dr. W. H. Long declared death was due to heart failure, and granted the necessary burial permit.

It was first rumored about town that the aged man had been murdered and robbed, but no marks were found on the body to warrant such report. Mr. Matthews was a native of Hunterdon county, and has two sons residing in Flemington, and one daughter. Efforts are being made to locate the daughter before arrangements for the funeral will be made.

The house in which he lived was but a small one, the most of the buildings having been removed by the Somerville Realty Company, which intends to put up a number of modern dwellings on the site, the grounds having been graded and laid out in plots.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Somerville, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Leonard Appleby, of Mountain avenue, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Agnes Willma Brooks, to Paul Clifton Beardslee, of this place, at a five hundred party given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Simpson, of Newton, on Saturday. Miss Brooks is a granddaughter of the late Walter Speer, of Newark. Mr. Beardslee hold a responsible position in the First National Bank here.

HOW TO LIVE 100 YEARS.

"How to Live One Hundred Years and Some More," is the subject of an interesting lecture to be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday night, by Clarence T. Atkinson. The lecture is the result of thirty years of study and investigation. It plainly teaches how one may add greatly to the length of one's life by obeying scientific laws.

RELEASE BEAVERS IN $20,000 BAIL

High Bridge Defaulter Surrenders and Pleads Guilty Before Commissioner.

His Counsel, Foster M. Voorhees, Got Embezzler Back — Total Amount of Shortage Fixed at $132,000

Abram L. Beavers, the self-confessed defaulting cashier of the First National Bank, of High Bridge, who has been in hiding since the disclosures regarding his shortage became known last Wednesday, was placed under arrest at Elizabeth at 10:45 o'clock this morning by United States Marshal Louis G. Beekman and arraigned before Commissioner Richard Stockton in the Federal building, Elizabeth. Beavers pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzlement and was held in $20,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury, the return date being fixed for Monday, February 17, at Trenton.

It was learned several days ago that Beavers was stopping with friends in Brooklyn, but following his arrest today he declined to state where he had been. Marshal Beekman had the warrant for the arrest of Beavers, but as long as he remained on the New York side of the North River he was powerless. Commissioner Stockton finally got in communication with former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, and the latter promised to turn him over to the Commissioner at Elizabeth this morning.

In the menatime arrangements had been made for bondsmen, and when Beavers was arraigned Ezra Nason, of Hampton, and John D Hornby, of Glen Gardner, who were also present, promptly furnished bail in the sum of $10,000 each.

Commissioner Stockton frequently sits in the Federal building at Elizabeth, and he decided to have Beavers brought before him there so as to escape the army of New York newspapermen which had been camping on his trail for the past week.

Beavers was arrested and arraigned for violation of section 5209 of the revised statutes, charging embezzling, abstracting, misapplying and converting to his own use certain moneys, funds and credits of the First National Bank, of High Bridge, in the sum of $23,000. The total amount of his shortage it is estimated will be about $132,000.

Eased His Feelings.

Couldock's company was once barnstorming through Virginia. It was at Petersburg, and the play was "The Chimney Corner." All through the audience sat in distressing silence, neither laughing nor shedding a tear, although "The Chimney Corner" abounds with humor and pathos, and the company then producing it was of great merit for those times. Couldock appeared to pay no attention to the apathy of his audience until just at the close of the performance. The concluding lines of the play are somewhat to this effect: "You, John, are happy, and so are you, Ellen; so am I, and so are we all. Let us hope that our friends, the public, share our happiness." But, to the surprise of everybody, Couldock fell into a towering passion when he reached these lines, and in thundering tones he said: "You, John, are happy, and so are you, Ellen; so am I, and so are we all, except the —— —— fools that have been sitting like stoughton bottles in front of the footlights tonight."—Argonaut.

JOLTED HER DIGNITY.

The Matron, the Mules and a Spectacular Procession.

They tell a story in army circles in Washington, wherein a young matron of much dignity and a string of army mules were the principal actors. It appears that this young woman has quite a regal air, a circumstance that added much to the humor of the situation in which she found herself. Also, it should be added, it is her custom to investigate pretty thoroughly any new phase of life with which she comes in contact. Accordingly, on the occasion of her visit to an army post in the west, she had everything about the post carefully explained to her.

One day, when her host and hostess were out of the house, this young woman thought it well to go to the corral to inspect the army mules. She went among the animals, carefully examining each one.

She happened to wear a costume of very light color that quickly attracted the attention of the animals, which were accustomed, like all army pack mules, to be led by the whitest animal among them. They slowly wobbled their ears as they noticed the unfurled white parasol of their visitor.

The young woman finished her inspection and took her departure. As she left the corral, she heard steps behind her. Glancing back, she saw a mule following her, while all the rest of the animals were falling into line behind their leader.

She was not afraid. Indeed, she deemed fear quite beneath her dignity. But she was startled, to say the least, and quickened her pace. The mule immediately in her rear increased his pace, too, and marched steadily along with his nose just touching the back of the white parasol.

Then it was that the occupants of the long row of officers' quarters were astonished to witness the spectacle of an extremely dignified woman coming up the avenue, at a gait that might be termed a compromise between her dignity and a desire to run, with a string of army mules behind her, the head of each just touching the tail of the one in front of him. The young woman's steps are said to have exceeded the prescribed army stride by about two feet. Her dignity was decidedly "not on straight." There were about twenty-five mules in the procession.—Youth's Companion.

Verbal Chiropody.

The pastor, who was calling upon a member of his congregation, asked the name of the sprightly little daughter whose winning ways had attracted his attention.

"We call her Elia," said the little girl's mother.

"That is a good name, Mrs. Donley," remarked the minister. "It has been made classic by Charles Lamb."

"Well, to tell the truth," explained Mrs. Donley, "her name is Cornelia, but it's easier to call her Elia."

"I see," he rejoined. "And she probably likes it better. It is a painless extraction of a Corn."

REMARKABLE SHOWING OF BORO HIGH PUPILS

Supervising Principal Arthur B. Vossler's report of the North Plainfield schools for the month of January, submitted to the Board of Education last night, highly commended the work during the school year just ended, of the pupils of the high school. By a new law all the pupils having a standing of eighty-five per cent. or over, in their class work during the term are exempt from taking the examinations, and Mr. Vossler's report showed that sixty-nine per cent of a total registration of 143, were passed to a higher grade or graduated without the necessity of tests. The record made by the pupils taking the examinations were excellent, twenty-one per cent. of the pupils averaging 90 per cent. or over, in each subject. They are as follows:

Seniors—the Misses Marion Mair, Ruth Miller, Helen Hughes, Florence Coons and Mildred McAuliffe; David Levitz, Raymond Kline, Alfred Schroeder and George Townley.

NO DAMAGE AT FIRE.

Because a gas connection was broken in the kitchen of the apartment of George Lowrie, 528 West Third street, firemen were called out at 2:30 this afternoon in answer to a call from Box 81. The severed tubing caused a small ignition of gas but by the time apparatus arrived the occupants had extinguished the flames by shutting off the gas.

George E. Volk has removed from 239 to 248 Watchung avenue.

GAS CONTRACT VALUABLE

that the term of J. H. Duff as a trustee of the pension fund association had expired and he recommended that he be re-appointed for a term of four years. The matter will be acted upon later.

H. F. Rothback, a clerk in the Assembly with whom arrangements were made for copies of each bill introduced in the Legislature, informed the Council that he could not furnish two copies for $25 a year, considering postage, etc., but he offered to do the work for $40. This was referred to the finance committee.

The new small Board of Freeholders furnished the Council with a list of county officers, which was filed.

Official announcement was made of the appointment by the Court of Common Pleas of F. H. Andrews, Daniel J. Courain and A. J. Gavett as commissioners to make assessments in connection with street improvements and this together with the commissioners' oaths were filed.

Mrs. Charles Northern made application for a license to conduct an employment agency, which was referred.

Upon motion of Councilman F. E. Mygatt, Judge Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City, was engaged to pass upon the ordinance providing for the joint installation of a sanitary sewage system as proposed by the city, North Plainfield and Dunellen. All the members voted for the motion except Mr. Reville.

John R. Downs, formerly employed by the Government on the Panama Canal work, and an expert chemist, was engaged at a salary of $100 a month as manager and chemist at the sewage disposal works, succeeding R. S. Lanphear, resigned. The necessity of having such a person was pointed out by Mr. Mygatt, who brought the matter before the Council.

In response to a request, a resolution offered by Mr. Endress and adopted, authorized the installation of a fire box at West Seventh street and Hobart avenue. Mr. Reville offered resolutions, which were adopted, providing for an electric light on St. Mary's avenue, 300 feet southwest of Hill street, two lights on West Fifth street, one at the corner of Stanley place and the other at the corner of Lexington place, one light on Bergen street and the removal of a light from West Fourth street and Stanley place to West Fourth and Bergen streets.

ments toward the society and its officers and predicted greater results in the years to come.

Among the guests were many past officers, several of whom remembered the institution when in its infancy. The honorary members present were C. W. Krausse, Fred Bechtel, August Feiring, William Gardner and Charles Dresselt.

The Gesang and Turn Verein was organized in the winter of 1862 by members of the German Reformed church, which stood at that time at the intersectioin of Fifth street and Washington avenue. Henry E Krausse, father of C. W. Krausse, was one of the leaders in the movement. The society was known at that time as the Lieder Tafel and the few Germans who remained in these parts during the time of the Civil War kept the organization in operation until 1872, when a celebration was held in commemoration of the peace treaty which ended the Franco-German War. From this date to the present time the society has steadily prospered. In 1878, Christian Schepflin presented the Lieder Tafel with a German flag made in Switzerland, bearing the inscription "Plainfield Saengerbund." The name of the society was then changed to comply with this inscription.

On December 2, 1886, a turner club and the Saengerbund consolidated and at the same meeting a committee was appointed to arrange for the collection of a fund to purchase a site and erect a building. The present location was selected and the building erected and dedicated January 1, 1889. Prosperous times followed, singing, athletics, dramatic art, shooting and bowling were taken up by the society and the Ladies' Auxiliary was formed. The latter body will celebrate the silver anniversary of its organization on February 12.

The first president of the society was Henry Edward Krausse and these men held that office in the order named: William Kline, Solomon Flaig, Charles Marsh, Theodore Kurzhals, of West Sixth street, who is the oldest living president; Hugo Veigmann, F. William Heller, Charles Dresselt, Henry Haurand (first term), Herman Klinsman, John Wirth, William Gardner, John Retzer, E. F. Gardner and Stephen Schleif. Mr. Haurand succeeded Mr. Schleif, to serve a second term.

The celebration was arranged by these officers: President, Henry Haurand; vice president, Eugene Renz; corresponding secretary, P. R. Tobler; financial secretary, August Wolf, and treasurer, Richard Walter. They were assisted by a committee composed of members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, as follows: Mrs. Fred Frick, chairman; Mrs. Leopold Kurtz, Mrs. John Retzer, Mrs. Charles Meyer and Mrs. John Alster.

MISS GRACE KARR'S PUPILS GIVE RECITAL

Second in Series Much Enjoyed, the Performers Being Heartily Applauded.

The second of a series of recitals was given Saturday afternoon by the pupils of Miss Grace Powell Karr. The pupils were heartily applauded at every number. Miss Constance Haddon won the honor roll prize for December.

The following pupils took part: Percy Stelle, Herbert Hooker, Kenneth Burtis, Roswell Ewart, and the Misses Sarah L. Schuck, Katherine Endress, Helen Crane, Vala Coombs, Dorothy Manning, Ethel Wendell, Mildred Clark, Marjorie Burtis, Frances Avery, Adelaide Ricketts, Marian Frederickson, Katherine Holt, Josephine Hanlon, Alice Simons, Charlotte Fowler, Gertrude Rittenhouse, Constance Haddon, Elizabeth Louis, Edith Shotwell, Elsie Clark, Grace Gillahan, Madeline Hughes, Margaret Martin, Dorothy Roberts and Eleanor Manning.

There was some solo playing, ensemble playing, and exhibit of class work and a short talk on the convention of the Music Teachers' National Association held at Vassar College during the Christmas vacation. During this conversation the plain song or Gregorian chant was demonstrated by a number of pupils who sang "Oh Come, Oh Come Immanuel."

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE IS O. K. IN DUNELLEN

Borough's Board of Trade Tables a Resolution for More Rigid Enforcement.

Believing that Sabbath observance in Dunellen is generally satisfactory and that no attempt should be made to disturb present conditions, the Board of Trade of that place at a meeting last night voted to table a proposed Sunday closing ordinance which has been before that body for the past two weeks. Freeman D. Baerman presented the proposed ordinance at the last meeting of the board and when it was laid on the table he made a personal canvas of the merchants in the town for an expression of opinion.

The spirit of the merchants was shown last night when they again laid the proposition on the table. In speaking of the matter today, one of the merchants said:

"Everything is running smoothly in local business circles now and there is nothing to be gained by stirring up the Sunday closing question. The matter was presented at the Board of Trade meeting with the idea that if it was favorably acted upon, it would then be sent to the Borough Council. The stand taken by the merchants last night clearly indicates that they are satisfied with present conditions."

The reports of the retiring committees and other routine business occupied the rest of the time at last night's meeting. It was announced that the new chairmen of committees have entered upon their duties and the prospects for the coming year are bright.

CHARGE AGAINST ITALIAN COULDN'T BE SUSTAINED

After being arrested in Terrill road, this morning, as the man who obtained $24 under false pretenses from Harry Werner, the clothing dealer, of 206 West Front street, Antonio Truviso, of Cottage place, was released. Mr. Werner could not identify him. Roundsman Higgins made the arrest.

Truviso, it is said, lived with Dominick Saund, at 331 Cottage place, while both men were employed by the Central Railroad as laborers in the section gang at Fanwood. On October 22 Saund received a check for $24 for his wages. The check was stolen from his room and Saund reported the theft to his employers, who ordered the Coal and Iron National Bank, of New York, to stop payment.

A man answering Truviso's description, posing as Saund, went to Mr. Werner's store on November 30 and purchased clothing valued at $3, giving the check in payment of some and receiving cash for the remaining amount called for on the face of the check. Although, the police say, clothing was found in Truviso's home identical with the articles purchased in the Werner shop, the Front street merchant would not swear that the prisoner was the man who fooled him.

Mr. Werner besides losing the amount paid out to the swindler will be compelled by law to reimburse the railroad laborer for his loss.

TERRORIZED JERSEY CITY.

Lads Admit That Practically Every Robbery Committed in Fourth and Fifth Precincts Since Oct. 20 Has Been Their Work.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 28.—Revelations made to the police of this city by five boys arrested seem to indicate that the youthful band of burglars were more skilled than more experienced criminals.

In every instance where their stories have been investigated they have been found to be correct. Their mode of entrance consisted at times of a dextrous use of a human pyramid, reaching second story windows where there was no chance to get in by the ground floor. The older and heavier of the boys would bear the weight of the tiny mite Frank Garcia, six years old, who would pry open the window and, descending, admit the others to the house to be robbed.

Admitting that the band operated in the Bergen and Greenville section of this city since Oct. 20, all agree that practically every robbery committed in the Fourth and Fifth precincts of Jersey City have been their work.

In every instance the boys on entering an apartment would remove their shoes. In only one instance, according to the story told by two of the boys, did they have cause to make a hasty exit. This was at the home of Fred Palmer, 83 Clendenny avenue, this city. Here the boys were discovered by a pet parrot, which made such a noise that all made a hasty retreat. But they took the parrot with them.

At the residence of James N. Braden, a clerk of the First district court, they leisurely went through the sleeping apartments in their stocking feet and laughed at the soundness of the sleep being enjoyed by the members of Braden's family while they located the most valuable jewelry in the house. Braden's gold watch and chain, worth $120, was missing the next day. The watch was sold to a negro for 50 cents and was last week recovered from a Brooklyn pawnshop.

The brains of the gang, who acted as treasurer, was George Kless, eleven years old, of this city. Kless handled all of the money which came into possession of the band. It was understood by the other four that the money was to be used for equipment and for fare to the west. The trip was planned at the time the boys organized for their first robbery.

Admitting guilt to ten robberies in the Bergen section and four in the Greenville section, the five boys were remanded in the First criminal court of this city for examination later.

LOCAL SCHOOL TEACHER IS MARRIED IN RUSSIA

Cards announcing the marriage of Miss Catherine E. Carman, formerly of this city, to Leslie Ammerton Davis were received today by friends in this city. The ceremony took place at St. Petersburg, Russia, on December 18, and the couple went directly from there to the American Consulate at Batum, where they will make their home. The groom is an United States Consul in Russia. He practised law in New York city.

The bride was formerly a member of the local public schools' teaching staff and resigned her position in the Jefferson School early in November to make the trip to Russia. For three years she was a teacher in the Washington School and when the new Jefferson School was opened she was transferred there. She was secretary of the Congregational Sunday-school Bible Class and took an active interest in every branch of church work. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carman, of Brook Haven, Massachusetts.

PAY FOR JERSEY CONVICTS.

Striped Suits Abolished and Reform Warden Supplies Toothbrushes.

Caldwell, N. J., Jan 28.—Convicts in the Essex county penitentiary here who are able to work will be employed building good roads, for which service they will each receive $1.50 a day. This is the plan of Warden Ferdinand J. Hosp.

Heretofore prisoners at the penitentiary have regarded their employment on the public roads with disfavor because they might be compelled to work in stripes. The prison board, however, has acted favorably on Warden Hosp's recommendation abolishing striped suits.

One of the innovations at the penitentiary since Warden Hosp took office a few months ago is that every prisoner is supplied with a toothbrush and powder.

Homemade Poison Fails.

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 28.—Helen De Gerski, eighteen years of age, of this city drank a solution which she made by soaking match heads in water. It made her very ill, but it is said she will recover. Dr Davidson took her to the City hospital. She had been despondent for some time.

PARK COMEDY CLUB'S SPHERE IS BROADENED

The Park Comedy Club at a meeting last night adopted a new constitution, placing the organization on a broader basis and making provision for an associate class. These members will be given first opportunity to secure tickets for the club's productions, after which the sale will be opened to the public.

The executive committee is to have general charge, management and control of the club's affairs, current funds and property of the organization. It will also make up the acting list for each season and shall have entire charge of the selection and casting of plays to be produced by the club. This committee will meet once a month on the first Monday, except during July, August and September. The annual meeting of the club will be held the first Monday in May. The annual dues of the club for active members will be $1 a year and for associate members $5 a year this amount to cover the cost of tickets for club performances.

PLAN INVESTITURE OF BOY SCOUT ORGANIZATION

An investiture program has been arranged by those interested in the Boy Scout organization of the First Presbyterian church and will be held tomorrow night in the church rooms at 8 o'clock. The branch of the Boy Scouts of America established at the First Presbyterian church is one of the most flourishing in this vicinity. The object is to interest the boys of the church in the work of the world famous organization and to acquaint the juvenile set with the routine work of the local patrol. Addresses by some who have made a study of the boy question will speak and the troop will give an exhibition of the scout manoeuvres. A formation and drill will be conducted.

The Presbyterian boy scout organization has increased to such proportions since its organization that it has become necessary to divide the troop into a number of patrols.

The following will be the program: Opening address, George W. V. Moy; exhibition by troop, Scout Master Beals; announcement of names of the successful candidates, Benjamin J. Phelps; investiture, assembly of scouts, scout oath, interrogation by court of honor, presentation of certificates of passing; awarding of merit and second class bodges and pins, by William D. Murray; troop formation and drill; song by entire troop; "America."

FIRESHIPS IN SEA FIGHTS.

And the Floating Volcanoes That Were Called "Infernals."

Nothing in the thrilling narratives of many old sea fights appeals more strongly to the modern imagination than the doings of the fireships.

The idea of using incendiary vessels for the destruction of a hostile fleet was of great antiquity. They are said to have been employed at the siege of Tyre in 333 B. C. and again by the Rhodians about a century and a half later. By the English, however, they were first used in 1370, and two centuries later had come to be looked upon as a legitimate naval weapon, their attacks being regarded and dreaded in much the same way as are those of the torpedo craft and submarines at the present time.

The explosion vessels or "infernals," invented by the Italian engineer Gianibelli were the most formidable. The designer procured two vessels of about eighty tons each and laid along their bottom a foundation of brickwork. Upon this he erected a marble chamber with five foot walls containing 3,000 tons of gunpowder, while on the top of this chamber was a six foot layer of gravestones placed edgewise. A marble roof rose over these, and upon it was piled a quantity of round shot, chain shot, millstones, blocks of stone, iron shod beams and anything heavy which would cause the explosion to take a lateral effect. The effect of this floating volcano was appalling, for the masses of stone and shot, disintegrated and flung skyward by the explosive, fell and destroyed any vessels, buildings or men in the vicinity.

Three years later the Spanish armada before Calais was attacked by fireships prepared by the English. Eight vessels were selected, and so great was the haste that not even their guns or stores were removed. They were ignited and launched and with the wind and tide in their favor advanced straight for the center of the anchored armada. Ship fouled ship amid the cries of terror and the crash of falling spars, and, though the Spaniards finally succeeded in getting to sea, the fireship attack completely disorganized and demoralized them and helped largely to make the eventual battle of Gravelines the success it was.

The most recent and at the same time one of the most interesting fireship exploits which ever took place was that carried out against the French fleet in Basque Roads in 1809 by Lord Cochrane. His explosion vessel, intended to destroy the boom behind which lay the French fleet, was a truly awful contrivance. Cochrane piloted the vessel and fit the train at the last moment, and on the evidence of a French captain whose ship was close by it did its work well, for the air was filled with shells, grenades and blazing debris, while the explosion tore a huge rent in the boom.—London Globe.

were one from Alexander Findlay, who seeks a renewal of his license and one from friends of George Alcorn, urging that his application for a wholesale license at 117 North avenue be granted. This communication was headed by Frank M. Wagner.

The most formidable protest was a joint one received from the Federation of Men's Bible Classes and the Federation of Men's Church Clubs and Religious Organizations, which was signed by 816 names, all said to be residents and legal voters in the city. A copy was sen to the city clerk, J. T. MacMurray, and each member of the Council. The petition protested against renewals, increasing the number of licensed places and extending the "license zone." In fact, all of the petitions especially emphasized those points.

There was a petition from Rev. Dr. M. W. Vaughan and the officers of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, protesting particularly against granting a license for Clark's saloon, opposite the church. In this connection, an affidavit was presented by Oliver B. Leonard to the effect that the church was first established there in January, 1872, and that at that time there was no saloon in the neighborhood, disputing the statement that the saloon was there first. The law provides that no saloon shall be located within 200 feet of a church or public place of worship.

The protests against increasing the number of licensed places, renewals or changing the "license zone" came from the Federation of Men's Bible Classes and the Federation of Men's Church Clubs and Religious Organizations, George B. Zimmer, secretary of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs; A. W. Harris, 814 Webster place; Mrs. S. W. Bodine, for the W. C. T. U.; John H. Doane; West End Civic Association protesting especially against renewing Christian Gloekler's application; W. H. P. Veysey, president of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs; Mrs. E. T. DeForest, protesting against renewing the application of Clark and Watson; J. W. Harrison, Rev. Dr. M. W. Vaughan and the officers of the Mt. Olive Baptist church; U. B. Crane, on behalf of the Temple Baptist church; Trinity Reformed church, requesting that all license applications be refused and especially those of Gloekler and Findlay, while Congressman Richmond P. Hobson's speech on "The Great Destroyer," sent to President Clay, together with all other protests were referred.

Alexander Findlay, who seeks a renewal of his license, in a communication to the Council, stated that he had been engaged in business here eighteen years prior to losing his license and had never before had charges preferred against him. He reviewed the charges made against him by Captain A. S. Hewitt, of the Salvation Army, to the effect that he sold cheap whiskey, that women purchased liquor in his saloon, that persons bought liquor and carried it away in pails and bottles, that he sold to men on the black list.

Mr. Findlay admitted that he sold cheap whiskey, that a few women did patronize his place, which he did not think was a violation of the law, that there were two other places on East Second street where persons obtained liquor in bottles and pails, but added that he never willingly sold to men on the black list. He said that he asked Captain Hewitt for the names of such persons and he refused to give them to him. He said that he also frequently sought the police for such information, and he considered it only fair that he should have been given due notice. Mr. Findlay asserted that if the license committee had only told him not to do the things complained of he would have stopped the practice, and if given a license he would strictly comply with every rule and regulation governing the sale of liquor.

The protest from the Mt. Olive church called especial attention to the alleged obscene language permitted about Clark's saloon, that people carried beer from there in pails often crossing the church property and the whole thing was a condemnation of the manner in which the place was conducted.

Accompanying the protests of the Y. M. C. A. and W. H. P. Veysey were requests that the public hearing be held in a public hall. This matter was referred to the license committee, it being understood that it will make such arrangements at the conference Thursday night.

After all the protests had been received, Mr. Calkins offered two resolutions, both of which were adopted. One provided that in view of the large number of protests against liquor licenses that prior to a public hearing the Council hold a conference for the general consideration of applications and protests. The other resolution provided that the public hearing be held in a public hall, the time and place to be fixed by the Council and license committee.

POSTPONED MEETING.

Owing to the inability of two of its officers and several other members to attend, the meeting of the East End Taxpayers Association which was to have been held last night at 243 Leland avenue, was postponed until next Monday night.

Hair During Illness.

Whenever a person is ill at home one of the points most likely to be neglected is the care of the hair. In a great many cases women recover from an illness of only a few days to find their hair so snarled and matted that it almost is impossible ever to remove the tangles.

If on the first day of an illness the hair is properly taken care of there need be no occasion for this condition. The hair should be parted down the center and braided in two braids. The braids should commence far enough toward the front that the patient will not lie on them when the back of her head is on the pillow. The hair should be combed at least once a day. The patient should lie on her side, and then one-half of the hair can be dressed without any trouble, no matter how sick the patient may be.

In combing the hair one should commence at the ends, gradually removing the tangles by working upward. If the hair is grasped by the left hand between the roots and the part being combed the patient will not complain of the pulling.

If the hair is badly tangled olive oil may be applied, which will greatly lessen the labor. Where the matting is extensive it is not best to try to comb out all tangles at once, as it would be too much of a tax on the patient. A few strands can be separated at a time, then braided so as not to become tangled again.

When a patient is compelled to lie in bed for a number of weeks the hair may be washed without much inconvenience and without danger to the patient. The pillow should be well protected by a rubber sheet and the patient moved as near the edge of the bed as possible. Two basins of rather hot water, one containing the shampoo mixture and the other for rinsing, should be in readiness. One side of the hair should be washed at a time, then rinsed well. The hair and scalp may be nearly dried very quickly with several towels. After the shampoo the hair should remain spread out on the pillow for some time until thoroughly dry. A little alcohol may be rubbed into the scalp after rinsing. Care should be taken that the patient is not exposed to a draft for some time.

It is in the little details, such as the care of the hair, the teeth and the finger nails, that the thoroughness and training of a nurse are best shown. The finger nails should be given proper care every day as well as the hair, while the teeth need attention several times a day.

Have You a Pretty Back?

The woman is to be pitied who, no matter how beautiful her face or form, lacks the modish back, with its wonderful curves and rounded lines. Of no part of the body is it quite so true that curves are the lines of beauty as it is of the back.

If you chance to possess a back that is all angles instead of curves then it is evident that you must eschew decollete dresses, as for the next few months frocks cut so as to expose a goodly portion of the back will be all the rage.

The back that fascinates the eye is slender, but not thin. It is overlaid with a veiling of firm white flesh. It slopes gently into the waist line by almost imperceptible degrees. Have you such a back, lady fair?

One thing that every self respecting back should have is a dimple in the center of each shoulder blade. If your back is dimpleless it might be a good idea to treat it to a fifteen minute massage with cod liver oil every night, as this fattening treatment will bring dimples if anything will.

Since the back to be pretty must be white and satiny the wise little maiden scrubs it nightly with a bath brush fairly dripping with hot soda water. What kind of water is this? Simply water to which have been added two heaping tablespoonfuls of ordinary baking soda and a small handful of shredded soap. This simple skin cleanser and whitener does masterly work. Try it and see if you do not agree.

Treatment For Fine Skins.

Some girls have such fine skin that during the cold weather it is necessary for them to wear a veil almost all the time to keep it from chapping. If a protective agent such as powder be used it is absolutely necessary that it be pure, as the more delicate the skin the more care must be exercised in what is used upon it.

The following preparation is most valuable. If properly applied it will protect the skin:

Mix and sift together several times until free from lumps three ounces each of rice flour and rice starch, one and one-half ounces of carbonate of magnesia, one quarter of an ounce of finely powdered orris root, half an ounce of boric acid and ten drops of essence of rose.

Before applying to the face all the skin should first have a previous application of a thin film of cold cream or almond oil.

For the Gums.

To harden the gums try a wash made of hot water, one pint; borax, one ounce, and a teaspoonful each of spirits of camphor and myrrh. Dissolve the borax in the hot water and let cool before adding the other ingredients.

of lace, with deep rounded or pointed fronts, bordered with lace ruffles.

Jabots seem to be growing larger. Many of the newest types spread over the entire front of a blouse and extend around over the shoulder.

The house gown made in semiprincess style is a favorite one. This model has fronts that are overlapped to make a front closing. Whether the skirt shall be cut long or short is a matter of preference.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SOUPS FOR THE SEASON.

SOUPS that will give relish to the winter bill of fare are a valuable aid to the housewife. Nothing so quickly warms and revives the tired, cold human as a nice nourishing soup daintily served at just the right temperature.

Winter vegetables suggest themselves as the most popular ingredients for these soups, but cereals, such as rice or barley, or dried vegetables may take their places.

Vegetables With a Cereal.

Cabbage and Rice Soup.—Take half a small white cabbage, remove all the stalk and cut the leaves in pieces. Put these with half a cupful of washed rice into two quarts of light stock and add half a can of tomato soup. Season to taste.

Cauliflower Cream Soup.—Take a pint of the stock in which cauliflower was boiled. To it add two cups of boiling milk, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper and a tablespoonful each of butter and flour rubbed together and the outside leaves of the cauliflower which have been boiled until tender and chopped very fine. Boil five minutes, stir well and dust with paprika.

A Delicious Cream Soup.

Cream of Celery Soup.—Take a pint of white stock, a pint and a half of celery cut in inch pieces, two cupfuls of boiling water, one slice of onion, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two cupfuls of milk, one cupful of cream, salt and pepper to taste. Parboil the celery in water ten minutes, drain, add stock, and cook until celery is soft and rub through a sieve. Scald an onion in milk, remove the onion, add milk to the stock, add cream and season with salt and pepper.

Barley Soup.—Take a pound of the neck of lamb, wash and put it on to boil with two quarts of cold water, two tablespoonfuls of cut onion, two tablespoonfuls of carrot cut small, one tablespoonful of salt and one-eighth teaspoonful pepper. Boil slowly half an hour, remove the meat and strain the stock. To it add two tablespoonfuls of well washed barley. Chop the boiled carrot fine and add to the soup. Pick the meat from the neck of the lamb and chop fine and add it also. One tablespoonful of caramel and one tablespoonful of chopped parsley are added to make a very nutritious and wholesome soup.

Anna Thompson.

THE MODISH HAT.

Evening Coiffure Styles Never More Effective Than at Present.

The new hats are small and the smallest of them worn in the stylish way makes any woman look like a soubrette, but nowadays no one objects to appearing unladylike so long as she can be smart, and smartness means that she be schoolgirlish, simpering and indifferent in manner. The clothes and cuts make her so. The little hat rammed over the head and half concealing one eye, the big lock of waved hair covering the forehead and temple at the other side—all these render the modish woman undignified and undistinguished. However, it is a consolation for a woman who will have none of this, or, rather, not too much, for the most discreet must follow styles to a large degree, and it is a consolation for her to know that she can always choose something that suits her style, even though she must take the sleeve of one robe, the corsage of another and the draping of a third skirt to have what she wills.

The evening headdress is, however, a thing of great beauty. The illustration shows a becoming model of the Russian style.

Rose point lace, pearl beads and a white sunglass aigret combine to make a very chic coiffure cap. The lace cap fits snugly over the hair, and the pearl beads on long strings are gracefully looped up in an imitation of cord on a military turban.

IS YOUR BREAD CLEAN?

When we buy a loaf of bread in a shop whose counters are clean and whose showcases carry a tempting array of cakes and rolls we are not to conclude, as a matter of course, that the bakery at the rear or below stairs would also meet our approval. Not one customer in a thousand sees the conditions under which bread and pastry are manufactured, and it is this very removal from public view and criticism that constitutes the chief difficulty in enforcing existing laws for the proper construction of bakeries and for sanitary methods of carrying on the business.

There are many sanitary and clean bakeries and workmen who are careful and neat in their habits, but the reverse condition too often prevails. One bakery is described in a recent report as thirty feet long by seven or eight feet in width, with bags of flour ranged on one side and the dough tubs placed along the other. In the same rooms were found open sanitary arrangements, poor sewerage leaking out foul gases, a defective oven letting out fumes of coal gas, open cracks in the ceiling through which sifted dust from the store above, and no ventilation.

Most difficult to change are the personal habits of the workmen where they are careless and lacking in cleanliness. In some bakeries floors and even vats were scrubbed but once a year; in some there was no provision made for washing the hands.

A housewife should ask to see where her bread is made.

New Kind of Towel.

A new kind of Turkish towel is of interest to mothers particularly, for it is especially recommended for the baby's bath. It is in the Turkish weave, is all silk and comes in a sealed package, so that from the loom to the user it is unhandled. It is ecru in tint, being made from the unbleached silk, and it is priced at 49 cents. Sets of Turkish towels have been sold recently which are a pretty notion for the housewife to copy. They are composed of one large towel measuring 27 by 52 inches and two towels measuring 19 by 40 inches and three face cloths. Each of these, including the face cloths, is embroidered with the initial, surrounded by a wreath done in the colors of the bathroom furnishing, which is so often blue. The initial is quite large, so there is no possibility of the towels being mixed in the laundry.

COMPULSORY MEDITATION TO BE THE THEME

New York, Jan. 28.—Many eminent representatives of capital and labor assembled at the Hotel Astor today to exchange opinions on the important subject of "Meditation in Industrial Disputes." The National Civic Federation brought them together with the intention of making the discussion of this subject the leading feature of its thirteenth annual meeting. The sessions will continue over tomorrow and will conclude with the annual banquet tomorrow night.

Twelve years' experience in dealing with industrial disputes by the conciliation department of the National Civic Federation has convinced the members that to reduce the number of strikes to a minimum and to bring about an early settlement when a strike is not preventable, there is need of legislation—amendatory in some cases and entirely new in others.

To suggest amendments to the Federal law known as the Erdman act and to formulate a model arbitration law that might be adopted by all the States are the chief purposes of the present conference. The Erdman act, so far as its present scope extends, is considered a satisfactory measure. It has been successfully applied in interstate railroad disputes, but it does not at present include disputes which may arise in railway shops or in coastwise or river transportation or in express traffic, and being a Federal act, it does not apply to municipal utilities, which can be dealt with only by the States. The strengthening of the Erdman act and the adoption of laws along the same line by all of the States are deemed necessary. And in addition to such Federal and State legislation, the conference will consider a plan for settling disputes between Federal, State and municipal employes and their respective governments.

In addition to the question of settling industrial disputes by law, the delegates to the conference now in session will be asked to devise ways and means to bring about uniform laws on other matters of general importance, such as workmen's compensation, accident prevention, pensions for Federal, State and municipal employes, reform in legal procedure, regulation of public utilities, regulation of industrial corporations, and regulation of the manufacture and sale of drugs and food products.

TAFT'S FAMILY AT WEDDING.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 28.—The President and Mrs. Taft and Miss Taft were among those in attendance today at the wedding of Miss Margaret Sigourney Smith, daughter of Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, D. D., and Mrs. Smith, and Guy Emerson, of Washington and Boston. The ceremony was performed in St. John's church, of which the father of the bride is rector.

Mrs. J. J. Jennings and mother, Mrs. George H. Pagels, of Cincinnati, Ohio, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Pagel's sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Collier, of East Sixth street.

SCOOP IS VERY SENSITIVE ABOUT HIS BREATH

For some reason or other, the present basketball season has been the cause of more hard feeling arising between basketball players than has ever before evidenced itself in the history of the game in this city. Hardly a game is played but what some one player gets "sore" at one of his opponents and refuses to speak. All of this, of course, shows babyishness on the part of the one displaying it and he is more to be pitied than scorned.

There is one class of basketball followers who claim that the game is getting rougher than it formerly was and this seems to be a sane conclusion. A little rough-house, however, goes a long way toward making the contest interesting if it is not carried too far. If a player suddenly loses his head and his arms fly in a menacing attitude, he soon realizes that he has made a mistake, and it generally hurts the offender more than it does the one offended.

Jack Zerega, the former Plainfield High School forward, is putting up a great article of basketball as a forward for the Princeton Prep five. Jack always was a good shooter and although he was shifted around more or less in his High School days he always put up a sterling exhibition wherever he played.

Wonder what has become of those "Holy Cross football" medals? They have not been displayed so prominently during the last few days. Maybe some of the warriors have stored them away until they obtain that so-called "clear title" by trouncing the Dexters, of Perth Amboy.

Some of those interested in the reorganization of the Central New Jersey Baseball League say that Plainfield will also have a new stand with innovations seen at no other park in the league. The magnate does not care what the innovations will be but hot and cold running water, bath, manicuring, chiropodist, steam heat and a tea room are some of the guesses.

Next baseball war will probably come at New Brunswick, according to present dope, when Harter triples with the bases full. The Brunswick fans evidently think they have a monopoly on the Driscoll bunch.

Newspaper head-line: "Infielder Young a promising recruit at shortstop for the New York Yankees." Wonder how many more players are going to try to snatch Jack Martin's job away from him? It may be a good thing that the local boy asked for a tryout at the keystone sack.

Somebody else says that Hal Chase may play second base. Some say he is "handicapped" by being left handed. Well, some of the players we know of who are not handicapped because they have their salary wing on the wrong side are Plank, Rucker, Marquard and Rixey.

Some thing that appeals to Martin: "Highlanders are going to take their cook to Bermuda." This is done so that in case the meals don't suit the players won't make a mistake and wallop the wrong man.

Cleveland club officer says that the Naps will finish one-two-three. The etcetera, implying four-five-six-seven-eight, was well advised.

New Year's resolutions, broken pledges, automobile shows, Washington's Birthday, southern training trip and then the mayor throws out the first ball.

Wind blew away the roof of the Hartford, Conn., grandstand. Under the national agreement, any club president finding the roof must return it to the Hartford team or lose his franchise.

Members of the baseball fraternity talk about the game being commercialized. To our notion, the "commercial era" began when the club president started to pay salaries higher than $2,400.

Second Baseman Flick and Shortstop Orr, drafted by Connie Mack, shouted, "What's the use?" at the same time.

National League pitchers will go south a month earlier than usual. Hans Wagner is playing basketball for his wind.

Detroit is the home of blow-outs and hold-outs.

Rube Marquard has made a reputation as a lefthander. Also, something of a reputation in private life, but they are hardly the same.

Mayor Fitzgerald, of Boston, demanded that Jimmy McAleer fire Secretary McRoy on the spot. McAleer's reply was that if Honey Fitz didn't behave, he could never throw out the first ball at Fenway Park. We give the decision to McAleer on points.

As soon as the members heard about the contract, the Pujo committee put a subpoena in the hands of the sergeant-of-arms for Frank Leroy Chance.

Joe Tinker is looking for the plans and specifications to remodel Infielder Almeida into a catcher.

Advice to Johnny Evers: After losing a close game to Tinker's Rhinelanders pay no attention to the bell hop who is paging you. It might be Charles W. Murphy waiting in the corridor.

Yes, negroes are barred in the major leagues, yet how does Jimmy Callahan get by with a Kuhn.

Germany is preparing to mobolize and rush troops across the border. Why? There is talk of Al Palzer and Jack Johnson meeting in Paris.

If there are 29,000 leagues under the sea, Charley Babb has played in 28,000 on dry land.

Buenos Ayres has invited Clark Griffith to train there, but Bombay, Sydney, Hongkong and Cairo still look coldly on America's national sport and have sent in no bids.

BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL CLASS TEAM SCHEDULE

Upon the action of the North Plainfield High School athletic board a committee has been appointed to take charge of the interclass basketball league and their first action has been to arrange a schedule of games for the four class teams. INDIAN THORPE IS NO AMATEUR

Carlisle School Indian Admits He Once Played Professional Baseball.

IGNORANT OF DECEIT

Our Committee Must Return Decathlon Cup and Pentathlon Trophy, Reducing Our Points From 85 to 80.

James Thorpe, a Sac and Fox Indian student of the Carlisle Indian School, confessed to the Amateur Athletic Union officials yesterday that he had played professional baseball in 1909 and 1910, thereby automatically disqualifying himself for any amateur competition since the Summer of 1909.

Thorpe's deception and subsequent confession deals amateur sport in America the hardest blow it has ever had to take, and disarranges the scheme of amateur athletics the world over. We must now return to the Swedish Olympic Committee the Pentathion trophy awarded by the King of Sweden and the Decathlon Cup presented by the Czar, both of which were won by Thorpe in the guise of an amateur, for reaward to the foreigners who were second to him. Our total points in the Olympic games are thus reduced from 85 to 80, and Sweden's rise from 27 to 33. Our internal athletic readjustments will be almost as important.

The letter which Thorpe sent to James E. Sullivan, chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union Registration Committee, was in response to a request by Mr. Sullivan that he answer certain charges made by one Charles Clancy in Worcester, Mass., last week. Here is the letter:

Thorpe's Confession.

James E. Sullivan, New York, N. Y.,
Dear Sir—When the interview with Mr. Clancy stating that I had played baseball on the Winston-Salem team was shown me, I told Mr. Warner that it was not true, and, in fact, I did not play on that team. But so much has been said in the papers since then that I went to the school authorities this morning and told them just what there was in the stories.

I played baseball at Rocky Mount and at Fayetteville, N. C., in the Summer of 1909 and 1910 under my own name. On the same teams I played with were several college men from the North who were earning money by ballplaying during their vacations and who were regarded as amateurs at home. I did not play for the money there was in it because my property brings me in enough money to live on, but because I liked to play ball. I was not very wise to the ways of the world and did not realize that this was wrong and it would make me a professional in track sports, although I learned from the other players that it would be better for me not to let any one know that I was playing, and for that reason I never told any one at the school about it until today.

In the fall of 1911 I applied for readmission to this school and came back to continue my studies and take part in the school sports and, of course, I wanted to get on the Olympic team and take the trip to Stockholm. I had Mr. Warner send in my application for registering in the A. A. U. after I had answered the questions and signed it, and I received my card allowing me to compete in the Winter meets and other track sports. I never realized until now what a big mistake I made by keeping it a secret about my ballplaying, and I am sorry I did so. I hope I will be partly excused by the fact that I was simply an Indian school boy and did not know all about such things. In fact, I did not know that I was doing wrong because I was doing what I knew several other college men had done except that they did not use their own names.

I have always liked sport and only played or run races for the fun of the thing, and never to earn money. I have received offers amounting to thousands of dollars since my victories last Summer, but I have turned them all down because I did not care to make money from my athletic skill. I am very sorry, Mr. Sullivan, to have it all spoiled in this way, and I hope the Amateur Athletic Union and the people will not be too hard in judging me.

Yours truly,

Westfield High School's Lead is Overcome When Shifts Are Made by N. P. H. S.

Although occupying the runner-up position at the end of the first half by a score of 7 to 6, the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team, with the aid of several shifts and a little talk between the halves, scored a 21 to 13 victory over the strong Westfield High School team on the Saengerbund Hall court yesterday afternoon and thus made their last game before the opening of the local interscholastic feminine series a victory. From the first sound of the whistle the Borough maidens were made to realize that they had a stiff proposition on their hands in the going against the Mt. Ararat contingent and all through the initial period of play the visitors set the pace and the home team was contented to keep within sight of their clever shooting opponents.

In the final half, Miss Mildred McAuliffe, who had been doing some hair raising basket shooting from the center division, was shifted to forward and Miss Lucy Douglas was sent in to take her place in the jumping department. This new arrangement was one of the wisest moves that could have been made and appeared to have put new life in the team almost the instant it was made. For the visitors, Miss Martin and Miss Sexton were the shining lights, and their scoring kept the Westfield delegates in the running. A new star was developed in the N. P. H. S. force in the person of Miss Mildred McAuliffe, and when the P. H. S. girls invade Saengerbund Hall Friday afternoon, she is bound to be the most troublesome fixture they will have to contend with. Her shooting yesterday, both in the field and on penalty throws was of top-notch order and she chalked up fifteen of her team's twenty-one points.

A NEW GIRLS' TEAM DEFEATS HOPE CHAPEL

Recently Organized Team of Former P. H. S. Players Win by Score of 21 to 8.

Another girls' basketball team that certainly looks like a strong contender for feminine honors on the court in this city played its first game against the Hope chapel girls' five on the latter's court last night and won out by the score of 21 to 10. The new aggregation styled itself as the O. O. C. five and presented a lineup consisting of the best players Plainfield High School has turned out in recent years, and although it was their initial game they put up a great exhibition of girls' rules. Fouling was frequent on the part of both teams and it was a significant fact that each had enrolled among its number a player who was accurate in making the penalties count.

Hope chapel was considerably outweighed by their older opponents, but on the other hand had the advantage of playing on their own court and put up a plucky game. For the O. O. C. five, Miss Jessie Steward and Miss Madeline Durar, put up the best scoring games and kept their team out in front all the way.

CAPT. NASH PLAYED SUMMIT HIGH SCHOOL

Leader of the Leal Quintet Plays an Individual Game Against Opponents.

In a game in which individual play and starring were the features, the Leal School basketball five lost a hard fought game to the fast Summit High School aggregation on the Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternoon by a score of 31 to 19. Although the score appears to be one-sided in regard to the final score, the local school boys were in the running at all times and if Captain Nash had a more efficient corps of basket cagers to co-operate with him when the score was close, the final count might have been vastly different. As it was Nash counted for fifteen out of the nineteen points chalked up by the Leal team and with the aid of little "Peanut" Stewart pulled off the only team work displayed by the private school aggregation. For Summit, the two forwards put up good scoring games, but most of their baskets were due directly to loose guarding on the part of their opponent's goal preventers.

Frequent fouling on the part of both teams, gave the respective captains numerous opportunities to count from the penalty line, but neither could find the basket until the second half was well under way when Nash dropped six of the one point variety. His quartet of field goals were the one redeeming feature of the game, all coming from the center of the court and entering the basket without touching the iron rim.

P. H. S. SOPHOMORES DEFEATED SENIORS

Upper Classmen' Succumb to the Second Year Team After Hard Fought Battle.

The Sophomore basketball team of the Plainfield High School interclass league received another two point decision yesterday afternoon in their scheduled game with the Senior class five, but this time it fell to their lot to be on the bigger end of a 29 to 27 score. The game was nip and tuck at all stages and the outcome was in doubt up until the final whistle was sounded when the second year men were leading by a margin of one field goal. Although the graduating class outweighed their younger rivals to a considerable extent, the Sophomores put up a guarding game that kept the Senior forwards well in check and Sattels, at center was forced to do most of the counting for the upper classmen.

PLATT ADAMS MAKES NEW STANDING JUMP RECORD

Platt Adams, formerly a member of the local Y. M. C. A., established a new world's indoor standing high jump record of 5 feet 5 inches at the Fordham University athletic games held in New York Saturday night. The former mark, 5 feet 2½ inches, was held by Ray Ewry, former Olympic champion.

ELKS' GAME POSTPONED.

The scheduled bowling match between the local Elk pinmen and the Queensboro Elks team has been postponed until Friday night because of the crippled condition in which the Plainfield men found themselves yesterday. The match will be rolled at Queensboro.

RIOTING STARTED BY SUFFRAGETTES

ENTIRE POLICE FORCE OUT

One of Militant Band Declares, "We'll Make Lives of Public Men Impossible"—Big Police Detail In House of Commons.

London, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant leader of the suffragettes, at a meeting at which the action of the government on the question of woman suffrage was discussed, declared for a guerrilla warfare, including sorties and riots.

Mrs. Pankhurst called for the names and addresses of those who were "prepared to take part in a gallant onslaught with me."

Miss Annie Kenny, who has been very prominent in the maneuvers of the militants, declared that the women "would make the lives of public men impossible" and in reply to an interrupter said:

"If you are a shopkeeper you had better look out. It is not just your windows which are going to be attacked. It is something else. We are going to get this question settled once for all."

Many shops have already begun to board up their windows.

Rioting Is Started.

The suffragettes started trouble last night. Several arrests were made. A crowd of 5,000 people witnessed the strenuous efforts of the police to prevent the women from holding demonstrations in Trafalgar square late last night. As soon as the suffragettes scattered from the first meeting under the charge of the police they reassembled in another part of the square and again attempted to address the crowd. This was done repeatedly. The women rang bells to attract audiences, but the clanging served little purpose beyond attracting the police.

Shortly after midnight a young woman who was sitting in St. Stephen's hall, a public part of the house of commons, threw a stone at a painting on one of the walls. Her aim was good, but the glass was not broken, and no damage was done. She was arrested, but was soon released. She was identified as Sylvia Pankhurst, the younger daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

Police on Guard.

The precincts of the house of commons presented many of the features of a well defended encampment when the house met.

Mounted and foot police were to be seen everywhere in great strength. Two thousand foot men and a hundred mounted men were actually on duty, while large reserves were hidden in convenient courtyards in the vicinity of parliament ready to pounce on any suffragettes who should attempt to break the peace. Besides this, the leave of all the other policemen belonging to the metropolitan force had been stopped.

The suffragettes loudly clamored for the immediate withdrawal of the bill because they were satisfied that the vote would have been against the amendment extending the franchise to women. After several anxious cabinet meetings the government also adopted this view, and Premier Asquith in the house of commons gave the franchise bill the happy dispatch.

PROBE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Governor Sulzer's Message Received by New York Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—Governor Sulzer sent to the state senate and assembly last night a special message recommending that the question of the incorporation of the New York Stock Exchange and like exchanges be considered by the legislature. When the message had been read in the state senate upon motion of the majority leader, Senator Robert F. Wagner, it was referred to the senate committee on judiciary and codes for further consideration.

In discussing the governor's message Senator Wagner said:

"The governor's message is very clear and convincing. No one should fear that the Democratic legislature will do anything to interfere with or hamper legitimate and honest business. But there is a general belief among the people of this state that there are abuses and evils which the governors of the exchange seem unable or unwilling to check. Therefore I believe it is the duty of the legislature to exercise its powers not only to protect the investing public, but to restore the confidence of the people in one of the great business institutions of the state."

SLAIN IN CHINATOWN; MURDERER CAUGHT

Hold Mongolian Steward on Howard Gould's Yacht.

New York, Jan. 28.—The reports of five revolver shots sounded through Pell street, and as though the sidewalks had opened up and swallowed them the throngs of Chinese who had been patrolling the street disappeared from view. Policeman Walsh of the Elizabeth street station, bounding along from Doyers street toward the basement restaurant at 10 Pell street, whence the reports of the shots had come, saw just one Chinaman scuttling along the street, and as this man ran he dropped a revolver.

Walsh twisted after the fugitive and caught him just as the Chinaman was disappearing through a doorway into one of the rabbit warrens of tenements which line Pell street. He dragged the Chinaman back to the restaurant with him, picking up the revolver on the way.

Across the sill of the restaurant doorway lay a Chinaman, who died just as Walsh bent over him. Five bullets had entered his back. The dead man was identified as Lee Suey, a young man of about twenty-eight, but no one seemed to know where he lived. Walsh's prisoner was Luy Yee Huen, a man of fifty, who lived at 11 Pell street. According to Chinamen in the restaurant, of whom there were about a dozen, Huen and Suey were cousins. Huen shot Suey down as the latter was entering the restaurant. No one knew why.

The police believed at first that another tong war had started, but they learned that Huen and Suey both belonged to the Hip Sing tong, the headquarters of which are at 13 Pell street, almost across the street from the restaurant.

Huen was locked up in the Elizabeth street police station. He said that recently he had worked as a laundryman, but that for twelve years he had been steward on Howard Gould's yacht Niagara.

SICKLES BAILED; SAVED FROM JAIL

Bond of $30,000 Furnished by Surety Company.

AGAIN REFUSES TO SEE WIFE

Son, Enraged at Treatment of Mother, Threatens to Expose General—Miss Wilmerding, Housekeeper, Pays Nominal Cost of Sheriff's Papers.

New York, Jan. 28.—Charged by the state of New York with a shortage of $23,000, General Daniel E. Sickles, Gettysburg veteran, was arrested at his home by the sheriff. Counsel furnished a bond of $30,000, and the general did not have to go to jail.

When the officers entered the general's home they found the old warrior sitting in front of a desk. Hardly had the formalities of the arrest been completed and the sheriff walked down the steps of the old Fifth avenue home when there confronted the old colored servant of the general, the son of the warrior, Stanton, and his mother. They demanded an audience. The keeper of the outer portals disappeared into the gloomy halls of the big house. Presently he was back again with the word that the general would not see his wife and son. The two swung upon their heels and went back to the Hotel Albert. There Stanton stormed.

Says He'll Expose Father.

"This is no way," he shouted, "for a father to treat his son."

He told reporters to return later and promised to produce papers reflecting upon his father's past. At the Hotel Albert earlier in the day Stanton said:

"My mother could qualify for the bond demanded if she so desired, but she will not do so. The whole affair will be straightened out very soon. When the claim of the Bowery bank against the general's Fifth avenue properties is foreclosed, in a week or so, my mother will need only to bid the amount of that claim to become the owner."

It was later in the day when counsel for General Sickles, Dan P. Hays, telephoned the sheriff's office that he had procured a bond for his client's release. Thereupon the sheriff thrust his papers in his pockets and hastened to the Sickles residence, where the formalities of arrest were gone through.

The general accepted the papers which contained the announcement of his arrest in a civil action. The sheriff then announced that the service of the papers would cost the general $5.25.

"To whom does this money go?" asked the veteran.

He was told that it went to the county and not to the sheriff's office. Under these circumstances he said he would pay it. Whereupon he lifted up his voice and called.

"Eddy; oh, Eddy!"

Housekeeper Finds Coats.

Miss Eleanor Earl Wilmerding, the general's housekeeper, to whose presence in the house objection is raised by the general's son and wife, entered.

"Get $5 somewhere," she was ordered.

While she was out Mr. Hays entered with a bond from a guaranty company which guaranteed the general's appearance in court. The premium on the bond was $600. It is said that the general's friends raised the money.

All the signatures on the bond were there except the general's. He filled in the blank space with a bold, clear signature. When he had flourished to the end he turned to the sheriff.

"How's that," he said, "for an old man of ninety-three?"

"Are you ninety-three, general?" asked the sheriff.

"Next October," said the Gettysburg veteran tersely, and then Miss Wilmerding came in and handed the sheriff the cost of the papers.

ASSEMBLY FOR SUFFRAGE.

Votes For Women Measure Passed In Albany Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The state assembly passed Senator Wagner's proposed amendment to the state constitution permitting women to vote. The assembly passed this resolution just as it passed the senate last week, containing a provision that foreign born women must live in the United States five years before becoming eligible for the franchise, even though they marry male citizens during the five year period. There were but five votes against the amendment in the assembly.

No action of the governor of the state is required on a constitutional amendment. The next step for woman suffrage is to secure the passage of this amendment by the next legislature which contains senators elected in the fall of 1914.

WILL RE-ELECT TILLMAN.

Blease Forces Decide to Abide by Selection In Primaries.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 28.—Having received indorsement by the Democratic voters in the primary last August, Benjamin R. Tillman will be re-elected United States senator by the general assembly.

The Blease forces in the senate and house, who are bitterly opposed to Tillman, will not fight his selection, as the primary is considered binding.

DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Mrs. Henry L. Hall and Mrs. Julius E. Erickson Entertain 250 Friends.

Mrs. Eric N. Erickson, her daughter, Mrs. Henry L. Hall, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julius Erickson, gave a delightful reception this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hall, 978 Woodland avenue. A large number of invitations were issued and more than 250 guests were present during the afternoon. The elaborate entertainment provided made it one of the most notable social functions of the pre-Lenten season. Included among the guests were many from New York, Brooklyn and other more distant points as well as Plainfield.

Among those assisting in the receiving party were Mrs. John W. Murray, Sr., Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. Albert A. Tilney, Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Mrs. R. Henry Depew, Mrs. Burton P. Hall, Mrs. Lewis G. Tmpson, Mrs. John B. Probasco, Mrs. James R. Blake, Mrs. A. L. C. Marsh and Mrs. Clifford M. Baker.

The young women assisting in the dining-room were Miss Mary Haynes, Miss Eleanor DeGraff, Miss Ruth Timpson, Miss Mary Rushmore, Miss Gwendolyn Gough and Miss Anna Yerkes.

The decorative scheme was unusually attractive. In the reception room and library pink was the prevailing color, while the color scheme in the dining-room was pink and green. An effective arrangement was the pink and white sweet peas which formed the table decorations. In another room jonquils and narcissus made a pleasing combination.

During the hours of the reception the Hungarian Stringed Orchestra, of New York, gave a charming program comprising popular and classical selections which added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

KIRCH & CO. WAREHOUSE BURNED, LOSS $65,000

Newark, Jan. 29.—Fire, which discovered in the office on the first floor seriously damaged the storage building and warehouse of Kirch & Co., furniture dealers, located at 87-89 Bank street, at 1:45 o'clock this morning. The total loss is reported to be $65,000. The origin of the fire has not been discovered.

The fire was discovered by the night watchman employed by Cowperthwaite & VanHorn, whose building adjoins that of Kirch & Co., and a four-alarm was sent in calling out twenty-two pieces of apparatus. People living in nearby apartments were forced to retire scantily clad. Fourteen horses were rescued from the burning building and five horses were saved from an adjoining stable.

The warehouse and storage building extended from Bank street to Academy street, having a frontage of fifty feet on Bank street and twenty-five on Academy street. It was filled with carpets, furniture and oil and varnishes. The Academy street end of the building was recently erected, but the fire did not reach the new addition.

TARIFF REVISION TO KEEP DEMOCRATS BUSY

Washington, Jan. 29.—As the Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee get down to the actual business of fixing rates designed to be enacted into law and stand as sentinal and tax collectors at every Custom House there comes a tug of war. It is one thing to talk about tariff revision in general terms during the campaign and another to square the promises then made with actual trade and labor conditions at home. Wood and farm products will be the two most difficult problems to tackle, lumber and sugar next and steel one of the easiest.

Chairman Underwood's first struggle will be with the Bryan element who want free raw wool. There will not be any free raw wool but instead a duty will be proposed similar to that in last year's bill. Sugar is practically sure of a moderate protection. No one seems very much alarmed over the steel figures as it is generally understood that the industry is less dependent upon the tariff than any other.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR TEACHERS.

Trenton, Jan. 29.—Senator McGinnis has introduced a bill establishing a minimum wage for certain grades of teachers in the public schools of the State. It fixes salaries of kindergarten, primary or grammar grade teachers at not less than $600 for first year; not less than $650 for second year, and for each succeeding year thereafter an increase of $50 until such teacher shall receive not less than $900 a year.

BIGAMIST SENT TO STATE PRISON

William H. Riley Sentenced in Union Co. Court to Not Less Than Two Years.

HIS 2 WIVES IN COURT

Former Plainfielder Pleaded Guilty—Wife No. 1 Sobs, But Wife No. 2 Shows No Emotion When Prisoner is Put Away.

Elizabeth, Jan. 29.—William H. Riley, formerly of Plainfield, who plead guilty last week to a charge of bigamy, was arraigned before Judge Paul Queen in the County Court, this morning, and in the presence of his two wives, was sentenced to serve not less than two years nor more than ten years in State prison.

Judge Queen gave the prisoner an unusually severe lecture, impressing upon him the seriousness of the crime of which he stood convicted. Throughout the talk by the judge, wife No. 1 sobbed continually, but wife No. 2 showed no emotion.

Riley's first marriage occurred in 1904, his wife being Mary Mitchell, of Brooklyn. Later he deserted her, came to Plainfield, secured a position in a local machine shop. During Riley's residence here he boarded with Mrs. Thomas McGinnis, who it is said was one of his former sweethearts, and in 1907 he married her. By that union one child was born to the couple.

Riley was repreesnted by J. C. Connolly, of this city, by whom wife No. 2 was at one time employed as a servant. In some way wife No. 1 learned that her husband was living with wife No. 2 in Massachusetts and it was in that State that he was arrested and brought back to Union county.

WETUMPKA TROOP HELD EXHIBITION

Boys of the First Presbyterian Church Held an Investiture Meeting Last Night.

A public demonstration of scoutcraft as it is being promoted by the boys of the First Presbyterian church was held at the church last night and was attended by a large gathering of those interested in boys' work in this and neighboring towns. The exhibition was the most complete of its nature yet held in this city and a great deal of credit is due to the officers and members of the Wetumpka Sentinels, Troop 5. It was in reality a meeting of the court of honor and a general exhibition of what is done by the scouts in their drills and every day life.

Head Scout Master Charles R. Bostwick had charge of the exhibition. Former Mayor G. W. V. Moy opened the evening's program with a short talk on "Government." He told how the government of a city in which scoutcraft is promoted is materially aided by the work of the organization and showed the relation of the scout to municipal affairs.

The main feature of the program was a thrilling wall scaling competition in which fourteen boys took part. The fourteen uniformed scouts scaled a ten foot wall in the remarkable time of two minutes and seventeen seconds. This team of scouts will enter the next Sportsman Show contests at Madison Square Garden and have been invited to compete against the Chinese Troop, of East New York, which is considered one of the most adept.

William D. Murray conferred the decorations on the "tenderfoot" members of the troop who have passed second class effaminations. Honored in this way were Alfred Seals, William Dunham, Russel Dunham and Charles Ccroton. It was announced that Charles Rice had completed satisfactorily the tests prescribed for admittance into the first class and he was given his credentials. The honor secured by Rice is one of the highest in the order, only one other in this cty having attained the standard set. William Thompson was the initial first class man and he is striving for still higher honors. At the meeting last night Thompson received six merit badges for firemanship, photography, public health, chemistry, personal health and electricity. Russell Dunham, the official bugler of the troop, entertained with a number of the calls.

Westfield, Jan. 29.—Mattova Ballardello, the Westfield Italian, who was decapitated by a fast express on the New Jersey Central salt Thursday, was thought to be a poor man, and friends raised a sufficient sum with which to give the victim a decent burial.

Subsequent investigation, following the funeral, disclosed the fact that Ballardello had been able to save $1,200 and that amount in cold cash was found stored away in an old trunk at the dead man's home. As Ballardello left a brother living in Brooklyn, it is expected that he will come into possession of the money which probably represents the savings of a lifetime.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSN. HEARS SOME REPORTS

The "question box" proved to be an interesting feature of the Franklin-Whittier-Stillman Parent-Teacher Association meeting last night in the Franklin School auditorium. It was asked: "Is it possible to eliminate home work from the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, and if so, what changes would be necessary in the school hours, equipment and curriculum?" Although no definite answer was given the question was discussed at length. Mrs. Stephen H. Voorhees presided and prior to an address by Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of schools, two secretaries were chosen to fill the place made vacant by Mrs. Warren Travell, who has left the city. Mrs. Boyd Fullerton was appointed recording secretary and Mrs. George Moore as corresponding secretary.

Dr. Maxson told of various school bills which have been approved by the educational committees of both houses and he discussed school legislation which is being considered. At the conclusion of his talk the association adopted resolutions either endorsing or opposing certin bills he explained.

After some routine business had been transacted the report of the special committee which waited upon the Board of Education in May was read by Chairman G. Stewart Simons. He stated that all of the improvements in sanitary conditions in the public schools as sought had been made. Fire apparatus had been placed on the Franklin School building. The committee asked for a new grammar school building, and the Board replied that the proposed addition to the High School would serve to relieve the present conditions.

BOROUGH'S FIREMEN ENJOYED THIS FEAST

Members of the North Plainfield fire department enjoyed a "get-together" social in the engine house, last night, and incidentally gave the kitchenette paraphernalia, recently purchased, a thorough test. The dinner outfit and cooking utensils were secured through the generosity of Mrs. Mary E. Truitt, of Greenbrook road, who gave the department $25, as a reward for its services in distinguishing a fire on her premises recently.

Among those present were Chief William McCullough, Capt. William Daly, Capt. Charles Stahl, Lieut. Albert Fritz, Driver William Hogan, Engineer James Walker and Call Men Walter Chandler, L. B. Bodine, Claude Hann, John Schenck, Garret Shepherd, Fred Eckhart, Winfield Conover, Clinton DeWitt Conover, Frank Hollenbach and Fred Krausse.

PLUMBERS' WAGE TO BE ADVANCED

Journeymen to Get $4.40 a Day After May 1, an Increase of 40 Cents.

SEVENTY-FIVE BENEFIT

Asked for $4.50 But a Compromise Was Effected—Employers Say They Could Not Afford Strike at This Time.

The Master Plumbers' Association following a conference of its representatives, Den. J. Galbraith, C. W. Krausse and P. F. Kaine, with the journeymen plumbers' committee of five, has granted the journeymen an increase in wages from $4 to $4.40 a day to become effective May 1 next. The journeymen plumbers, through their committee of five, made a request for an increase of fifty cents a day, but at the conference, a compromise was reached and they agreed to accept forty cents.

The master plumbers expressed a willingness to meet the journeymen half-way, especially for the reason that there has been no increase in wages during the past three years, while the cost of living has been gradually going up. The bosses also realize that they cannot afford to have a strike. This would necessitate their hiring out of town plumbers and the results would not be as satisfactory as at present.

There are about seventy-five journeymen plumbers in Plainfield who will be benefitted by the increase. The new rate compares more favorably with that paid in cities of Plainfield's class such as Montclair, Orange, Morristown and Summit, and the bosses thought it only fair that a reasonable increase should be granted at this time.

DIVORCE RECOMMENDED FOR PATERSON MINISTER

Trenton, Jan. 29.—Desertion, occasioned primarily by incompatibility of temperament, is the ground upon which Special Master John B. Humphreys has recommended that Rev. Benjamin Canfield Jones, pastor of the Presbyterian church of the Redeemer in Paterson, be granted a divorce from Annie Chisholm Jones.

The desertion complained of followed a life of partial separation and the failure of many efforts to bring about a complete reconciliation between the pastor and his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were married at Port Hope, Canada, in 1892, the husband then being pastor of a church at West Chester, Pa. Since the separation Mrs. Jones has been employed in the Toronto Universal Library, her husband continuing his pastorate in Paterson.

Mr. Jones testified that his own temperament was so radically different from that of his wife that they seemed to differ on almost every topic. This led to a series of family jars, followed by a declaration on the part of Mrs. Jones that she had lost her affection for her husband. Her hesitancy in bringing about a final separation was due, it was said, to her sense of duty toward her two daughters, Isabelle, aged eighteen, and Marjorie, aged fifteen.

ANTI-TRUST LAW AND NEWSPAPERS

RESTRAINT OF TRADE?

Vredenburgh Agency Complains It Is Debarred From Dong Business With Jersey Papers Represented by O'Flaherty Agency for N. Y.

An investigation said to involve advertising methods employed by newspapers all over the country will be undertaken by the Federal Grand Jury in Trenton, when proprietors and managers of twenty daily newspapers published in New Jersey near New York city appear before that body next Monday morning in response to summonses served yesterday. Among the papers summoned are the Plainfield Daily Press and the Plainfield Courier-News. It is understood that the investigation contemplated by the Grand Jury is based upon assertions that the maintenance by newspapers in any city outside of the State of an advertising agency through which its business is conducted exclusively constitutes a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

At the present time many of the newspapers of the country conduct their business in distant cities through established agencies there, paying commissions upon the advertisements obtained by the agencies. It has been the rule in many instances to refuse to accept advertisements from any other source in cities where such an agency is recognized as the representative of the newspaper.

The present action, it is understood is the outgrowth of the refusal by the Plainfield Daily Press, the Plainfield Courier-News, the Elizabeth Daily Journal, the Jersey Journal and several other New Jersey newspapers, published in what is known as the commuters' zone, to accept advertisements from the Peter Vredenburgh Agency, with offices in the Marbridge building. The Vredenburgh Agency was established about two years ago.

Most of the newspapers so far affected by the proposed Grand Jury investigation for many years have conducted their New York business through the O'Haherty Advertising Agency, with offices at No. 150 Nassau street, New York, which has been in business for about fifteen years. Through the latter agency most of the large Manhattan stores have acted in placing advertisements in the New Jersey papers published in the zone from which the residents make daily and weekly trips to Herald Square and other shopping centres of New York city.

Recently, however, it was asserted yesterday, the Vredenburgh Agency has been endeavoring to enter the same field, but many of the newspapers are declared to have refused to accept advertisements furnished through that agency. Several days ago, it was declared, representations that the refused to accept the proffered advertisements from the Vredenburgh Agency constituted a violation of the anti-trust laws, in that maintenance of a single agency acted in restraint of trade, were made to the federal authorities in Trenton.

The result was that either the owners or officers of about twenty of the papers doing business with those agencies were served with summonses to appear before the Grand Jury in Trenton. They have been directed to take with them books, accounts and correspondence bearing upon the transactions that have taken place between the newspapers and the two agencies concerned in the dispute.

The advertising business affected by the investigation has furnished a lucrative field for many years. Most of the large department stores and other mercantile establishments in Manhattan placed practically all of their advertising with the New Jersey newspapers through the same agency. The system is technically known in the trade as "foreign" advertising.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS HIS SUDDEN DEATH

Bullets and Bullet Marks in Room Where Edward Matthews' Body is Found.

Somerville, Jan. 29.—Notwithstanding the report that Edward Mathews, who was found dead in the lone house on the former Keys property on Monday morning had died from heart disease, there are many suspicious circumstances connected with his death, and yesterday morning County Physician Long decided to hold an autopsy on the body. He was assisted in this by Dr. A. L. Stillwell, and both declare that no wounds were found about his person to warrant the assumption that he had been shot.

On his forehead there was a deep wound, and also one on the back of his head. The last might have been caused by falling against a nail, while that on his forehead may have been caused by falling against the stove. In and about the room where the body was found were a number of bullet marks, and the county detective also found a bullet embedded in one of the doors. These might have been there for some years, the authorities seem to believe.

When the undertaker was preparing the body for burial a bullet dropped from his clothes, but no explanation can be given for this. It was also known that the aged painter always carried a pocketbook, with considerable money about with him, but this was not found in the room or about the building. The old man often stated that some day he would meet a violent death, and that he always hid his money at night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

"The Spring Maid," with its blithesome comedy and swinging music, has been booked for a special engagement at the Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and evening. Music lovers will be pleased to have another opportunity of seeing the joyous operatic success which delighted opera-goers last year from coast to coast and played to the record engagement of the local season. The charm of this gay musical work, its love-waltzes and delightful score, left an impression last year that will be well remembered. It comes this time with a cast of notable singers headed by Gene Luneska, the fascinating Russian prima donna who won so many admirers last year, and J. H. Goldsworthy, the English baritone whose fine voice and attractive personality lend distinction to the role of Prince Aladar. A company of seventy, with the famous "Spring Maid" chorus and ballet and a special orchestra is promised, this being the same superior organization that turned hundreds away when the opera played here on its first visit. "The Spring Maid" is a gem among light operas. The story of the bewitching Princess Bozena and Prince Aladar is one of the most entertaining romances any light opera has had in the past decade. The delicious melodies are exactly suited to the pretty romance. The engagement here will be one of the theatrical events of the season.

BUDGET FOR MIDDLESEX LOWER THAN LAST YEAR

New Brunswick, Jan. 29.—The budget adopted by the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county Monday is $21,476.79 lower than that of last year, the total being $3,658.76.

In making up the amount necessary the Board had to add in $11,102 for expenses of the strike at Perth Amboy last summer, none of the manufactories protected having reimbursed the county. There was also a deficiency in the election expenses in 1911 of $11,500. The amount for election expenses this year is reduced $12,500 and a $27,000 cut made in the amount for repairing, preparing and gravelling county roads.

The usual donations of $5,000 each are made to the John Wells Memorial and St. Peter's General hospitals here and to the Perth Amboy Hospital. The amount the taxpayers will have to raise by taxation is $340,523.21, there being a balance on hand from last year's appropriations of $13,135.55.

IN MEMORY OF McKINLEY.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Pink carnations adorning the lapels of senators, representatives and private citizens marked the observance today of the seventieth anniversary of the birth of William McKinley. The pink carnation was the favorite flower of the late President, and ever since his tragic death his friends and admirers have followed the custom of wearing one of the blossoms at each recurring anniversary of his birth.

ONE SCHOOL OR TWO?

Many residents of North Plainfield are apt to disagree with the new public school supervisor who has declared in a statement to the Borough's Board of Education that it would not be a matter of economy to abolish the High School and transfer the pupils of that grade to the Plainfield High School. They are also likely to take exception to his assertion that such a move would be detrimental to property values in the borough. Neither of these conclusions appears sound to us, though it must be admitted that the Board of Education might be compelled to dispense with the supervising principal's services were the change to be made, inasmuch as it would be needless to employ him in that event.

Of course, it is not a matter of record that the City Board of Education ever suggested, much less asked, that the North Plainfield pupils of high school grade be transferred and the Borough High School abolished. It is certain, however, that many taxpayers of Plainfield would strongly oppose such a move, and we think that the opposition would be so great that the City Board of Education would be compelled to refuse to enter into a contract were it so disposed. There are a considerable number of our taxpayers who vigorously object to Plainfield engaging in business as a high school education provider for surrounding communities. These people fail to see either the profit or the wisdom of the Board of Education in contracting to afford high school training at so much per head to children of those who are not taxpayers and despite all the facts and figures compiled by the City Board of Education, the sentiment against this "business" is most decided.

But be that as it may, how does the supervising principal arrive at the conclusion that the mooted change would not be profitable to the Borough's taxpayers? When a committee of the North Plainfield Board of Education waited on the City Board to get its opinion on the subject, it is known that the latter body took the matter under serious consideration. It was figured out that the city could afford to perform the task for $55 per pupil per annum. Can North Plainfield provide the educational facilities and training equal to that of the Plainfield for that sum at the present time? And as to the idea that the change would be harmful to realty values in the borough, how is that figured out? Wouldn't land sell quicker and houses rent more readily in the Borough if the latter municipality's residents were to be permitted to partake of the advantages of the city, particularly of the city's schools? Isn't it a fact that the drawback to North Plainfield's growth is that the city has more improvements and therefore people are more eager to settle in the latter? If prospective residents in the borough knew that some of the city's advantages would be at their service, particularly the schools, would they be more disposed to buy or rent property there?

No reflection is intended as to the standard of the borough's high school or as to the management of the institution. The question is can North Plainfield duplicate Plainfield's standard and facilities for $55 per pupil?

The preponderance of opinion seems to be that when the license committee confers with the other members of the Common Council tomorrow night, it will be found that the majority of the city fathers are opposed to granting any more licenses or to enlarging the Tyler zone limits.

The contributing editor for next Saturday will be a prominent resident of North Plainfield who has made a success in the business world and is conspicuous in every movement for the betterment of the community and its institutions.

Pupils May Have to Salute the Flag Daily if Bill Becomes a Law.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 29.—The dispute in the Cedar Grove high school some months ago, caused by a father taking his son out of school because the principal tried to compel him to salute the stars and stripes and pledge allegiance, was again brought to mind when Assemblyman Peacock of Burlington introduced a bill calling for placing an American flag in every room of each public school in the state and requiring all the pupils to salute it each day. Pupils who refuse are barred from school by the bill.

In the Cedar Grove case Leofric Temple, a high school lad, was suspended because he refused to salute the flag. He returned to school and agreed to salute the flag, but refused to pledge allegiance and was upheld by the state board of education.

RECEIVER CONTINUED IN DUS-TROY LITIGATION

Vice Chancellor Stevens yesterday, on the return of a rule to show cause, continued Randolph Perkins, of Jersey City, as permanent receiver for Ds-Troy, Limited, a concern which for about a year manufactured a sanitary sweeping compound. Its plant was at 398 Clairmont avenue, Jersey City.

Mr. Perkins was appointed temporary receiver at the instance of Richard J. Hartman, of Bergenfield, Bergen county, who promoted the company. The concern started in business with $25,000, the proceeds of the sale of 2,500 shares of stock of a par value of $10 the share. Upon Mr. Hartman's return from Europe recently he found the company out of funds with judgments standing against it, the entire liquid capital having been used up.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Rushmore and Miss Mary Rushmore will leave early in February on a pleasure trip to Panma.

Halsted C. Compton, of Compton avenue, left today by the Clyde Line steamship company for Florida, where he will sojourn until spring. His daughter, Miss Mary Compton, and Miss Drake, of Compton avenue, will leave in a few days for the Bahama Islands.

Fire Commissioner Weber and Chief Moore, of the Newark Fire Department, visited local Chief T. O. Doane yesterday afternoon.

BIG MUSICAL TREAT ON NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

The Edna Kimball Concert Company is to give an entertainment at the Park Club Friday night under the auspices of the entertainment committee of the Church of the Holy Cross. There have been two preceding entertainments in this course, but it is promised that the one on Friday night will be of superior merit. The Kimball Concert Company has seldom been heard in cities of the size of Plainfield, and music lovers especially will be attracted. Miss Edna Kimball is the leading member of the company. She is a soloist with a voice of range and power.

In addition to the members of this company, the committee has engaged Miss Grace Marguerite Sage, who reads and recites very skilfully. Single admission tickets for this concert may be secured at the door.

UTILITY BOARD TO HEAR LEHIGH VALLEY PROTEST

Before the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners a hearing will be given at Newark Friday on the application of the Lehigh Valley Railroad to abandon its present terminus at the Pennsylvania Station in Jersey City and to use the Central Railroad Depot instead. There is objection from Jersey City to the plan, which seems to be regarded by that municipality as another step in the movement which may finally mean complete abandonment of the Exchange Place Station.

The Lehigh Valley officials say they are helpless in the matter as its contract for the use of the Pennsylvania Station expires May 1 and cannot be renewed.

There is also objection to the Lehigh plan from citizens of Hunterdon county who use that road to get to Jersey City and New York, and who will be somewhat inconvenienced by the change.

There will also be a hearing Friday on the application of the citizens of Union county to compel the Morris County Traction Company to run its cars as far as Broad street and Morris avenue, Elizabeth, instead of stopping them at the city line.

LODGE INSTALLATION.

District Deputy Grand Chancellor Benjamin Brown, of Lincoln, No. 30, of Elizabeth, will install the officers of Josephus Lodge, No. 16, Knights of Pythias, tomorrow night at Calvary Baptist church. A new lodge will be formed by Vice Grand Chancellor E. L. Mitchell. Special music will be rendered under direction of Chancellor Commander James H. Rolling and refreshments will be served after the installation. Admission is free. Representatives from several out of town lodges will be present.

CAPE MAY MAN MISSING.

W. H. Corwin, Aged Seventy, Left Home More Than Year Ago.

Cape May, N. J., Jan. 29.—The disappearance of W. H. Corwin, seventy years old, of this city, has caused uneasiness among his family and friends, and the police of Philadelphia have been asked to aid in a search for him. Corwin left his home about a year and a half ago, but was seen in Philadelphia last December by a friend of the family.

He formerly lived at 5226 Webster street, Philadelphia, but told this friend he was living on Thirteenth street, between Race and Vine streets. A search of that locality has been fruitless. Corwin is described as being five feet eight inches in height and weighs about 170 pounds. He wore side whiskers when he left home.

$40,800,000 For Waterways.

Washington, Jan. 29.—The house passed the annual rivers and harbors appropriation bill, the biggest of the so called "pork barrel" measures. It carries appropriations of $40,800,000.

H. J. Tutteton, of Pittsburgh, Pa., spent Sunday at the home of Lionel Cratsley, of West Fourth street.

John Bruce, formerly connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad as conductor and who lives in Trenton, spent yesterday in this city with F. I. Grennup, of East Front street.

Imperator	1913	900 ft

Berlin, Jan. 29.—Within less than four months the largest and most wonderful ship in the world will make her appearance in New York harbor. The Hamburg - American Company's new liner Imperator will sail on her first trip from Hamburg on Wednesday, May 7, and should arrive at the American seaport one week later.

While nothing seems to be impossible with shipbuilders, there are many bold enough to prophesy that, so far as size and luxury are concerned, the Imperator will be the last word in the building of merchant ships. In both tonnage and size the new vessel surpasses the giant Olympic of the White Star Line and her ill-fated sister ship, the Titanic.

The Imperator has a length of 900 feet and when complete and fully laden will displace 50,000 tons. The term "floating hotel," often applied to such ships when it is desired to emphasize their bulk, would convey, in the case of the Imperator, an impression far short of the truth. The combined capacity of the largest three hotels in New York scarcely exceeds 4,000 guests, while the Imperator will carry 5,000 passengers and will have nearly 1,000 persons in her crew.

Her deck will have the beam of Broadway at its widest part—96 feet. She will have eleven decks above the water line, equal to the height of many of the largest apartment houses. With so much space available features are possible that have never before been introduced.

The suites and cabins are to be in their design and fittings equal to the rooms in the finest hotels of Europe or America, and families will be able to cross the Atlantic in almost the same privacy as in their own homes. There are to be many dining rooms, the principal one of which will be in the Louis XVI. style and will seat more than 600 persons.

Among other luxuries the Imperator has been fitted with three electric elevators, a winter garden, summer houses, a theatre, gymnasium, Ritz restaurant, "cottage" cafe, ballroom, telephones, swimming bath and tennis courts. The swimming bath is a copy of one unearthed at Pompeii, with mosaic pavements, replicas of those discovered at Treves.

According to the announcement of the Hamburg-American Company the new vessel will insure her passengers against the terrors of seasickness. This happy condition is to be brought about by the installation of the Frahm decks on board the monster, a device that reduces the motion of a ship to a minimum.

The Imperator will not be a fast boat, being built more for solid comfort than great speed. Her time across the Atlantic will be in the neighborhood of seven days. She will be equipped with internal combustion engines and two 1,500 horsepower Diesel motors, and will use oil as fuel.

The most powerful Marconi apparatus ever set up at sea will be installed, the unusual height of her masts making it possible to receive or transmit messages across the broad expanse of the Atlantic Ocean. It is expected that the Imperatbr will always be in direct communication with either Europe or America.

SMALL BOARD BILL.

Trenton, January 29.—Among the bills reported and given a second reading in the Assembly Monday night was one introduced by Mr. McLaughlin, of Union, validating and ratifying the election of the small Boards of Freeholders.

DISCUSS EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Woman by virtue of the business nature assigned her has always been the maker and keeper of this necessary "place of peace." This old world readiness of women has a sound and tragic cause. Nature lays a compelling hand on her. Unless she obey freely and fully she must pay in unrest and vagaries. It is not because we have lost sight of our own splendid potentiality that we look with envy upon the man's job."

Continuing Mrs. Fox said: "That there would be better government if women had the ballot is a statement we constantly hear. The only way to prove its truth is by experience. Has it been true where women have had the ballot? For twenty odd years in Colorado they have exercised this prerogative. I have here a careful comparison of the laws of the two States, Massachusetts and Colorado, appertaining to the welfare of women and children, which shows how much fuller the laws protecting women and children are in Massachusetts. The Children's Courts established by Judge Lindsay were undoubtedly an achievement in Colorado, but they were established many years before in Massachusetts without the woman's vote. Another instance of the futility of the claim that women would perfect the laws is in Wyoming where women have had the vote for over forty years and where there is among its statutes a law for justifiable homicide. Women did not need the vote in New Jersey to secure largely by their influence legislation against the evils of child labor, the establishment of our probation system, which is far ahead of that of Colorado, and the creation of our State Board of Children's Guardians."

"We are constantly told," said Mrs. Fox, "that it is for the sake of woman in industry that we must stand for her enfranchisement. How about the women in industry with whom we have been in closest touch—our own domestic servants? Is there any class of women outside the sweat-shop whose working hours are so long, and whose work so unorganized as these women? Or, by the way, have you ever heard of any important labor-saving device for domestic use that was invented by a woman? We are often told that women are more altruistic than men, and that their influence in politics will therefore have much moral weight. How many women prove this by buying only such ready-made garments as they know are made under decent conditions? There is no power in the land that equals the power of the purchasing public in remedying sweat-shop conditions. Do we really care enough about it to put ourselves to a little inconvenience for it?

"How many women know or care anything about the passage of the recent workmen's compensation and employers liability bills in New Jersey, and how many of us took either personally or in our organizations, any active interest in their behalf? Do you women know that if one of your servants is hurt while she is in your employ, whether you are to blame for it in any way or not, you or your husband will have to pay for it. What do you think about it? Does it appeal to you as a fine piece of legislation? I venture to say that when it comes home to us personally we shall find that women in the home show just about the same average of humanity or inhumanity as the men do in industry.

"As for a minimum wage law, this is an economic problem for which the specialists themselves can see no solution in legislation. It is woman's very greatness of heart her first asset in the home that prompts her to take these short-cuts to Arcady. Take the anti-canteen law for example. No reasonable person denies today that its passage was a fatal mistake. It has proved the ruin of the very young men for whose protection it was devised.

"We are not satisfied that our daughters must have unwomanly powers because they have unwomanly wrongs. Womanhood is under shameful tyranny in the shops and mills, but I want to destroy the tyranny while the suffrage would destroy the womanhood.

"In conclusion let me suggest that you ask yourselves these questions:

"How will suffrage help the working women? What, for instance, can it do for the garment workers who are now on strike in New York?

"What right that woman needs and does not now have, will the ballot give her?

"Is she not thoroughly protected by the existing laws? Her rights as a taxpayer and as a holder of property are not in danger. Her dower rights are secured. She gets for her taxes, if she is a property holder, just the same protection that a man gets, and the same benefits. The money tax is levied on the property of men, women and children alike. The service tax however, is levied on man alone. I mean jury service, police service, military service, etc.

"Was the women's vote needed to make Julia Lathrop head of the Federal Children's Bureau, or Miss Boardman head of the American Red Cross Organization, or Ella Flagg superintendent of Chicago schools, or Mrs. Alexander president of the New Jersey State Board of Children's Guardians?

"The exceptional women who can fill such administrative offices are in great demand. It did not need the vote to get the opportunity for their work, or to hold their jobs. What then is there that the vote can give us to compensate for the addition of one more harassing factor in modern life."

Following Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Feickert, an ardent Equal Suffragist, presented her views, saying in part:

"I believe in suffrage for women because I know it would give them larger opportunities for service, and I have faith enough in women to believe that they would avail themselves of these opportunities. I believe that anything which enlarges our mental horizon is going to be good for us. Should being a mother mean being little enough to mother only your own children, or big enough to mother all children? Should your motherhood stop at your front door? Is it better for our hearts to contract until they are small enough to care only for our own flesh-and-blood sisters, or swell until they are big enough to include all women in one great sisterhood?

"Our opponents endeavor to attack the States where women have the ballot. Let me quote you extracts from a letter dated January 20, from Mrs. Adrianna Hungerford, president of the Colorado W. C. T. U.:

"'I have lived in Colorado ever since equal suffrage was obtained, and have visited the principal towns and cities as well as the country places, and have never known of one woman who neglected husband or children to attend to politics. In the smaller towns especially conditions have improved since women have voted, although doubtless the greatest good has come to the women themselves; their outlook has broadened with their new responsibilities, they spend less time in idle gossip and are better companions for their husbands and sons.

"'Women voters cannot bring the millenium for they are outnumbered by the men voters by many thousands (42 per cent. of the population are women, and four-fifths of all these women register and 95 per cent. of those who register vote—a larger per cent. than of men).

"'The best women go to the polls regularly and vote. The women of the 'red light district' do not vote unless compelled to, and anyway a bad woman's vote is just as good as that of a bad man, and it takes at least ten bad men to support one bad woman. Only one woman has ever been accused of ballot-box stuffing, and she was not convicted.

"'Denver did not go 'wet' in the last campaign, it stayed 'wet,' but there was a large addition of 'dry' territory.'

"The most interesting thing, to me, at the great Suffrage convention in Philadelphia in November was Jane Addams' explanation of her reasons for going into politics. She said that she found that the things which were nearest her heart, better industrial conditions for women, real justice for the little children of the poor, the justice of light and food and play, social welfare work of every description, had themselves gone into politics, and if she was going to continue working for them, she would of necessity have to follow them.

"And that is the real reason why all the women most active in social and philanthropic work desire the power of the ballot. Results in the nine States where women vote show that women do not stick closely to party lines. Judge Lindsay says that in by-elections, where all the nominees for office are equally good, the women are not especially active: but when a great moral issue is at stake, or if any of the political parties put up a candidate who is morally unfit to hold office, the women turn out and vote solidly against him."

Miss Bronson denounced the disorderly actions of the women suffragists in England and also peaceful demonstrations made by the adherents of the cause in this country. She asserted that the average woman would not be able to grasp the problems as well as the average man and she claimed that a woman's power could be used to better advantage in moulding public opinion than by means of the ballot. Only 8 per cent. of the women of the country desire the ballot she asserted, adding that if the women were enfranchised few would vote, but the responsibilities would rest on all of them. Continuing the speaker attacked the laws of Colorado, where women vote, claiming that the laws for the protection of child labor and women are not as advanced there as in other States of the Union, where women do not vote. Throughout her address she repeatedly scored Miss Jane Addams, the noted suffragist.

"Suffrage is a womanhood that will call from us our full faculties," said Mrs. Bjorkman. "Without the vote the women cannot exercise their full powers. It is a woman's question which women will have to take hold of and solve." She referred to the efforts made by the women in the enfranchised States to stamp out all forms of vice, especially the White Slave traffic.

One expression of hers which was heartily applauded was, "The right to vote should belong to us women the same as our voice, our feet or our hands. There is no mother whose heart does not prompt her right in deciding whether her child should work in the sweat-shops. For the children of the land, if for no other reason, we should work for 'Votes for Women.'"

SESAME CLUB TO MEET.

SMALL BOARD BILL HALTED IN SENATE

Measure Got Through Assembly, But Its Progress Was Checked in Upper House.

Trenton, Jan. 29.—The efforts made to rush through House bill 12, which validates the election of Chosen Boards of Freeholders under the small board act, was checked in the Senate yesterday afternoon. The question was raised as to whether some sections of the bill would not clash with Civil Service requirements and the bill was laid over.

The Zisgen bill ratifying the election of small boards and confirming appointments made by the boards, was passed in the House yetserday by a vote of 52 to 0. Following its passage, Mr. Zisgen moved suspension of the rules so that the bill could be rushed to the Senate at once. This course was agreed to without opposition, but the latter body checked the progress of the bill by laying it on the table.

FARMER'S GRANGE.

There will be a meeting of farmers at Mt. Bethel tonight, when preliminary steps will be taken toward organizing a grange. The matter has been under consideration for some time, and a majority of the farmers are said to be in favor of the proposition.

DANCE HALL BUDGET PROPOSED BY COLGATE

Trenton, Jan. 29.—Senator Colgate has introduced in the Senate a bill designed to license dance halls, bowling alleys and billiard and pool parlors. The bill is supported by social workers in Newark and surrounding municipalities. About the same time Assemblyman John A. Matthews placed a similar measure before the House.

Both bills provide for county supervision of the public places enumerated and authorize the appointment of a license inspector, whose duty it shall be to see to the enforcement of the regulations. The sum of $10 annually is exacted as a license and $5 for a transfer of license. The Board of Freeholders would issue the licenses and receive whatever revenue there might be.

SHORE MASS MEETING FAVORS BRANCH COURT

Long Branch, Jan. 29.—An effort will be made by the Board of Trade of this city to bring about the passage of a bill establishing a branch court for Monmouth county, to be located at Long Branch. A joint meeting of the Board of Trade and the East Monmouth League was held at the City Hall, Monday night, at which a resolution was passed that a special committee go to Trenton to work for the measure.

The bill was framed by former Judge Heisley, and former Governor Fort, Attorney-General Edmund Wilson and former Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter agreed as to its constitutionality.

Speaker Leon Taylor was reported to be opposed to the bill, but favored a district court in its place. He has introduced a bill incorporating the first judicial district court, embracing Asbury Park and points south. This bill was also discussed. Monday, in conference with Mayor Newcomb, he is said to have opposed a branch court because many voters did not favor it.

There are 74,000 people living along the shore to 20,000 inland, and Arthur H. Hope, president of the East Monmouth League, Monday night declared the shore people spent $20,000 in car fares, most of which could be saved if a branch court were established at Long Branch.

Thomas P. Fay argued for moving the courthouse to Long Branch instead of having a branch court. The committee to work for the measure includes Leon Cubberley, Edward E. Lacour and Frederick R. Cutcheon. Senator Slocum will be asked to introduce the bill.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

At a meeting of the North Plainfield High School athletic association held Monday afternoon it was decided that the interclass basketball league should not be controlled by that organization. A board of directors was selected to control the league activities and look after the finances. The championship winner will receive medals for distribution upon the members of the superior team.

Donald Ketchum, the star guard of last year's Sophomore team, has decided to return to the game and his playing will materially strengthen his class team.

The girls' basketball team regained its old time form Monday afternoon by trimming the Westfield School girls to the tune of 21 to 13. Miss McAuliffe's playing featured the playing.

The boys' team has been treated to some stiff practices during the past week in prepartion for the game against P. H. S. on Saturday. A new code of signals has been introduced by Coach Webster and they have tended to inject new life into the team.

Carroll Taylor lost his basketball sweater while joy riding the other night and is anxious to get it back. The finder will relieve his mind by returning it.

Raymond Kline has been elected captain of the senior class team but the class has as yet failed to agree on a manager.

Elmer French and Lester Chandler have been elected captain and manager respectively of the Freshmen interclass representatives.

Get all the Heat in Your Coal

A PRACTICAL way to clip the ever-climbing cost of living is to stop heat waste in the house furnace. And—the way to save furnace heat is to install a furnace that delivers heat to the house instead of to the chimney.

Square Pot Furnaces develop 100 percent. efficiency from fuel consumed and keep the chimney cool.

They embody a great improvement over other furnaces—a square firepot which, because it has more surface, radiates more heat. This means an actual increase of efficiency at no increase of fuel cost. This firepot is non-clogging, and maintains a live fire because it clears easily.

If you would like value received for dollars spent for coal, install a Square Pot Furnace.

WHEN SERVING HAM.

WHEN a whole ham is to be cooked scrub it, trim off the hard dark parts, cover with cold water and let it simmer slowly, allowing a half hour for each pound. When it is taken off the fire let it stay in the water until the liquid is nearly cold, then peel off the skin and sprinkle with sugar and cracker crumbs.

Some suggestions for cooking ham, which is a favorite cold weather food, are given here.

Substantial Viands.

Ham With Cream Sauce.—Trim the edges off a slice of ham, put into a hot frying pan with one teaspoonful of drippings, put over a hot fire and keep turning the ham constantly. When nice and brown on both sides remove to a hot platter. Put a tablespoonful of flour into pan, mix well and add one cupful of cold milk. Stir and boil three minutes. Pour over the ham and then serve.

Broiled Ham.—Take ham sliced rather thick. Freshen it by soaking in cold water overnight or by parboiling it in water. Wipe dry, place between the bars of a gridiron and brown slightly on both sides. Season with pepper and serve very hot.

Novel Recipes.

Baked Ham In Crust.—Take a ham and allow it to remain in water overnight. Wipe it dry, trim away any rusty places and cover with a simple crust, taking care that it is thick enough to keep the gravy in. Place in a moderately heated oven and bake for nearly four hours. Take off the crust, then cover with breadcrumbs and garnish the knuckle with a paper frill. Serve plain or with sauce.

Canapees of Ham.—Take three ounces of cooked lean ham, place in a mortar and pound it for several minutes until it is a smooth pulp, then add half an ounce of butter, two tablespoonfuls of Worcestershire sauce, half a saltspoonful of cayenne pepper and half a teaspoonful of French mustard. Pound the whole well together for five minutes more, then place the paste on a plate. Toast six slices of bread, two inches in diameter and a quarter of an inch thick. Spread the ham evenly on the six toasts and with the knife give the paste a nice dome shape.

The Plain Sleeve Leads In Fashiondom This Season.

The puffed and shirred sleeve has met with little favor, and the sleeves of the winter are made as simply as possible, straight and close fitting, with a small amount of fullness at the shoulder. The kimono sleeve has gone out entirely, and only set in sleeves are considered at all. The sleeves will partly cover the hands, whether with or without plaitings.

This gown is very up to date and includes sleeves that are joined to it at the long shoulder line. It is closed at the left of the front, and the skirt

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Facts and Fallacies.

(By Mrs. E. F. Feickert.)

The meeting held in Vincent chapel yesterday to consider the pros and cons of woman suffrage was most interesting to both suffragists and "antis." It was with real pleasure that some of us met old acquaintances there who were supposed to have died some years ago. The frivolous mother, for instance, who left her young child at home (with whom we have never heard) and went, of all places, to a suffrage meeting! In her absence the child was taken ill and the doctor being sent for, came and worked for hours over the little one. The mother coming gaily home seemed to be very little concerned over what had happened in her absence. When Susan B. Anthony first met this frivolous mother, some fifty years ago, she said dryly that it was very fortunate for the moral of the story, that she had not gone to a meeting of the literary club, or the missionary society or to a matinee!

Then, too, there was the old, old theory that while it is a good thing for women to be interested in public affairs, and stand with the men in trying to obtain better conditions for women and children, it is wiser for them to work indirectly, through their womanly influence, than directly with the ballot. The retiring president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs said proudly in her speech to the Federation last year, that after working for twenty years the women's clubs had succeeded in obtaining a national pure food law. Few suffragists would feel anything but exasperation over such a trial of patience, and even Doctor Harvey W. Wiley, who some of us think was largely responsible for this law, takes the suffragist viewpoint in this matter. He writes and speaks for woman suffrage, and his wife is at the head of the committee which is arranging the big suffrage demonstration which is to be made in Washington on the third of March. So naturally we disagreed with Miss Bronson when she said it was better to work slowly for good laws which affected the moral issues, the Child Labor law being the one under discussion. To a woman, I am sure every suffragist there, and many of the "antis" too, I hope, felt that any law to improve the condition of children and especially of the children of the poor, could not be put through too quickly. New Jersey's laws in this respect are better than those of most States, by the way, but they are not always strictly enforced.

Miss Bronson said that if we wish to help the working woman we should first turn our attention to the workers in our kitchens. Granted and we have already turned our attention to them, in fact some people claim that we do too much for them and that they are so sure of being well treated everywhere, that they change places frequently for the sake of variety and with perfect confidence that all places will be equally good. Household economics is a favorite study among suffragists as well as other women.

Miss Bronson, when she referred to Owen Lovejoy's blacklist of states where the child labor laws are inadequate, more than once included in the States she named States where women do not vote. At least twice she mentioned Oregon, where there have been no elections held since women received the right of franchise last November.

It was news to the suffragists that the linquor interests were being supported by women voters in one or two of the western States. The fight which they recently waged against it in Ohio, Wisconsin and Michigan cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars. It is very noble of them to give so much to the cause of saving women from the contamination (?) of voting, if they have no personal axe to grind. Can it be that we will have to revise our ideas of the brewers, and place them at the head of unselfish philanthropic workers?

What the suffragists took most exception to in Miss Bronson's speech was her statement that "the suffragists will tell you that the ballot is of little account, that there will be no obligation upon women to vote unless they choose to do so." No suffragist ever said anything of the sort. We ask for the vote in order that we may have responsibility, and a larger opportunity for service, and believe that it should be the duty of all citizens, men and women alike, to express their opinions as to the laws which govern them and the men who should make thos laws (the ballot is nothing but an expression of opinion). Of course, no man is forced to vote, and it is not likely that any woman would be, but it is unquestionably the duty of everyone having the right of franchise to exercise it.

"MAC" SAYS

On the stage at the Plainfield theatre tonight the Jolly Five basketball team will meet the strong Company M Cadet aggregation.

Word has come from over the water that Coach Webster, of the North Plainfield High School basketball teams, is drilling his players in a new repertoire of tricks to spring on the P. H. S. representatives the latter part of the week. The boys are not saying much in regard to their game with the P. H. S. basket tossers but the girls can see nothing but victory ahead.

Although Manager Hetfield, of the Ajax, and Manager Leighs, of the Hope five, met to complete the details for the third game of their series Monday night, they were unable to arrive at a satisfactory understanding and will meet again some time this week. Although nothing definite has been decided it is thought that the third game will be played at Saengerbund Hall court.

A new training diet for those aspirants for the Interscholastic League title. Manufacture puts non-poisonous match on the market. One can now eat matches to his heart's content, without the slightest fear.

A college professor having solved the mystery of the curved ball, it now behooves him to work on that ancient conundrum "Why is a hold out?"

Sometimes we are led to wonder how some teams can have the nerve to play before the footlights without extinguishing the lights. But then we would like to know lots of things, but our curiosity is seldom satisfied on any one particular point of dispute.

Both the Plainfield and North Plainfield High School basketball teams appear to be resting up for their battle Saturday afternoon. They must be going to present something unusual according to this.

In looking over the records of the various basketball teams of the city, there is none that stands out better than that of the Hope chapel five. This little aggregation has lost but one game out of fifteen played. Something new along the city championship line has been sprung by the First Presbyterian team. They claim that in the event of the Ajax defeating Hope chapel for the title they will challenge the association boys to a three game series. Nobody has a better right, make the thing a reality before next summer, though.

James Nash and his Leal School quintet are playing Morristown High School at the Y. M. C. A. this afternoon.

P. H. S. is playing its last game before the opening of the Interscholastic league. Kearny is the attraction.

Headline reads "Yankees Want Shortstop Bergen." And still they come.

Mike Schreck, the old-time heavyweight, has quit the boxing game and taken up wrestling.

Johnny Summers, the welterweight champion of England, is on his way to Australia to engage in five battles.

Another bout between Matt Wells and Hughie Mehegan, the Australian lightweight, will be staged in London, Feb. 24.

Ex-amateur heavyweight champion Phil Schlossberg will be out of the Navy in eight months and will then take up boxing as a profession.

BASEBALL NOTES

Ray Schalk, the brilliant backstop of the Chicago White Sox, is playing basketball with the Litchfield, Ill., team.

New York fans predict that Pitcher George McConnell will surely be a winner under the tutorage of Manager Chance next season.

Texarkana, a member of the South Central League last year, will have a team in the Texas-Oklahoma League the coming season.

Manager George Stallings, of the Boston Nationals, will try out Gowdy, Calhoun, Metz and Meyers for the first base position with the Braves.

Harry Niles, the former St. Louis-Boston outfielder, has been released by the Toledo Club, of the American Association, to Indianapolis.

The first inter-league series of 1913 will start on March 16, when the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Boston Champions meet at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Arlie Latham, the former big leaguer and comedian of the baseball diamond, has signed up as manager of the Grand Central Bowling Academy, New York.

President Comiskey, of the White Sox, is expecting great work from his Indian pitcher, George Murphy Johnson, who was a star in the Western League last season.

A band of Chicago rooters, friends of Joe Tinker, will journey to Cincinnati to welcome the new manager of the Reds on the occasion of the opening of the season.

The New England League and the Eastern Association are planning to have a post-season Class B championship series after the close of the regular season next September.

Word comes from the Red Sox headquarters that all of the world's champions have signed up except pitchers Wood, O'Brien, Bedient, Collins and Hall; catchers Carrigan, Thomas and Nunamaker; infielder Wagner and outfielders Speaker, Hopper and Lewis. That list comes very near being the entire Sox outfit.

All of the International League teams will go south this Spring to get into condition for the coming season. Toronto will train at Macon, Ga.; Baltimore at Fayetteville, N. C.; Rochester at Anniston, Ala.; Providence at Durham, N. C.; Buffalo at Charlotte, N. C.; Newark at Savannah, Ga.; Montreal at Charlottesville, Va., and Jersey City will again go to Bermuda.

COLLEGE LEAGUERS AS HIGH JUMPERS

Fourteen Y. M. C. A. Athletes Jumped for Heighth at the Assn. Yesterday.

Esty Foster, of the Yale team, in the Y. M. C. A. boys' department College League won the high jump event in that organization yesterday afternoon with a jump of four feet eight inches. By securing first place, Foster increased the point score of the blue team by 105 points. The nearest man to Foster at the finish was Brower who missed at four feet two inches. The summaries:

THORPE INCIDENT STIRS THE A. A. U.

Fate of Indian Will Probably Prompt Disclosures on Others Under Suspicion.

The speedy and drastic action on the part of the officials of the Amateur Athletic Union against Jim Thorpe on the charges of professionalism was the subject of general commendation in sporting circles yesterday, though the praise for the A. A. U. was tinged with regret that such action was necessary. The matter was so completely closed on Monday when the officers of the A. A. U. held their meeting to investigate the charges that nothing remained to be done yesterday. It was the calm that followed the storm.

The prizes which the noted Indian won in the all-around contests at the Olympic games will probably arrive in New York during the present week, and no time will be lost in returning them to the International Olympic Committee for redistribution to the proper winners. The American Olympic Committee is determined to continue with the same dispatch that marked its activity as soon as the rumor was first sent broadcast that Thorpe had played professional baseball.

The Thorpe case is regarded as the wedge for a more general cleaning in amateur athletics than has been attempted in many years. The A. A. U. has made it evident that once evidence is in hand the greatest athlete of modern times must pay the same penalty as a comparative unknown, and it was generally predicted yesterday that other famous athletes would follow Thorpe out of the amateur ranks. For years rumors have been persistent that certain stars of the track and field game have been accepting money for their services—not in baseball, as was the case with this Thorpe, but in the branch of athletics of which they were most proficient. It is no secret that many of them have demanded appearance money and have insisted on some sort of a bonus for taking part in certain athletic meets. Heretofore they have escaped detection, but the disclosure time has arrived for Thorpe, and they, too, may come in for considerable attention.

One feature which the Thorpe case will undoubtedly bring about is a more stringent investigation into the amateur standing of all athletes who will be chosen to represent the United States in games of an international nature. The Olympic Committee feels that it has exercised great precaution in the past and expects that its action in the Thorpe case will be favorably received abroad. But at the same time the task of apologizing to the other nations which competed in the Olympic games at Stockholm for having allowed a professional of two years' standing to compete for honors is a humiliating one. That there will be no repetition of this affair will be the first aim of the United States Olympic Committee when it sends another team across the ocean for international honors.

Swedish newspapers, commenting on the disclosure that James Thorpe was a professional athlete when he competed in the Olympic games held there last summer, commend the honesty displayed by the Americans in making the fact known.

Leading authorities in the field of sport express the opinion that Torpe is entitled to retain the prizes he won in the Pentatalon and Decathlon events, as his status as an amateur has been raised too late.

LARGE ENTRY LIST OF JUNIOR JUMPERS

Twenty-nine Indian Leaguers Jump for Honors with Letson Leading Pack Home.

A entry list of twenty-nine junior high jumpers competed for honors in the Indian League at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon and the event was one of the most keenly contested of any that have been held in connection with the league activities. The number of entries was unusually large and those in charge of the event had difficulty in picking the winner, so close was the competition. Out of the large field of leapers it fell to the lot of Letson to carry off first honors, while King and Babcock pulled up in second place with a tie at three feet ten inches. Every team in the league had a number of athletes representing it and the standing of the teams in the organization will probably receive a considerable boost as a result of the event.

MANAGERS ARRANGE LEAGUE SCHEDULE

First Game Between the Two High Schools At the Y. M. C. A. Saturday.

After many postponements and disagreements, Manager Arthur Grisley, of the Plainfield High School basketball team, and Manager Carroll Taylor, of the North Plainfield High School five, got together yesterday afternoon and completed all the outstanding arrangements for the Interscholastic Basketball League. Taylor was informed a few days ago by the P. H. S. pilot that the first game was to be played at the local High School, but Taylor claimed that details had been previously completed to stage the initial game of the series at the Y. M. C. A. and Grisley finally agreed to that place.

The league series between Plainfield and North Plainfield will open at the Y. M. C. A. next Saturday afternoon and the second game will be played at Saengerbund Hall. If a third game is necessary the two managers will get together and decide the court by a toss up. This arrangement is the most satisfactory all around as it places the two rivals on an even footing and the championship will be awarded on playing merits alone.

PARVIN WINNER OF HIGH JUMP EVENT

High School Freshmen Hold Weekly Athletic Event at the Y. M. C. A.

The weekly athletic event in the High School freshman gymnasium class at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday morning was contested in the nature of a running high jump with fifteen competitors entered. Parvin, of the Princeton team, annexed first place with a leap of four feet seven inches and was closely seconded by Fitch, of Harvard, who missed the seven inch mark by two inches. Princeton had five contestants in this event, four of which finished above sixth place, and because of this fact the point standing of the Bengals will probably receive a good boost.

The summaries:

GOLF TOURNAMENT FOR BALTUSROL

Next New Jersey Championship Will Be Decided on Nearby Links.

The next New Jersey championship golf tournament will be held over the Baltusrol links. Such was the unanimous choice of the delegates at the annual meeting of the New Jersey State Golf Association held in the office of F. H. Thomas, the retiring president, at 71 Broadway, New York, yesterday. The exact dates as yet are in doubt and will not be decided upon positively until the Metropolitan Golf Association makes its selection. Most likely, however, the Jersey dates will be June 6 and 7.

As Fred Thomas, of Essex county, had filled the office of president for two years he declined to serve any longer. Morgan K. Smith, another Morris county man, who had been the association's secretary-treasurer, then was nominated to succeed Thomas. Smith's election was unanimous.

BOUND BROOK PINNERS DEFEATED DUNELLENITES

On the alleys of the Dunellen Presbyterian Baraca Class, last night, the Bound Brook two-man team annexed four out of the seven games rolled with the Baraca Class representatives. All of the games were closely contested and the series was in doubt until after the sixth game was rolled. The fourth match was an unusually close and exciting one as the Bound Brook pin smashers came out in front by a margin of one pin. The visitors did the same stunt in the initial game, rolling a score of 352 against 351 by the Dunellenites. The summaries:

N. P. H. S. CLASSES PLAY BASKETBALL

Freshmen Making a Strong Bid for First Place in the Interclass League.

Some more interclass league basketball was played at the North Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon, when the Freshmen defeated the Juniors to the tune of 38 to 8 and the Seniors had to bow to the Sophs for a count of 19 to 14. Both of the games caused intense excitement, especially the last one, which was nip and tuck at all stages. Rough playing and many fouls also featured this contest:

N. P. H. S. BASEBALL OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

A Large Number of Veterans Are Still in School and are Anxious to Start.

Now that the basketball team is well started on its season's schedule, those interested in North Plainfield High School athletics are beginning to speculate on their diamond possibilities and to make ready for the entrance of the National pastime into their school's activities. The wild weather of late has inspired some of the more "fanny" into getting out in the backyard and tossing the horsehide to loosen up stiff joints. The outlook for another banner season is particularly bright just at present and those who have the sport in charge predict a great season on the diamond. Captain-elect Newton Spencer is making preparations to call practise and when the first call is sounded fully fifty students are expected to report. Coach Webster will once more get the team into condition and his previous successes handling the Boroughites indicate that this department of the sport will once more be well taken care of.

Those of last year's players who are once more available are Ashley Burner, Duclos VanMater, Ralph Smalley, Hyman Abrams, Warren Townley, Newton Spencer, David Levitz, George Townley, Carroll Taylor, Elmer French and Frank Dunning. This array of veteran material will form a good nucleus around which a champion team ought to be fashioned and the development of a strong corps of second string men will naturally follow. Among the new-comers who have signified their intention of getting into the diamond game are Roy Love, who would probably make a good first baseman in the event that Dunning decided to tryout for the mound position as an assistant to Captain Spencer; Addison Newkirk and Leon Larison. Principal Phelps has consented to assist in coaching the team and his advice will be of great value to the school boys who are hot on the trail of another interscholastic title.

LOCAL TUMBLING TEAM AT 'PLAINS

They Performed to a Packed Gallery at the Parish House Last Night.

The athletic exhibition in the Parish House, Scotch Plains, last night, which was featured by the appearance of the local Y. M. C. A. tumbling and gymnastic team and the Y. W. C. A. athletic class, was enjoyed by an appreciative audience of several hundred people. The affair was the first of a series of events arranged to take place in the Parish House within the next few months.

The performances were varied and well enacted, the Plainfielders showing excellent skill on the various apparatus. On the horizontal and parallel bars and the "horse" the Y. M. C. A. gymnasts executed numerous difficult feats led my Albert Hanson, captain of the team. In a tumbling and pyramid act they exhibited unusual ability.

Seventeen members of the Plainfield Y. W. C. A. took part in club swinging, free hand, and novelty marching drills under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth Wetherell. They also demonstrated their ability as folk dancers. The members of the class who performed are the Misses Margaret Hawkins, Clara Hallard, Marion Doughty, Ethel Blazier, Mary Line, Inez Fink, Jane Crawford, Margorie Burtis, Margaret Ewart, Ellen Doughty, Grace Van Denburg, Gertrude Mair, Marion Mair and Reba Kline. Those who represented the Y. M. C. A. are: Albert Hanson, Henry Kinney, Henry Brynarski, George McComb and H. V. Anderson.

EXHIBITION GAME WON BY Y. W. C. A.

Excellent Efforts of Miss Van Denburg Keeps Her Team Out in Front.

As part of an excellent program of athletics staged at the Parish House, Scotch Plains, last night, the local Y. W. C. A. feminine basketball quintet stacked up against the ...ch Plains girls' five whom they ...feated by the score of 9 to 4. The game was fast throughout and the low scores credited to each side can be attributed to the excellent playing of the guards, rather than poor shooting by the forwards.

Although both teams were evenly matched in skill, the excellent efforts of Miss Grace VanDenburg, of the Plainfield five, proved the undoing of the Parish House lassies. Time and again she prevented probable scores by her opponents and sent the sphere flying into the vicinity of her own goal. In the scoring line she accounted for four of the nine points gathered in by her team. For the Parish House aggregation Miss Jahn, who occupied the pivot station, played a star game.

UNION TAX BOARD CUTS SUMMIT CLUB'S RATING

Elizabeth, Jan. 29.—Basing its action on last year's valuation of the personal property of the Baltusrol Golf Club, of Summit, the Union County Tax Board has reduced the assessment on the club's holdings from $10,000 to $6,500. The club had asked for a reduction to $4,000.

Before reducing the assessment the board made a trip to the club. A preliminary meeting to discuss the case was held last Friday. The board also reduced the assessment on the property of the Hedden Iron Construction Company of Union to $71,500. It had been $84,500. The company asked for a $50,000 decrease.

Caleb C. Pollard and Calvin E. Brodhead, members of the board, made a trip to the plant Monday morning. The reduction was based on an opinion furnished by an expert. Monday's hearings bring the tax appeals to a close, the last date for such hearings being Friday next.

The number of appeals heard this year was greater than ever before and the majority of the appellants were granted decreases. When the board meets again the new member probably will be appointed. Mr. Pollard, whose term expires, is again a candidate. Those who are seeking the place are ... whose name ... E. A. Leach, David ... in Duncan.

Plan to Visit the Sale Tomorrow and Make Advance Selections

The John Wanamaker

New York — Astor Place Subway Station, Broadway to Fourth Avenue. Eighth to Tenth Street.

February Sale of Furniture

Opens Saturday, February 1st, but Advance Selections May Be Made Tomorrow and Friday--Two Inspection Days

THERE are ten millions of people within a comfortable shopping radius of New York—less than a hundred miles.

Counting an average of five people to a family, this means there are two million homes interested in furniture.

And we have only 12,831 pieces of furniture to sell in this Sale!

A paltry $800,000 worth!

Sooner or later these two million homes will need new furniture—some a single piece, others a houseful.

Where will it be bought?

At the Store which inspires confidenec!

What has the John Wanamaker Store done to inspire confidence

It has been in business for 51 years in Philadelphia and for 16 years in New York, dealing frankly on the open basis of mutual satisfaction to both buyer and seller.

It originated and maintains inviolate the principle that a sale is not complete until the purchaser is satisfied—and offers MONEY BACK if the goods are returned unused within a fortnight, and stands back of any piece of furniture if it develops any defects. This is the magna charta of fair trading which the Wanamaker Store has given to the American people.

But what specifically has the Wanamaker Store done in FURNITURE to claim the public's patronage?

Three things:

1. It has insisted that furniture be soundly made.
2. It has insisted that furniture be made in good taste.
3. It has brought the cabinet maker in direct touch with the furniture buying public.

First--Sound Furniture!

Sound furniture means no puttied-up knotholes, no defects glossed over with varnish, no "green" woods, no slovenly cabinet work, no imitations of any kind masquerading as genuine.

When we began selling furniture, more than 30 years ago, the manufacturing business was in a deplorable condition—we were told it was impossible to get furniture that was trustworthy except at exorbitant prices.

We said, "Then we will burn our stock and go out of the Furniture business."

But we kept at the manufacturers, showing them it would pay to make good furniture, and to-day American-made furniture is without a peer in all the world.

Second--Furniture in good taste.

Some one has said: "Good taste is my taste, bad taste is the other fellow's."

But taste depends upon much more than personal likes and dislikes.

There are standards in furniture art as in any other art.

The world recognizes a Rembrandt, a Titian, a Botticelli as the standard of certain schools of painting.

The world also recognizes a Chippendale, a Hepplewhite, an Adam, a Sheraton as the standard of certain kinds of furniture.

The classic in anything is absolutely correct, whether you or I or the other person likes it or not.

The WANAMAKER STORE has ever striven to introduce classical designs in furniture, and it is a fact that in the past dozen years the standard of our public taste in furniture has risen remarkably.

Furniture to be in good taste must be both useful and beautiful.

To be useful it must be well constructed and comfortable.

To be beautiful it must be of proper proportions and harmonious throughout.

It may be simple or highly ornamental, but it must have harmony of proportion and of design, and it must always be useful and comfortable.

Knowing these truths about good furniture, you may be sure we allow no other kind on our floors.

Third -- Selling direct from the manufacturer at favorable times, thus lowering the cost of living.

The first furniture sale on a large scale took place in the Wanamaker Store (in Philadelphia) in August, 1889.

At that time no dry goods store sold furniture.

The idea of a spring and fall furniture sale in the dullest months was original. It was really a happy accident, arising from the practice a quarter of a century ago of the general shutting down of the furniture shops for several weeks each year, scattering workmen and leaving the machinery idle.

The study of these conditions led to our contracts to take all the products of several mills and workshops at cost of material and wages and turn the goods over to our customers at lowered rates.

When other stores copied our enterprises and set up Furniture Sales they found

fifteen years (or more) ago. The Furniture makers in one way or another, by better systems, pooling in some instances their products, became able to run their shops the year round, and ever since the February and August Furniture Sales in this and other cities are a hodge-podge of lots picked up "as best can," and the old stocks mixed in with them, bearing new sale tickets, and sometimes with old prices scratched over and a new olwer price written under.

Worse yet, there are furniture builders who build specially for February and August sales and by cheapening and skimping and by poorer workmanship turn out wares that can be priced less because the reduction is taken out of the quality.

So that the customer, while he pays less, hasn't a penny of advantage in these special sales.

It is only fair play to let these facts, commonly known in the trade, be known to general public.

When the day comes that we cannot offer genuine economies in a Furniture Sale or any other, we shall not hold such a sale.

For this present 1913 sale this is what we have done:

—We have excluded all offers of specially constructed February Sale stuff.

—We have held strictly to our standards and have, little by little, in the last few months, collected small lots and saved them for this February Sale.

—We were larger buyers last year than ever of furniture, and our business being worth much to the manufacturers, we secured concessions of better qualities for no increase of prices.

Ready for sale we now have:

$592,449 of furniture from our own warerooms and showrooms.

$212,491 of furniture which we have bought from our regular manufacturers especially for this sale.

$804,940 of furniture in all, which we shall offer at an average reduction in price of a little over 25 per cent., individual reductions ranging from 10 to 50 per cent.

REASONS FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Mrs. E. F. Feickert, President of State Assn., Makes the Chief Argument.

SHE ANSWERS 'ANTIS'

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Riley Also Are Heard at Meeting of North Plainfield Township Improvement Society at Watchung.

About sixty members of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society were gathered in the Town Hall at Watchung last night to hear a presentation of the cause of suffrage for women, when Champlain Riley, chairman of the Executive Board of the New Jersey Men's League for Woman Suffrage, made brief remarks and then Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, made a strong argument for "Votes for Women," saying incidentally:

"Do you know that in nine States of the Union—Wyoming, where they have voted for forty years; Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona and Kansas—over two million women vote on exactly the same terms as men? In nineteen other States, including New Jersey, women have a limited franchise. In all the other English-speaking countries women have some degree of suffrage, and full suffrage in Australia and New Zealand. In 1910 both houses of the Australian Parliament unanimously adopted resolutions declaring that woman suffrage had justified the hopes of its friends and falsified all the fears of its opponents, and that its effect had been 'to gradually educate women to a sense of their responsibility in public affairs, and to give more prominence to domestic and social legislation.' The only office-holders in England for whom women do not vote are the members of Parliament. In Norway and Finland and the Isle of Man women have full suffrage. In Sweden and Denmark women have municipal suffrage, and bills are in their Houses of Parliament now to fully enfranchise them. In Ireland, Scotland and Wales women have municipal suffrage. So you see the day has passed for thinking of woman suffrage as an experiment.

"Now how does it work where it has been tried? Judge Lindsey, of Denver, says, 'We have equal suffrage in Colorado, and it is to this that we owe many of the fine, humane laws now on our statute books for the protection of the home and the people within the home.' The International Parliamentary Union—a world-wide organization of expert sociologists—has declared that Colorado possesses the most humane, most progressive, most scientific laws for the protection of women and children of any State in the country. Then they say that women

HIT BY A SNOWBALL HE BEAT WRONG BOY

After witnessing a wedding in this city yesterday afternoon Thomas Cahill, 22 years old, of 84 West 50th street, Bayonne, joyfully walked over the snow covered walk to a waiting coach which was to convey him and his wife to the reception. His joy was turned to sorrow, however, when an icy snow ball came sailing through the air and found a resting place in his left eye. When Cahill turned around to see who had thrown the ball he looked so dangerous that Frank Harding, sixteen years old, of John street, started on a run down the street and Cahill pursued him. After a chase of several blocks and over several back fences, Harding was caught and received a severe beating.

Patrolman McCarty happened along at this time and arrested Cahill and Harding made a charge of assault and battery against him. He was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza last night and released under $50 bail for his appearance Saturday morning. UNION ASSEMBLYMEN GET THROUGH 5 BILLS

Leonard, Griffin and McLoughlin Do a Good Day's Work in the House.

Trenton, Jan. 30.—The Union county delegation in the Assembly got five measures through the House yesterday afternoon. The two by Mr. Leonard regulating the carrying of concealed weapons were on the list. One provides that no pistol or revolver which may be concealed on the person may be sold or offered for sale without a permit from the proper officer of the municipality. The other corrects the title of the concealed weapon act passed last year and makes it more effective. In advocating these measures Mr. Leonard showed that while such permits are required in New York, dealers from that State may come into this State and dispose of such weapons without the knowledge of the authorities.

The Assembly passed the bill by Mr. Griffin providing for the service of summons from district courts upon any motorman, conductor or other servant of certain corporations under specified conditions.

Mr. McLoughlin had no difficulty in convincing the Assembly that his two Freeholder bills should pass and they went through without opposition. They validate and confirm the election of the small Board of Freeholders in Union and the other counties where the old Board is fighting to keep out the small Board on the ground that they were not legally chosen.

ENJOYED AN EVENNG WITH EUGENE FIELDS

Rather Novel Entertainment Given by a Seventh-Day Baptist Society.

Following the supper given by the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church in the church parlors last night an entertainment of music, recitations, readings and tableaux, called "An Evening With Eugene Fields' Works" was presented under the auspices of the organization. The program was arranged by the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Ira N. West is chairman, and was unique and original in every detail. She was assisted in her work by Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard. The program as presented was as follows: Solo, "Swing High, Swing Low," by Mrs. John B. Cottrell; reading, "Sketch of the Life of Eugene Field," by Arthur L. Titsworth; tableau, by John Reed Spicer, Thatcher Cottrell and Charles Kellogg; quintet, by Mrs. John B. Cottrell, Mrs. Theodore Davis, Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Roy L. Titsworth and Theodore Davis; piano duet, by Miss Jessie Utter and Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard; reading, "Father's Way," by Frank Langworthy; recitation, "Gingham Dog and Calico Cat," by Charles Kellogg; solo, "Armenian Lullaby," by Mrs. Theodore Davis; tableau and recitation, "Seeing Things at Night," by Robert Spicer; reading, "At Play," by Mrs. Charles Kellogg; tableau and song, "Little Peach," by Constance and Elston Shaw, with solo by Roy L. Titsworth; reading, "Our Whippings," by Frank Langworthy; reading, Miss Nancy Randolph; solo, Miss Nancy Randolph; reading, "Our Opinions," John B. Cottrell; song and tableau, "Japanese Lullaby," by Mrs. Theodore Davis.

The vocal selections were Eugene Fields' poems set to music. The refreshment committee having charge of the supper were as follows: Mrs. Orra S. Rogers, chairman; Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Mrs. George L. Babcock, Mrs. M. L. Clawson, Mrs. Asa Randolph, Mrs. Charles Dunham and Mrs. Clarence Spicer. The husbands of the women in charge of the affair acted as waiters.

COURT BUSINESS CANNOT PROCEED

LAWYERS DISTURBED

Bench and Officials Alarmed Over Report That Wilson May Defer Nomination Until After His Bills Get Through Legislature.

Never in the history of Union county was the business of the courts in such a chaotic state as at presnet. The fact that Judge Atwater through illness has been unable to preside, even though requested by the Governor to retain his position on the bench until his successor is appointed, coupled with the inability of having a judge from one of the other counties sit only once or twice a week, has delayed the operation of court business to a serious extent. The trials of criminal cases cannot proceed as they should, the business of the Orphans Court is practically at a standstill and the probation office is handicapped in not being able to dispose of juvenile cases.

There is considerable concern on the part of members of the bar and officials directly interested in the operation of the courts over a report given considerable credence in Democratic political circles to the effect that a successor to Judge Atwater may not be named until after the Governor's bills, the "Seven Sisters," are acted upon by the Legislature. Just when definite action will be taken on the bills appears to be conjectural. It may be three and possibly four weeks before the Legislature disposes of them. If the judgeship appointment is held up pending the final disposition of these measures, the business of the county courts will be in a great deal worse shape than at the present time.

Besides the different Orphans Court cases which it has been necessary to adjourn from time to time since the resignation of Judge Atwater there are numerous justices' appeal cases from various parts of the county awaiting action. These cases were originally set down for January 13, but owing to Judge Atwater's illness were put over until next Monday. It is not likely that they will be disposed of then. This will mean more delay and considerable inconvenience for the lawyers, witnesses and principals in the different actions.

Both Judge Queen, of Hunterdon county, and Judge Daly, of Middlesex, have willingly given their aid in disposing of the volume of business before the Union County Court. Judge Queen was sitting yesterday and there were a number of criminal actions set down for trial. It will be impossible to proceed with the trials without delay because Judge Queen cannot give the time required owing to his other duties at Flemington, the county seat of Hunterdon. Judge Daly a week ago Friday disposed of a large batch of applications in the Naturalization Court, but, like Judge Queen, his duties in his own county prevent him from giving more of his time to the Union County Court and it would probably be considered an imposition to ask either him or Judge Queen to do more than they have done and are doing to dispose of Union County Court cases

Judge Case, of Somerset, who sat at Elizabeth on a few occasions for Judge Atwater, resigned just a short time before the latter. He, too, was requested by the Governor to continue to serve until such time as his successor was named. Judge Case is still on the bench and the business of the Court of Common Pleas, of Somerset county, is proceeding in the same regular manner as heretofore. In Judge Atwater's case, however, it is different. His physical condition will not permit him to preside.

FULTON-CANARY.

Miss Ellen Canary, of 309 Evona avenue, and Louis Fulton, of 39 Chatham street, North Plainfield, were married yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Daniel F. Hogan at St. Mary's rectory. The only witnesses of the ceremony were Lawrence Dake and the bride's sister, Miss Alice Canary.

A NEAR COLLISION.

While avoiding a collision with a passing automobile driven by Siegfried Arens, of Rahway road, John Haskard, of 398 McDowell street, running his machine west on East Fifth street near Park avenue yesterday afternoon, ran into the curb, wrecking the front wheels of his car.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED.

Alfred Peterson, colored, of 551 South Second street, was arrested early this morning on the complaint of his wife who charges him with a serious offense. Margaret Lane, of the same address, is mentioned.

STABLEMAN BRUTAL; HE HAS LOST AN EYE

Broom with Which He Beat Horse Broke and His Optic Was Punctured.

The anger of William Watson, colored, of 534 West Third street, because a horse he was cleaning at the stables of the Plainfield Cab Company, this morning, would not stand still cost him the sight of his right eye. Watson was so annoyed by the animal's restlessness that he picked up a broom and began striking the horse. The second time he brought the broom down on the animal's back the handle broke and one part flew back, the sharp point of it puncturing the man's eye.

Watson was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital where an examination showed that the sight was injured beyond saving. An operation was performed for the removal of the eye.

Watson is 48 years old and married. He has been employed by the Plainfield Cab Company for some time.

DINNER AND DANCE FOLLOW A RECEPTION

Mrs. William A. Clark and Mrs. William M. Clark Are the Hostesses.

Mrs. William A. Clark and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. William M. Clark, gave a reception at their home, 210 West Eighth street, this afternoon, for which 200 invitations were issued. The decorations consisted chiefly of spring flowers with yellow as the prevailing color. There was also a profusion of palms. American Beauty roses were used exclusively in the dinin-room. During the reception there was a pleasing program of harp and violin music.

Those assisting in receiving were Mrs. A. G. Allen, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Howard Voorhees, of New Brunswick; Mrs. H. H. Williams, Mrs. A. G. Hagerdorn, Mrs. S. H. Arens, Mrs. E. E. Iremonger, Mrs. W. L. Lockwood, Mrs. Edwin L. Allen, Mrs. H. C. Cochran, Mrs. Robert Hecht and Mrs. Louis Miller.

Following the reception a dinner party will be given for the members of the receiving party and a few especially invited guests, after which there will be dancing.

CHIEF CABINET JOB FOR THE COMMONER

Accepts Woodrow Wilson's Offer to Become His Secretary of State.

New York, Jan. 30.—A dispatch from Miami, Florida, says that conferences between William J. Bryan and other prominent Democratic leaders, including Henry E. Alexander, of Trenton, N. J., and a close personal friend of President-elect Wilson, resulted in the announcement late Wednesday night that Mr. Bryan had given a positive assurance that he would accept the portfolio of Secretary of State in the Wilson cabinet.

Mr. Alexander left early today for Trenton and he is believed to be the bearer of Mr. Bryan's answer to Mr. Wilson.

MISS PETERSON TO WED.

Miss Hula Peterson, of East Seventh street, and Felix Wahlberg, also of this city, will be married Saturday evening, February 8, at the Swedish Pilgrim church on West Sixth street. Miss Peterson is a sister of Mrs. Lena Hellstrom, of this city, and Mrs. Henry Johnson, of the borough. A reception will follow the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Hellstrom on East Seventh street.

Owing to poor health William Coulter has resigned his position as overseer of the poor of Piscataway Township, and the Township Committee has appointed John M. Dayton to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Coulter. The appointment is for five years, and Mr. Coulter had four more years to serve.

HORT NOW OUT OF NAT. GUARD

AN EFFICIENT OFFICER

Had Served in Spanish-American War and Worked Himself in Guard From a Private—His Superiors Had Often Honored Him.

Trenton, Jan. 30.—Nathaniel H. Hort, of Plainfield, first lieutenant of Co. K, Second Regiment, N. G. N. J., has tendered his resignation to the State military authorities. In his resignation he states that he is compelled to give up his military position because it seriously hampers his personal affairs.

Lieutenant Hort served in the war with Spain in the Third New York Volunteers. He enlisted as a private in Company K, April 30, 1901, and worked himself up through corporal, sergeant and second lieutenant to the first lieutenancy.

During the war manoeuvers in Connecticut last summer Hort was appointed as an instructor on Brigadier-General Hine's staff of the First Division New Jersey National Guard. Later in the summer when the National Rifle Association matches were being conducted at Sea Girt he was appointed chief executive officer of the entire meet, because of his ability and fairness in previous matches.

Lieut. Hort's resignation will be felt not only by Company K but by the State guard as a whole because of his fine military character and the helping hand he has always extended to both brother officers and men who have been in trouble. When his resignation was first sent in he was waited upon by a committee appointed at the last business meeting of the company to see if he would not reconsider the matter, but as he said the work of the guard was interfering with his studies and he considered the best thing that could be done would be to leave the guard as he had decided to do.

CO. K TO PARTICIPATE IN EXHIBITION DRILL

Orders have been issued by Captain Charles A. Peterson, of Company K, stating that a First Battalion drill and review will be held in Elizabeth Tuesday night before the four G. A. R. Posts in Union county. The local boys will assemble in the armory at 7:20 in olive drab service uniforms, with the olive drab cap, canvas puttees and blue overcoats. The 7:41 train will convey them to Elizabeth.

Tickets will be issued to the members of the company in the administration rooms Saturday night and on the train, for their friends to be presented by them so that they may witness the drill and enjoy the dance which is to be held at the close of the review.

Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., will make the trip with Company K.

Good Variety Bill and Dancing Features of Anchor Lodge's Annual Affair.

Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., provided an excellent program for its second annual entertainment and dance held at the Park Club, last night. The affair was arranged for the members, their families and friends and the attendance was unusually large. The program was furnished by professional entertainers, including Ranson, a clever sleight-of-hand performer, who introduced a great deal of comedy into his work; Miss Madelein Livingston, known as "The Girl at the Piano," whose character songs and impersonations of well-known actors were excellent, and Martin King, who gave "Stories of Mr. Dooley."

Miss Livingston impersonated Irene Franklin, Eddie Foy, George M. Cohan, Nora Bayes and other footlight favorites, while she also gave some of her own selecctions. Martin King recited from "Tales of the South.'

After the entertainment refreshments were served during an intermission and then dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Music was furnished by VanEps Brothers and their program was up to their usual standard.

The committee in charge of the affair comprised J. Stephen Higham chairman; C. L. Lewis, Juan A. Babcock, C. O. Deakin and Robert L. Giddes.

DELUCCI CONVICTED OF SECOND SHOOTING

Asst. Prosecutor Wins Victory in Trial of Italian Accused of Attempt to Kill.

Elizabeth, Jan. 31.—Salvatore Delucci, of Summit, who last June was discharged from State Prison, where he had served a five-year sentence for manslaughter, and who was put on trial in the Court of Quarter Sessions yesterday, before Judge Paul A. Queen on a charge of having shot John Connors in Summit, Thanksgiving night, was found guilty last night. The Court announced that sentence would be imposed on Wednesday, February 5.

Connors was in Overlook Hospital, Summit, for three weeks, hovering between life and death. He identified Delucci as the man who had shot him. The latter disappeared after the shooting, but was arrested in the woods near Maplewood two days later by Policeman Gannon, of Maplewood, and a box of cartridges was found on the prisoner. That Connors recovered was little short of a miracle, according to the physicians. The bullet of .38 calibre, passed through his neck from side to side, just missing the jugular vein.

Assistant County Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represented the State, and so convincing was his argument based on the evidence that the jury required only twenty minutes to reach a verdict.

JOLLY SONS' CLUB HELD A RECEPTION AND DANCE

The second annual dance of the Jolly Sons' Club was held at Netherwood Hall, on East Second street, last night and was attended by a large number of the club members and their friends who enjoyed the program of dancing and singing until the early hours of the morning. The Jolly Sons' organization is one of the progressive social clubs of this city and the affair last night was a great success from every point of view.

Much of the credit for the arranging of the program is due to the general committee, composed of the following: Hall committee, Martin J. Whelan, Arthur Madsen; soda committee, Arthur Herbst:, James Whelan, Thomas Leacock; music committee, Walter Cubberly; collection of tickets, Charles Collins, Martin J Whelan; floor managers, Thos. Leacock and Arthur Madsen, assisted by the rest of the club.

Allen and J. F. TenEyck comprise the committee appointed at last night's meeting.

OLD BOARD NOW DOWN AND OUT

Governor Signs Measure Validating Defects in Small Freeholders Board Law.

ENDS ALL LITIGATION

Trenton, Jan. 30.—Soon after it had been rushed through both branches of the Legislature under suspended rules, the bill by Assemblyman Sizgen, of Bergen county, correcting the defects in the law governing the small Boards of Freeholders in Bergen, Mercer, Morris, Sussex and Union counties was approved by Governor Wilson. It takes its place on the statute books as Chapter No. 2 of the laws of 1913. After Governor Wilson had affixed his signature to the measure which blasts the hopes of the old Freeholder Boards in their efforts to thwart the will of the people for reform in county government, Assemblyman Zisgen had this to say:

"The Freeholder act just signed by the Governor validates the election of members of the small Boards of Freeholders and constitutes them the only legal Boards in the counties affected. Whatever arguments the members of the larger Boards advanced have been disposed of by this bill, and there is now no valid reason why they should continue to try to hold office.

"If they respect the law, as they would have the public believe, they should withdraw all further opposition to the new Boards in the several counties. The fact that this bill was among the first to pass both Houses under suspension of rules and was signed by Governor Wilson forthwith, should be a sufficient pronunciamento to the members of the old Boards that even the Republicans in the Legislature are not in sympathy with their efforts to defeat the popular will.

"So far as the pending cases in the Supreme Court are concerned, I believe there is no doubt as to the result, but even if the old law should not be sufficient to sustain the new Boards, the pleadings may be amended and the new law just enacted included in the cases, so that the court may decide the case on the new law, if it should appear to be necessary.

"It is regrettable that the members of the old Boards went so far as to make it necessary to put the entire lawmaking machinery of the State in motion to convey to them an intelligent understanding of the sentiment of the people in this State against them. There is now no reason why the county collector in these counties should not recognize warrants of the new Board and pay whatever bills are passed by the new Freeholders.'

STATE USE SYSTEM DR. MOORE'S SUBJECT

President of Assn. to Speak on Vital Topic at Big Charities Conference.

Institutions within the State of New Jersey may yet return an income to the State, counties, or municipalities maintaining them, if the plan advocated by Dr. Frank Moore, president of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction, is carried to its fullest development.

At the twelfth annual meeting of the conference, to be held in Plainfield, February 2, 3, and 4, Dr. Moore will emphasize the benefits of the "State Use System," which favors free labor in New Jersey by prohibiting contract prison or institutional labor, and seeks to produce within the institutions such articles as taxpayers' money now buys for community needs. The forthcoming conference will include an exhibit of articles made at various institutions. Managers of the institutions are desirous of interesting State, county, and city officers in wares they have for sale, and in the standard quality and in the prices, so that those who have the spending of taxpayers' money will be induced to purchase of the institutions.

New Jersey institutions, according to Dr. Moore, are now supported by appropriations from taxes upon corporations. If the State Use System can be developed to its utmost the products of the work of inmates can be made a source of revenue that will go direct to the treasuries of the municipalities, counties, or to the State thus reducing direct taxes upon the homes and industries in New Jersey.

Dr. Moore said recently that New Jersey institutions could now provide iron work, clothing, shoes, carpentry products, and that in particular lockers for the State reformatory for women at Clinton had been provided by the work of institution inmates.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS AND LIABILITY LAW

Bill Introduced in House to Exclude Them From Claiming Damages for Hurts.

Trenton, Jan. 30.—Among the bills introduced in the Assembly yesterday afternoon were:

Excluding farm laborers and persons engaged in domestic service from the operations of the employers' liability and workmen's compensation act. If it becomes a law employers of these classes will not come under the law.

Providing for a State Board of Osteopathy of five members to regulate the practice of osteopathy and to license practitioners. The board is to consist of five osteopaths.

Providing that any state, county or municipal officer, who shall be convicted upon or plead guilty to a misdemeanor or high misdemeanor shall forfeit his office.

Providing that municipalities may provide by ordinance for and examination and licensing of persons having charge of portable steam boilers or operating steam engines, and that none but licensed engineers shall operate such boilers or engines.

Exempting from taxation all buildings held by laboring people of any municipality for lecturers, reading rooms, social gatherings, etc.

FAVORS EQUAL SUFFRAGE

are too fine to be degraded to common politics, and in contradiction to this they assert that women are so depraved that their votes could easily be bought, and they would introduce a corrupt element into politics.

"Of course, the Anti-Suffragists claim that woman suffrage has not helped the States which have it. Yesterday Miss Minnie Bronson, the 'Antis' chief speaker, asserted at a meeting in Plainfield, that the suffrage States were far behind the non-suffrage States in their laws for the protection of women and children. Let us dissect this audacious assertion. She said that Washington's eight hour law was adopted under male suffrage, when as a matter of fact it was not adopted until after woman suffrage had been granted. And when the eight-hour law was passed in Washington not three other States had eight-hour laws. She said that Idaho and Wyoming although they have had suffrage for many years still lack laws for the protection of women in industry. As late as January, 1910, there was not a factory in the State of Idaho where women were employed. Ten years ago only 47 women in Wyoming were doing factory work, as against 126,000 in Pennsylvania, 143,000 in Massachusetts and 230,000 in New York. As a matter of fact a much larger proportion of the suffrage States have passed eight or nine-hour laws for women than of the non-suffrage States, and they have done it much more easily. Massachusetts secured a 54 hour a week law last June after forty years of effort. Utah women got the nine-hour law from the first Legislature of which they asked it.

"The 'Antis' make many contradictory statements. On one hand they say that if women voted they would all vote just as their husbands do, so that the vote would only be doubled, and on the other hand they say that if women voted they would be sure to disagree with their husbands in regard to political questions, so that the home would be disrupted.

"If you women are good wives and mothers and good home-makers, that is the very reason why the sphere of your influence should extend beyond your homes. Politics is nothing more or less than public housekeeping. The men will give us the vote when they understand that we want it for the woman's job. In the day of our grandmothers each home was a close corporation, but today the trend of industrial development has taken independent domestic occupation out of the home, and has made all housekeeing largely a matter of government.

"Does being a good mother mean being only little enough to mother your own children, or big enough to mother all children? Should your motherhood extend only to your own doorstep? When you see poor half-starved, neglected little waifs in the street, do you feel happy and self-satisfied to think that your children will always be better cared for than those little wretches, or do you feel a pang that in some way you cannot give to them some of the happiness which your own children have?"

Mrs. C. L. Riley, president of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, said that she would give her reasons for being a suffragist in a very few words: that she was a suffragist because she believed in women and because she believed in suffrage, and that she thought most of those who opposed the movement did so, either because they did not have confidence in women's judgment on public affairs, or because they distrusted democracy and did not believe in the principle that each individual has a right not only to hold an opinion on every public question, but also to register that opinion in the only way which really counts, by casting a ballot for it.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Composer Heinrich Reinhardt, the gifted Viennese writer of "The Spring Maid," has lived a life of romance and adventure. He was born in 1865, in Germany. His family wealth made it unnecessary for him to do anything, but his love for music made him, at the age of 16, run away from fancied restrictions at home and obtain work as a violinist at the Stuttgart Grand Opera House. Even then he was composing fragments of quaint effectiveness—in fact Herr Reinhardt is today better known through Europe for the large number of short musical sketches he has put forth than for his operas. It is likely that more than half of the musical one act playlets that are so generally played over Continental Europe are his work. He was recognized as a composer of much music-humor written in a strictly technical manner, and his two grand operas which were sung at the Berlin Grand Opera House under the patronage of H. I. M. the Kaiser were great successes. It was in his first opera-comique, however, known as "Die Susse Madel" (The Sweet Girl) that he came into his own, and his later works are eagerly awaited. "The Spring Maid" will appear at the Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and evening.

Kibble and Martin's mammoth scenic and spectacular $30,000 revival of the great and everlasting celebrated masterpiece of Harriet Beecher Stowe's entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be given at the Plainfield theatre, Wednesday afternoon and evening, February 5. It is one of the grandest and most interesting and heart-rending plays ever placed upon the stage, and it will live forever in the memory of the theatre-going public. Kibble and Martin, the enterprising managers, have taken great pains in staging and producing the original version of Mrs. Stowe's beautiful story, every year trying to outdo the previous. The company this season numbers over fifty people, twenty of which are colored, engaged to fill out the many pictures of the play and introduce their many old and new songs, dances and plantation shines. Two 70 foot Pullman palace cars are required to transport the people and scenery.

Those to whom a public or private library is a sealed temple, may derive from Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, which comes to the Plainfield theatre, Friday and Saturday, afternoons and evenings, February 7 and 8, an inexhaustible mine of knowledge and pleasure without the burden and effort of delving for it. Mr. Howe's library of films freely bestows the delights and benefits of knowledge. It does so not alone by means of splendid scenes from foreign shores, but also by reproductions that appeal directly to the heart, that are humanizing, that broaden and enrich mind and heart. They open up new vistas of thought. They stimulate new ideas. They arouse curiosity even about subjects that hitherto seemed commonplace and convince us of those finer things in life which would otherwise escape attention. They cultivate a desire to learn and appreciate more and more all that is beautiful in life. They strengthen the imagination and therein lies the foundation of mental progress and understanding. If we are able to imagine well—to assimilate the meaning of the pictures Mr. Howe reveals to our gaze—if we keep this faculty on edge, we strengthen our powers to realize their importance more and more. It is not at all an obscure or occult influence that explains the great success of Mr. Howe's exhibition. It is because it conveys powerful messages so directly and in such enduring form, that they linger in the inner sight long after the eye ceases to gaze upon them.

IN MEMORY OF THE MARTYR.

London, Jan. 20.—Two hundred and sixty-four years ago today occurred the execution of King Charles I., and, in accordance with their custom, the various Legitimist clubs and Jacobite leagues observed the anniversary by holding memorial meetings and depositing floral offerings about the base of the statute of "the Martyr" in Trafalgar Square. More than a score of magnificent wreaths were hung about the base of the memorial. The predominating colors were red and white.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

No longer is the commission form of government an experiment for wherever the plan has been adopted it has proven to be a success and noticeably in Houston, Texas, the second city in this country we are told to adopt the advanced type of administration for public affairs. But Houston is not satisfied yet; it wants to to go still further and is willing to expend a large sum to obtain knowledge which will be invaluable in further improving its work in carrying on the people's business in a most businesslike way. To this end, the authorities have dispatched a commissioner to Europe where it will become his duty to study conditions in the leading municipalities, particularly in Germany, probably the most progressive of countries on the Continent, and to gather information of benefit to Houston for practical and ideal schemes in governmental affairs. The Germans are doing something for their children that other peoples are not, they are putting tools in the hands of the young for livelihood insurance when they attain manhood's years.

In discussing his mission, the deputy of the Houston commissioners says:

"My instructions are to put in six months finding out what German cities can teach us. Houston is acting on the theory that it owes something to the million people who will make up its citizenship twenty years from now. Houston is not being run any more for the benefit of professional politicians. It has got down to a business basis and the people like the change so well that they have determined to make a city worth while, for the future as well as for today. We have made up our minds down there that a city made up wholly of doctors, lawyers, orators and professors of dead languages wouldn't be an ideal city, and so one of the first things we are concerned about is to revolutionize our school system. Just now our common schools are teaching our children on the theory that they are all going to attend universities and become professional men and women. Houston believes that what it needs is fewer lawyers and more manufacturers, and so we are going to find out how Germany has become so tool wise that it is taking away England's industrial supremacy and capturing the foreign trade of the world.

"We know that German cities put tools as well as grammars into the hands of school children, and Houston has decided to do the same thing. It has decided that when in the future the race for commercial and industrial supremacy is on among the cities of the West—and it is coming in a very few years—Houston will have properly trained hands and brains to maintain its position. We want trade schools for our boys and schools of domestic science for our girls that will give us a future population of skilled mechanics to operate the factories and industries that Houston is getting ready to invite. We want trained engineers to run the great municipal works Houston proposes to own. We want builders, manufacturers, inventors, merchants to build up and prosper with the city we propose shall be the industrial metropolis of the Southwest."

As the Elizabeth Journal remarks:

"It is such signs of enlightenment as Houston has shown in connection with civic progress that furnish basis for the opinion that our American cities will some day, perhaps in the not very distant future, cease to be the worst-governed among those of the big nations of the world."

It is proposed to send the members of the State Senate to Washington to attend the inauguration as a mark of esteem to our great Governor when he is exalted to the Presidency of the United States. A bill for that purpose has been passed and no one should begrudge the expense to the State. It strikes us, however, that all the men who assisting in moulding and enacting the progressive legislation which has made New Jersey famous and was largely responsible in commending Wilson to the people of the country as the man for the chief magistrateship of the nation might well be included in the delegation. Surely such a body would constitute a guard of honor and would be an object lesson as it were to the representatives of less advanced States.

From a California millionaire comes the suggestion that a real National weekly be published at the Government's expense to which each voter in the country would be a "deadhead" subscriber. Such a publication would surely be as dry as the Congressional Record, as impractical as a publically endowed daily newspaper and as great a waste of public money as can possibly be imagined.

President Taft is pounding away against the surrender of the Philippines to a people incapable of governing themselves. If he continues his campaign along these same lines after he retires from office he will be rendering the Filipino as well as the American government a signal service.

If he may be judged by his recent utterances, Senator Joe Bailey, of Texas, is suffering from a first class grouch.

MISS LILLIAN FENNESSY NOW MRS. HENRY TULLY

Miss Lillian Fennessy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fennessy, of 140 North avenue, and Henry Tully, of Sixteenth street, Bayonne, were married yesterday afternoon in St. Mary's rectory, by the curate, Rev. Daniel F. Hogan. Miss Celia Tully was bridemaid and Miss Isabella Gloak was maid of honor. Patrick J. Reidy, of Bayonne, acted as best man.

The bride, gowned in apricot charmeuse, trimmed with lace and beads and carrying a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley, was given in marriage by her father. The bridemaid wore a robe of yellow messaline beneath a marquisette of lace and carried white roses, while the matron of honor wore pink crepe de chine trimmed with lace. Mrs. Fennessy, mother of the bride, was gowned in black satin with a net overdress trimmed with jet beads.

Following the ceremony the wedding party and the guests enjoyed a wedding reception at the bride's home in North avenue. The table decorations were elaborate, smilax and roses forming the floral trimmings.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tully, parents of the groom, and Miss Margaret Tully; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cahill, Mr. and Mrs. William Matson, Mrs. Michael Reidy, and the Misses Rose Ferry, Katherine Duffy and Mary Reidy, all of Bayonne; John O'Rourke and the Misses Catherine and Anna O'Rourke, of New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mann, and the Misses Mgadalena and Charlotte MacIntyre, of this city, and W. J. and Charles Smith, of Dunellen.

Mr. and Mrs. Tully left this morning for Wilkesbarre, Pa., where they will spend their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in Jersey City.

Miss Louise Young, of Somerset street, is visiting friends in Newark.

Millard W. Bellis, of the borough, has taken a position as collector for the Public Service Corporation.

ILLEGAL SELLING FINE CAUSE OF AN APPEAL

Union County Court's Decision in This Case of Importtance to Plainfield.

On the petition of John P. Owens, of counsel for the defendant, Louis Davigo, papers were served on City Judge William G. DeMeza today by direction of Judge Queen, of the Union County Court of Common Pleas, to appear before him on Thursday, February 6, with the complaint, process pleadings, evidence, etc., for review. In the meantime, Davigo has been admitted to $200 bail pending the review.

Davigo was convicted in the city court on a charge of illegal sale of liquor, and was fined $100 and thirty days, teh complainant being Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn.

The outcome of this case is of vital importance to the city for it will have a direct bearing on similar cases that may come before the city judge in the future. Council for Davigo contends that the fine imposed was unjust and contrary to the provisions of the law and for that reason has taken steps to have the whole matter brought before Judge Queen for review.

CONFERENCE TONIGHT ON LICENSE APPLICATIONS

The Common Council and the license committee will hold a conference tonight for the purpose of carefully examining the liquor license applications and the many protests that have been received against the increasing the number of licensed places, granting renewals or changing the "Tyler License Zone," and the councilmen will also fix a date for public hearing to be held probably some night next week.

In response to several requests that this hearing be held in a public hall, other than the Common Council rooms, the license committee may make arrangements to hold it at the Plainfield High School.

Some of those who are applying for licenses have engaged counsel and it is expected that their side of the matter will be presented at the public hearing. The protestants will also be largely represented by several speakers who will offer arguments to show why no additional licenses should be granted.

LENIENT TO BOY BANDITS.

Hackensack Court Lets Them Off on Probation.

Hackensack N. J., Jan. 30.—Edward Riley, thirteen, of Hillsdale, a son of ex-Freeholder John H. Riley, William Tompkins, fourteen, of Hillsdale; Ferdinand Falette, eighteen, of Westwood, and William Clark, sixteen, of Westwood, known as the boy bandits, when arraigned before Judge Demarest in the Hackensack court here on charges of burglary and highway robbery admitted their guilt. There were no tears, not even when Lawyers P. W. Stagg and John J. Bell were pleading for leniency.

"I could send you boys to state prison on a long term," said Judge Demarest to the culprits. "It is very unusual to find boys of your family standing brought into court on such charges, and if there is any shame in you at all then it should certainly be awakened by being brought before the public in this manner."

Falette and Tompkins were placed in charge of the probation officer for one year, to report weekly.

OLD HOTEL DESTROYED.

Howland Hostelry at Long Branch Burned to Ground.

Long Branch, N. J., Jan. 30.—The ruins of the Howland hotel, a place famous a generation ago, located at West End, was destroyed by fire. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin. The place had long been an eyesore. Several fires have occurred in it, and several of them seemed to have been set.

Three weeks ago there was a fire in the old structure, which badly wrecked the place and left it looking worse than ever, its time discolored timbers being charred and burned.

The Prestbury cottage, in Ocean avenue, close to the old hotel, was set on fire a number of times, but the firemen managed to save it. The old Howland hotel belonged to the Dobbins estate. It had not been occupied for years.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

FATHER AND SON WANT TO LOCATE THE MONEY

Despite all his efforts, Henry Bodenheimer, of Somerset street, North Plainfield, has been unable to clear up the mystery surrounding the disappearance of $441 which he says was stolen from his son, John Bodenheimer, in Philadelphia, last Monday.

According to the story told by Chief Marshal Weiss, the older Bodenheimer had received a sum of money amounting to about $500, as his share of the sale of some property. The police say that Henry Bodenheimer at his home Friday night laid the money carelessly aside and his son took the money for safe keeping and returned it the next day. According to Chief Weiss, John Bodenheimer again found his father at home with the cash lying about the floor of their home and when he remonstrated with his parent, the elder Bodenheimer handed the money to his son.

And here is where the mystery begins. Father Bodenheimer made a complaint to the police charging his son with the theft of the coin and later withdrew the charge. And John Bodenheimer when asked what became of the money said that he found himself in a hole in Philadelphia and the money gone, the police assert.

ASQUITH MOBBED BY SUFFRAGETTES

"MARTYRS" REFUSE FOOD.

Jailed, They Declare, They'll Starve. One Woman Whose Fine Was Paid Hurled Bodily From Cell Despite Her Angry Protests.

London, Jan. 30.—While Premier Asquith was addressing his constituents in Leven, Fifeshire, a number of suffragettes undismayed by the jail sentences handed out in the Bow street police court created a riot outside the hall.

A strong cordon of constables were drawn around the hall, and against this the "bashibazouksesses," as the militant suffragettes have come to be called, dashed wildly, but in vain. One of them was prepared against repulse. She had a paper containing red pepper which she blew into the faces of the officers who opposed her.

The situation is so tense that the suffragettes are beginning to fall out with their friends. They broke up the annual meeting of the Labor party, held in London. This organization has been siding with the women, and a flood of interruptions occurred while George Henry Roberts, member of parliament from Norwich, was addressing the meeting. The women wanted to know what the party was going to do about votes for women and why the present ministry had not been turned out. Interrupters were ejected from the meeting.

To Raise Glass Insurance.

The cost of insurance on plate glass has not yet been raised, but the companies say it will be if the window smashing continues. A suffragette hurled a hammer through a plate glass window, worth $750, belonging to the Hamburg-American Steamship company's office.

Of the thirty suffragettes who were sentenced twenty-nine continue to declare that they will put the prison officials through the drill of handling a "hunger strike." Mrs. Despard, sister of Sir John French, the famous cavalry general, was fined $10 or given her choice of two weeks in jail. She took the two weeks, but some unknown person paid her fine, and the prison officials thrust her from the jail against her protests. She is the only woman arrested Tuesday who is not serving her time except Sylvia Pankhurst, who disregarding her statement of the day before that the violence was just beginning, promised to be good until her case is tried.

Mrs. Drummond, the "general" of the rioters, a woman of years and bulk, went to jail with the others, promising to starve herself. She scornfully refused to pay $10 fine which was imposed and chose to go to jail for two weeks.

All of Them Chose Jail.

The other women who were arraigned with her all were given the same choice, and all chose jail. They had expected to be sent to prison, and their friends brought to it accessories and rugs to the court, so except for the expressions on the faces the scene closely resembled an excursion party.

Most of the smart shops presented a novel appearance. The fronts are carefully boarded up to protect them from the "bashibazoukesses." All London is in a ferment of excitement approaching that of the days of the Fenian troubles.

The police are looking for Christabel Pankhurst, an elder daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

FEED COWS; STARVE CHILDREN

This Is the Practice of American Farmers, Says Wiley.

Greeley, Colo., Jan. 30.—"People do not know what to eat. Farmers take more care of their cows than they do of their children. Half of the children of the United States are starving, and under the very shadow of the nation's capitol there are 177,000 who are undernourished. The very foundations of the government are threatened."

These are the views of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as expressed in an address here.

Suggesting a remedy, he laid great stress on the nutritive value of wheat, a pint of which ground fine and made into mush is sufficient, he declared, for the breakfast of four persons for as many days.

Banking Resources in Plainfield Quadrupled in Ten Yrs.

C. A. Luhnow
Director of Trust Companies

No set of figures or statistics furnish such a reliable index to the material prosperity of a community as those relating to deposits in its national banks, trust companies and savings banks. A comparison of the banking statistics of other New Jersey business and residential centers discloses the fact that Plainfield is going ahead with giant strides. During the past ten years the deposits of the banks and trust companies of this city have increased nearly fourfold in volume. It is therefore most interesting to contrast the development of today with banking conditions as they existed here half a century ago.

Plainfield's first financial institution antedates the memory of the present generation. In reviewing local financial history the fact which appears most striking is that the real advance commenced with the introduction of so-called "modern trust company methods." Prior to 1902 the field was exclusively occupied by the two national banks and one savings bank. But the increase in business and population demanded additional facilities to meet varied needs and ripened opportunities. There arose a greater demand for loans on mortgage security than was being supplied at that time. Many of our residents realized the need for some responsible, state chartered agency, endowed with practically perpetual life, to assume management of their estates and execution of trusts in the event of death. Many other services of a fiduciary character and for the protection of post-mortem wealth, were called for. To meet this situation the first trust company was organized. It not only served the admirable purpose of attracting new capital to this community but also in creating a wholesome, competitive atmosphere among the existing banking institutions, resulting in gains to all. It offered the medium for profitable employment of the surplus funds of Plainfield citizens who formerly were obliged to seek safe or remunerative investments elsewhere.

Plainfield was a mere cluster of humble homes when the first bank was established here in 1837. This was the Plainfield Bank which continued in existence until 1847. From that year to 1869 there appears to have been a lull in banking enterprise. In the latter year the Union County Bank was organized and conducted business with a fair degree of success until superceded by the First National Bank, the oldest of existing local banks, which commenced business in 1864, during the trying days of the Civil War. The First National Bank has unfailingly held to its policy as distinctly a commercial bank. At the present time the First National Bank has a capital of $200,000 and deposits amounting to $2,530,000.

But very early in Plainfield history the need of a savings bank reflected the thrift and enterprise of its residents. Therefore, in 1868 the Dime Savings Bank was organized and in 1883 it was reorganized under the title of Plainfield Savings Bank. This institution has made steady progress and has now a deposit line of over $1,125,000. The expansion of business interests and increase in population warranted the organization of a second national bank in 1875, the City National Bank, which has capital of $150,000, surplus and undivided profits of $291,000 and deposits of $2,430,00.

The new era in Plainfield banking progress came in 1902. Up to that time the national banks met the requirements, such as conducting a commercial line of business, discounting notes, purchase of exchange and receiving money on deposit on which, however, it was not the custom at that time to pay interest. But now conditions in the business and residential circles called for the adoption of the most modern kind of a financing institution. The time was ripe for a chartered agency to supply additional facilities to supply the demand for loans on mortgages, to undertake the administration of estates and trusts of various descriptions. The reports of success experienced by trust companies organized in other cities attracted the attention of leading business men and influential residents of Plainfield.

The organization of the Plainfield Trust Company in 1902 marked the beginning of the rapid advance by which local banking resources were quadrupled in ten years. It was found that the Plainfield Trust Company, because of its broad charter under the laws of New Jersey, which were framed especially to meet modern conditions, fully answered the demands of the community. The advent of the trust company served to stop the flow of local capital to other points and offered new opportunities for the use of this money in building up local business and real estate enterprises. Among the innovations were the payment of interest of checking accounts, thus sharing earnings with depositors and giving them a proper return for their balances; the establishment of savings departments by all banks where an average rate of 4 per cent. interest is paid on deposits and the granting to patrons of a New York checking privilege by which Plainfield checks became New York exchange. These advantages were shared in by all and it is noteworthy that the deposits of the national banks and the savings bank showed marked gains from this time in common with the large deposit gains reported by the Plainfield Trust Company.

The necessity for trust company services was demonstrated by the fact that the Plainfield Trust Company, which began business in 1902, with a capital of $100,000, now has surplus and undivided profits of $275,000 and has built up a deposit line of $4,500,000. In addition to this the Plainfield Trust Company, as executor, administrator, guardian or trustee has in its custody over $1,500,000 trust funds which are kept separate and apart from its assets. These trust funds are invested in high grade securities wherever necessary and are safely guarded. Many of the estates conveyed to the trust company have increased in value because of wise investment and appreciation in realty values.

The popularity of trust company management was further shown when in 1910 the State Trust Company, capitalized at $100,000, took over the Borough National Bank, an organization then about two years old, with deposits of approximately $140,000. In its last report, December 31,1912, the State Trust Company shows deposits of $572,851, an increase of $366,736 in two years, with capital stock of $100,000, surplus and profits of $50,058.

The stimulating effect of the healthy competition resulting from the establishment of the trust companies is illustrated by the fact that when the Plainfield Trust Company was organized a little over ten years ago, the combined deposits of the two national banks and one savings bank then in existence, approximated $2,500,000, while today the combined deposits of the two national banks, the two trust companies and the one savings bank, are approximately $11,000,000.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

"Little Women" has gone past its 150th night in New York at William A. Brady's Playhouse, with the practical certainty of doubling this record. The feat is considered extraordinary in a season when many highly promising runs have been nipped in the bud by the frost of hid competition.

At William A. Brady's Forty-eighth Street theatre, the engagement of William Collier, in "Never Say Die," has been extended indefinitely, owing to the high point at which the patronage of the public has remained from the start. This play, indeed, appears to possess a vitality very much in excess of Mr. Collier's previous successful previous offerings, and it is quite within the range of probability that it may remain in its present surroundings until the end of the season. At that time, if negotiations now progressing by cable come to a successful issue, the star and his entire company will proceed to London under contract to Sir Charles Wyndham. The remarkable runs of "Baby Mine" and "Ready Money" in the British capital have given rise to a strong demand for American plays of a humorous turn, and the fact that Mr. Collier as long as seven years ago established himself as a favored stage personality in London is regarded as fixing his special availability for renewed popularity there at this time.

All the world loves to laugh, yet once in a while you will find a human being who has apparently promised his mother he wouldn't indulge in that form of healthful exercise, but if one of these happened in at the Lyric theatre he would of a surety break his pledges, for nothing but a wooden Indian could withstand the risible inclinations that come from viewing "Stop Thief," the farce that is now holding forth at that playhouse. The audiences that assemble to see the new Carlyle Moore play begin to laugh three minutes after the curtain goes up on the first act and from then on the house is in a veritable laughing panic. They laugh at the ridiculous situations in the piece and then laugh louder at the antics of their seat-mates who fairly rock the house in their paroxysms of pure delight as the crook continues to outwit every effort of the blue-coated policemen who try, in vain, to trap him. If you are a grouch go and see "Stop Thief." It will cure you. On the other hand, if you are good natured, an evening spent with this prince of pilferers will be an event that you will recall with a grin for many days after.

This measure is intended to end the complications in Mercer, Union, Morris, Sussex and Bergen counties, where at present there are dual county Boards. The bill was taken up for consideration in the Senate Tuesday, but was laid over when Senator Leavitt questioned a section, which he feared might interfere with the Civil Service law.

Senator Johnson and Mr. Leavitt called on Gardner Colby, chief examiner of the Civil Service Commission, and were told that the commission had no objection to the Zisgen measure. The section on which the Senator from Mercer raised the question, it was explained, applied only to "officers," who are distinguished from "employes" in the Civil Service law.

In order to formulate plans for co-operation in arguing the status of the small Boards of Freeholders, the lawyers engaged as special counsel by Mercer, Bergen, Morris and Union county Boards are holding a conference this afternoon in the office of former Assistant Prosecutor English in Broad street in Elizabeth.

The necessity for the meeting appeared to the attorneys when Chief Justice Gummere indicated a willingness to call a special session of the Supreme Court in order to have the Freeholder question argued and decided. The Chief Justice also consented to the question being taken up at the same time on behalf of each county.

The attorneys to attend the conference are John and William Backus, representing Mercer county; John Zisgen and a member of the law firm of Roe & Runyon, for Bergen county; John K. English, William R. Wilson, John P. Owens and Abe J. David, for Union county; Elmer King of King & Vogt, for Morris county. It is possible that some members of each of the Boards will also be present, but all other persons will be excluded.

At the time Justice Gummere gave notice of his intention, he did not fix any date, and this is taken to mean that it will be set to suit the convenience of all the lawyers interested. Just what action the counsel for the large Boards will take could not be learned, but it is believed that opposition to the special session would be of no avail. The regular term of the Supreme Court opens February 18. The date of the special session will be set at least a week prior to that date, it is reported on good authority.

Trenton, Jan. 30.—Assemblyman John B. Kates, one of the two Republican Assemblymen from Camden county, introduced a bill yesterday afternoon providing that all officials and employes of second class counties shall be paid twice a month. It applies to Bergen, Burlington, Camden, Cumberland, Atlantic, Mercer, Middlesex, Morris, Monmouth, Passaic and Union counties.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

Trenton, Jan. 30.—An important change in the employers' liability act is proposed in a bill introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Holcombe, of Hunterdon county. It amends Section 1 of the liability act so that where an employe is injured by accident in the course of his employment, he shall receive compensation from his employer provided the employe was himself not willfully negligent at the time of receiving such injury.

HOW TO MAKE TRIPE PALATABLE

MANY persons are prejudiced against tripe. This prejudice is foolish. Tripe is, of course, the stomach and intestinal tissue of the beef, but before being offered for sale it has been well cleaned and boiled. It is a food easy to digest, as much of it turns to gelatin in boiling. It is prescribed often in cases of stomach troubles and dyspepsia.

Palatable Foods.

Tripe Lyonnaise. — Take the tripe, wash it thoroughly and cut into small pieces, then place in a saucepan and cover with boiling water, cooking until tender. Drain off all the water, and put in with the tripe one tablespoonful of browned butter, in which has been fried one small onion, cut into thin slices; one tablespoonful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of mixed parsley and salt and pepper to taste. Cook for ten minutes and serve on slices of toasted bread.

Tripe Fried.—Take a pound of pickled tripe and soak it for about half an hour in salted water. Drain on a soft cloth and sprinkle with one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Dip in beaten egg and roll in finely powdered breadcrumbs. Fry in one teaspoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of lard until golden brown. Garnish with parsley.

Easily Digested Fare.

Stewed Tripe.—Take half a pound of tripe, an onion, half a pint of milk, one dessertspoonful of flour, pepper and salt. Blanch the tripe. Remove all fat and cut into square pieces. Put the tripe, the onion, finely chopped, and the milk into a saucepan. Season with pepper and salt. Simmer gently for a couple of hours. Mix the flour with a little cold milk and mix it in. Stir until it boils up. Serve hot.

Tripe Soup.—Take half a pound of tripe, three pints of water, a turnip, a carrot, three onions, seasoning herbs, parsley, half a pint of cold milk and two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch. First scald the tripe and cut it into very small pieces before setting on to boil with the cold water and herbs. Chop all the vegetables into small pieces, add to the tripe and boil slowly for one hour and a half. Then take the cornstarch, work it into a paste with a little cold milk. Add to the boiling soup and stir over the fire for ten minutes. Just before serving add the rest of the milk, the chopped parsley, with pepper and salt to taste. Serve the soup very hot with fried bread.

FASHION REVIEW.

Angel Sleeves, an Old Mode, Is in Vogue Once More.

Angel sleeves are a novelty—that is, on the principle that nothing is new but what is forgotten. They are not quite on the old lines, however, but are rather wing sleeves, taking the form of a square of tulle decorated with gold or silver threads and often bordered with rhinestones. It is quite easy to raise the arm, and the wings descend to the elbow.

Little girls as well as little boys wear Russian dresses.

MOTHERS' WORK

Contributing Staff.

Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, Mrs. Jos. Smith, Mrs. Wm. M. Sandford, Jr.

The Daily Press for Thursdays containing the column on Mother's Work will be sent by mail for one dollar a year, in advance.

For those mothers who have dreaded suffrage for women it will be illuminating to see how closely all the legislative proposals of the California Federation of Woman's Clubs adheres to the traditional interests of women—Marriage, children, food, health and morals.

Here are the seventeen planks of which their platform is built:

1. Health certificate for marriage. (The implication is that marriage licenses should not be issued to those who fail to secure health certificates.)
2. Joint guardianship.
3. Community property. (At present the husband can dispose of all community property, except homestead, at his pleasure.)
4. Compensation for mothers. (Referring to what in The Delineator has usually been called "widows' pensions.")
5. Maternity homes.
6. Psychopathic parole societies. (Meaning organizations for giving home care to persons afflicted with mental disease who have recovered sufficiently to make it safe and proper to discharge them from strict hospital control.)
7. Minimum wage for women.
8. State registration of nurses.
9. Women's building at State Fair.
10. Iowa injunction and abatement act. (Directed against disorderly social-evil districts in cities.)
11. State training school for girls.
12. Raising the age of majority for girls to twenty-one. (The argument being that it is unfair to girls to allow them to consent to propositions affecting their property interests at any earlier age than is assigned for boys.)
13. Ethical, vocational and hygienic training in public schools.
14. Tuberculin test for dairies. (For pure milk.)
15. To compel fathers to support illegitimate children.
16. To enforce the laws for the protection of children.
17. Police women. (A better name for them would be "street matrons," just as in police stations we already have "station matrons.")

The Parent-Teacher Association of Garwood held its first meeting of 1913 on January 16. The meeting was well attended and was addressed by the medical inspector of Garwood. Plans for summer school farming were laid before the association by the principal, E. N. Roselle. Mr. Roselle is enthusiastic over the good results of the association in the Garwood school.

Miss Emily Gilbert, who is in charge of the social centre work in the public schools of Elizabeth, recently addressed the Parent-Teacher Association of Roselle in a most interesting manner, telling of the methods of carrying on this kind of work and its good results in the community. The members of the Roselle Association are planning to start a movement of the same kind in their school. The meeting was well attended.

A re-organization meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the auditorium at 8 o'clock on Thursday, February 6. All parents of the High School students are invited to be present. It is planned to elect a new corps of officers and to hereafter hold regular meetings as the associations of the other schools do. The meeting promises to be of unusual interest as Mrs. A. H. Reeve, president of the New Jersey Congress of Mothers, will be present, also Mrs. E. C. Grice, president of the Philadelphia Home and School League. A representative of the American Institute for Child-Welfare will also explain the aims and methods of that association.

The Mothers' Association of Bound Brook held its annual meeting last week. Miss Corson sang selected solos and Miss Olendorf rendered several instrumental selections. Rev. F. K. Mathiews, of Scotch Plains, spoke on "Making the Boy Into a Good Citizen." The social hour after the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Bonham and Mrs. Clark.

FEDERAL WEIGHT LAW?

Washington, Jan. 30.—Opinions from States as to the advisability of a national short weight law will be asked by the Senate Manufacturers Committee, according to an agreement reached today. The committee desires to learn whether a federal law compelling the branding of weights of food packages would conflict with various State statutes.

Willard Saulsbury, Democratic national committeeman from Delaware, was elected United States senator after a three weeks' deadlock in the legislature. President Elect Wilson now will have a clear working majority of his party in the upper house at the next session of congress. Mr. Saulsbury's selection makes forty-nine Democrats in the senate—one more than a majority.

30,000 LOCOMOTIVE FIREMEN MAY GO OUT

Vote Known Tomorrow; Roads Seek to Avert Clash.

New York, Jan. 30.—A locomotive firemen's strike is conceded if action depends upon the vote of the men, in a statement by the conference committee of managers of the fifty-four eastern railroads on which demands have been made for improved working conditions and increase of wages. Ballots were sent out two weeks ago. In natural course returns will be announced tomorrow.

In case of precipitate action from 30,000 to 35,000 men will quit their engines. Railroad traffic in the east will for the time be almost completely blocked. The city might find its milk supply cut off, and other perishable market supplies could not be moved. The committee says that last night's statement is intended to avert that catastrophe.

Pending differences are not acute as to the main demands of the men. Both parties are willing to submit such matters to arbitration. They split over the way of determining what is right and fair. Through the summer demands of the engineers were considered by an arbitration board of seven persons.

Hearings covered several months and the men won. The railroad companies think that was a good way of settlement, and they have held out in favor of applying it in this case.

On the other side the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers has insisted that arbitration should proceed under the Erdman law, which provides for a board of three persons to hear and determine labor issues.

Last night's statement, while holding out for more arbiters than the law names, admits in direct terms that the firemen have grievances that should be adjusted.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 30.—A wireless dispatch received here says that J. Campbell, an electrician, and L. Hurst, machinist's mate, were washed overboard from the submarine D 2 while off the Florida coast.

The D 2, with other submarines and their tenders, was proceeding from Brunswick, Ga., to Key West, Fla., when the accident occurred.

FOLA LA FOLLETTE.

Daughter of United States Senator Aiding Garment Workers.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

Miss Fola La Follette, daughter of United States Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, recently an actress, is now acting as a leader of the women strikers in the garment strike in New York city. The other night she led a number of pickets in what she called a "parade" toward one of the shops which is running with strike breakers. A small sized riot followed, in which eggs were thrown and hot words passed. The "paraders" were arrested, and Miss La Follette, as chief picket, argued their case before the judge of the night court.

PEACE FAILS; ALLIES PREPARING FOR WAR

Expect Resumption of Hostilities In Few Days.

London, Jan. 30.—The long suspended peace negotiations between Turkey and the Balkan states have reached the point of rupture, and unless something unforeseen occurs between now and Sunday or Monday the war will be resumed.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Servian charge d'affaires paid a visit to Rechad Pasha chief of the Turkish delegates, and delivered the following formal note.

The plenipotentiaries of the allied states, having since the suspension of the work of the peace conference awaited in vain for three weeks the reply of the Ottoman plenipotentiaries to their last demands, and the events occurring in Constantinople appearing to them to have destroyed the hope of arriving at the conclusion of peace, they, to their great regret, are obliged to declare the negotiations commenced in London on Dec. 16 last, broken off.

The document was signed by the delegates of all the Balkan states, headed by Dr. Daneff of Bulgaria.

The Servian charge then proceeded to the foreign office and handed to Sir Edward Grey a letter setting forth the allies' decision and expressing the delegates' gratitude for the cordial hospitality which Great Britain had extended to them during their stay in England.

The governments of Bulgaria, Servia and Montenegro were at once informed that the negotiations were formally ended, so that they might, without further delay, instruct the commanders in the field to give the four days' notice terminating the armistice. As the Greeks were not parties to the armistice they were not directly concerned in this formality.

IOWA'S BAN ON $100 HATS.

Too Much Money For Woman to Pay, Is Decree of Legislature.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 30.—One hundred dollars is too much to pay for a hat, and "hubby" may decline to pay the bill with impunity, the lawmakers of this state have decided.

The milliner and the wife will in such cases settle their affairs without dragging the wage earner in is the provision. On the other hand, the husband who buys a diamond ring on credit and after presenting it to his wife further presents her with the bill will have to placate the jeweler himself and without the aid of his life partner.

CAPTAIN GILBERT AT FAULT.

Inspectors Say He Was Responsible For Disastrous Collision.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 30.—Captain Gilbert of the sunken steamship Julia Luckenbach, who, with his wife and fourteen others, was lost in a collision with the British tramp steamship Indrakuala in Chesapeake bay on Jan. 3, was held responsible for the disaster by a board of federal steamship inspectors.

The master and pilot of the British ship were commended for their conduct.

"MAC" SAYS

Coach Webster will play the biggest part in the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball game at Saengerbund Hall tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Webster has taken out a number of insurance policies and says that he is sufficiently fortified for any emergency. He is carded to do the referee act.

Only one more day remains until that much talked of feminine struggle is decided. We hope everyone will be satisfied with the result.

Leal's basketball game scheduled with Morristown to be played at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon was cancelled at the last moment by the Morristown manager. This left the local boys without a mid-week game, but Captain Nash had the full team out for a stiff practise at the Y. M. C. A.

Frank Dunning, who had his arm injured in the last N. P. H. S.-Leal's game at the Y. M. C. A., is now able to carry the injured member without the aid of a sling and hopes to get back into the game this season. Even if he does not play any more basketball, North Plainfield needs his services on the first bag for baseball.

Captain Newton Spencer, of the North Plainfield High School baseball team, is beginning to take a census of his available material. Many of the veterans are still in school and prospects for a winning team are bright.

Baseball players are allowing their thoughts to resusticate scanning the broad horizon for a sign of summer like a mariner looking for a summer resort.

'Taint spring yet, as the old farmers with the spinach on their jowels say up New England way. It might be better to wait until the basketball season gets started before getting out on the diamond. The two sports might not mix well in the hearts of fans.

Maybe foreigners are surprised because the A. A. U. didn't get wise to Jim Thorpe when he played professional ball in the Eastern Carolina League, but that's because they weren't educated in Our Set. If we were a yeggman with Hawkshaw and Jack Dalton hot on our trail, and we could pitch for an average of only .479, we'd sign with a Class D team. Then what chance would there be of the sleuts hearing of us? Kindergarten class in tanning please answer.

Speaking of Jim Thorpe, what pains the fan most in this thing is that the Indian is branded a professional because he played with a Carolina League team. The average fan regards the Eastern Carolina League as about as professional as the South Plainfield Tigers, who play games for a new ball and are willing to compromise on three cheers from the losers.

N. Y. STATE LEAGUE MEETING.

Utica, N. Y., Jan. 30.—In compliance with the call of President Farrell, the club owners of the New York State Baseball League rounded up here today for their annual powwow. Announcement was made before the magnates went into session behind closed doors that little outside of routine business was slated for transaction. The failure of Syracuse to land a berth with the International League means that the circuit of the New York State will remain the same as last season.

RECORDS OF THE PLAINFIELD AND NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' TEAMS

Individual and Team Scoring Done by the Feminine Teams That Are Due to Clash in the First Game for the Interscholastic Girls' Title on the Saengerbund Hall Court Tomorrow Afternoon—N. P. H. S. Girls Appear to Have a Shade the Better of the Playing to Date—Confidence Prevails on Both Sides—Peculiar Feature of the P. H. S. Record.

Never before in the history of local interscholastic girls' basketball has so much enthusiasm been stirred up previous to a scholastic clash as has been evidenced on every side this year. When the North Plainfield and Plainfield High School girls' teams meet at Saengerbund Hall tomorrow afternoon a battle royal is expected to take place and the confidence expressed by those involved is bound to produce some intense rivalry. Both teams have a lusty band of cohorts and nothing will be left undone to make the contest one of the kind that is won in part from the side-lines by vocal encouragement. Unlike other years, the court on which the game will be played tomorrow afternoon, is big enough to accommodate any number of supporters and the playing space is also decidedly better and larger than either the Plainfield High School or Debele Hall courts, on which the contests have been staged in other years.

A compilation of the respective records of the two teams that will face each other shows that the North Plainfield lassies have won two out of their four games played while Plainfield has won but one out of four. Although each of the teams have indulged in a quartet of the court battles, N. P. H. S. has scored a total of 61 points against their opponents' 39; while the local girls have been outscored to the tune of 73 to 39. On the other hand, the teams played by P. H. S., with one exception, appear to be of a higher calibre as far as playing ability is concerned, than those encountered by the Boroughites. Neither team has played against an opponent of the other five, so little can be determined as to the relative strength.

If confidence counts for anything, and it has been said that this quality goes a long way toward winning games, the Boroughites certainly have an unlimited scope for claiming the game. The North Plainfield contingent is loud in its proclamations of the severe drubbing it is due to get out of its system, while the local girls are far more pessimistic as to the outcome and merely say that the Boroughites will have to put up a remarkable exhibition of the greatest of all girls' games in order to come out on the larger end of the score.

A peculiar feature of the Plainfield High School record is the fact that two girls have done all of the team's scoring to date and as one of these players has left school, it seems to be up to Miss Stryker to bear the burden of the scoring department in tomorrow's fray. It goes without saying, however, that she will be "heavily" guarded by Miss Clara Smith, the N. P. H. S. captain, and it looks as though the local girls might better develope another scorer to assist Miss Stryker in her work. The other member of the team who did part of the point tallying was Miss Mehl, the acting captain, but she has now left school and will not be seen in the Borough lineup tomorrow afternoon. For N. P. H. S., every one of the regular players has, at one time or another, taken a hand in the scoring, and any member of the quintet can be relied upon to get a supply of points in a pinch. Miss Mildred McAuliffe has proven herself an adept at foul and field goal shooting and with the aid of Miss Marion Mair, her running mate, she can be counted upon to do some of the scoring against P. H. S.

A list of officials has been compiled by the respective managers with Coach Webster, of the N. P. H. S. team, leading off in the capacity of referee. Miss Barbara Fleming, the P. H. S. coach, will likely assist Mr. Webster as umpire.

A summary of the respective teams is as follows:

Halpin Second and Sheppard Third in Great Foot Race in Brooklyn Armory.

James Edward Meredith, of the University of Pennsylvania, was the winner last night of the "Suburban Quarter," a 440-yard "scratch," foot race held under the auspices of the Knights of St. Anthony in the armory of the Forty-seventh Regiment, Brooklyn, and which resulted in one of the fastest broad-floor races at the distance ever seen, the time, 50 1-5 seconds, being remarkable.

Thomas J. Halpin, of the Boston Athletic Association, the quarter-mile champion of America, was compelled to take second honors to the Pennsylvania youth, who is best remembered as the schoolboy phenomenon who at the Olympic Games in Stockholm won the 800 meters event and made world's records at that distance and 880 yards. The third man was Mel Sheppard, the Amateur Athletic Union title holder at half a mile.

Probably 4,000 persons witnessed the race which was the third running of the event, the two previous contests having been won by J. M. Rosenberger, Irish-American A. C., who with Alvah T. Meyer, a clubmate, also ran. Had any member of the Irish-American A. C. won last night's race the trophy, a bronze figure of Mercury valued at $500, would have reverted to Rosenberger by virtue of his having the greatest total of points with the trophy won by a Winged Fist wearer within three runnings. As it now stands the trophy must be again competed for next year.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS TROUNCED KEARNEY

P. H. S. Basketball Players Run up a Score of 58 to 17.

Caging field goals at will and running up a score of 58 to 17, the Plainfield High School basketball team secured decision over the Kearny High School five on the local court yesterday afternoon, in its last contest before the Interscholastic League opens Saturday afternoon. The visiting guards were powerless in checking the goal shooting ability of the locals who shot from all angles of the floor and at the end of the first half had run up a score of 23 to 5. But eight field goals were credited to Kearny and ave of these were made by Moss, the center, who seemed to be the life of the team in the little team work and tallying it did.

As is the case in all games of this sort, where the guarding is loose and the shooting free and easy, a number of players on both sides suffered considerably from bruises and although none of the P. H. S. men received injuries that will keep them out of the game Saturday afternoon, a number were considerably banged up. For the winners, Peacock and Good each secured seven field goals while Woodhull made good on five throws from the foul line, besides getting six from the field.

PLAINFIELD

	G.	F.	P.
Woodhull, f.	6	3	17
Heron, f.	3	0	6
Good, c.	7	0	14
Peacock, g.	7	0	14

BOUND BROOK HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS AJAX

Association Quintet Will Resume its Schedule at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday.

Basketball at the Y. M. C. A. gym next Saturday night will be resumed by the Ajax team with the Bound Brook High School deputation as their opponents. The association boys have not played on their home court in nearly three weeks but will be back in full force Saturday night against one of the strongest scholastic aggregations in this section. Bound Brook has always tried to get a whack at any local team savoring of High School material because of the fact that they have been unable to arrange games with the P. H. S. five and the visitors will present their strongest lineup here.

The Ajax will probably have the same team on the floor that played against Hope chapel last Saturday night, as Andrew Hetfield has not sufficiently recovered to warrant his playing and Glover is permanently out of the game because of business engagements.

BASKETBALL BILL FOR HOPE CHAPEL

Two Good Games Are Due to Be Decided at That Place Next Saturday Night.

An unusually attractive double bill of basketball has been arranged by Manager George Leighs, of the Hope chapel team, to take place at the Chapel gym next Saturday night. In the main game, the Hope five will lineup against the First Presbyterian team and the preliminary game will find the Hope seconds and the Scotch Plains Parish House seconds as opponents. For some time past agitation has been rife for a meeting of the Hope chapel and First Presbyterian fives and now that the thing is about to become a reality, some good basketball ought to be forthcoming. Something a little better than mere victory is at stake for the Chapelites as they have not lowered their colors to a Sunday-school team in three years in this line of sport and are out to hold the record unshattered. The Presbyterians are fast and have a decisive victory over the Y. M. C. A. Ajax to their credit, so the Hope contingent will have no little task on its hands in disposing of the visitors.

The preliminary appetizer also promises to be a noteworthy struggle, as the same two teams have met before this season on the basketball court and while the Hope seconds won out, they only did it by a slight margin, and the Plains aggregation is hot on the trail of a win.

BASKETBALL GAME ON THEATRE STAGE

Two Local Independent Teams Will Clash in the Weekly Exhibition Tonight.

Another one of the weekly basketball exhibitions will be played on the stage at the Plainfield theatre tonight, the Jolly Five and the Mysterious Five being the exhibitors. Both teams are playing independent basketball and the respective managers have signed up some good basket cagers to do the spotlight stunt. The teams will present a consolidation of the members of the Ajax, Company K, Y. M. C. A. color league and Mystic Five teams and should be able to put up a good article of the indoor game.

The original schedule called for the appearance of the Company M Cadets, of Somerville, but this aggregation was unable to appear and the Mysterious Five were substituted at the last moment. The name signifies a hidden element but Manager Frank Dunning has a line on some of the best players in the city and the mystery is bound to be a happy surprise to basketball lovers.

BROWN AND CLABBY TO MEET.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 30.—Promoter Frank Mulkern has arranged an interesting card for the boxing show at the Hippodrome tomorrow night, which will mark the resumption of the sport in Milwaukee. The wind-up will bring together Jimmy Clabby, of this city, and George Brown, the Greek middleweight. The agreement provides for a ten-round contest, with no referee's decision if the bout goes the limit.

JORDAN FAILED TO RECOGNIZE HIS OLD SIDE PARTNER.

Patsy Donovan and Harry Lumley represented the "Association of Former Brooklyn Managers" at the recent National league meeting in New York. Lumley has grown thinner and now owns a curly blond mustache. The brush disguised him so well that even his best friends did not recognize him at first. Lumley and Tim Jordan played together for years in Brooklyn, and the "Judge" was Tim's manager there in 1909. Lumley walked up to Tim at the Waldorf and said:

"How you hitting 'em, old top?"

"Pretty good, young fellow," replied Tim stiffly, and then he called Bill Dahlen aside and inquired, "Who is that fresh guy kidding me about my batting average?"

Just then Tim got a profile view of the supposed stranger and recognized him as Lumley.

RALLY MEETING AT Y. M. C. A. SATURDAY

Records of the Indian League Show That the Sioux Team Is Leading the Pack.

The monthly records established by the boys of the Y. M. C. A. junior department Indian League were given out by boys' secretary C. William Bingeman this morning and showed that the Sioux team is leading in all around endeavor with a total point score of 1723. The Sioux aggregation gained its lead mainly through its basketball prowess but is active in every branch of work that has been designated for competition. The Iroquois tribe is leading in attendance for gym class and the class in Bible study, and is climbing steadily.

Another one of the Saturday morning rally meetings will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium this week, when J. M. Whiton will speak on "The Loose Nut," a subject that is particularly adapted to juvenile nature. The lecture will be accompanied by a motion picture entertainment under the direction of Professor Henri Von Welle. Owing to the popularity these rallies have excited among the boys of Plainfield it will be necessary to limit the number of attendants and the first 400 will be admitted. The tickets are free and can be secured from any of the association members or from Mr. Bingeman at the Y. M. C. A.

NONPAREIL BASKETBALL TEAM WILL ENTERTAIN

An invitation dance and reception will be given by the Nonpareil girls' basketball team at Debele's Hall tomorrow night and over 200 friends and supporters of the team are expected to attend. Arangements have been made to make the affair one of the largest of pre-Lenten receptions held in this city and a well known orchestra has been secured to render the terpischore music. The committee in charge is comprised of the following: Miss Helen A. Hummel, Miss Clara Smith and David X. Clarin.

RIDES ON CREST OF WAVES.

Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii Champion "Surf Rider" of World.

Duke Kahanamoku, Hawaiian water expert, who went into the world's championship class in June in the Olympic games at Stockholm as a member of the American team, is one of the Hawaiian Islands' best surf riders. Those who have watched the big islanders shooting along on the crest of a big comber have seen a sight never to be forgotten.

Surf boarding is an ancient Hawaiian sport and one which is accomplished nowhere else in the world with the perfection of the Hawaiians. It has been tried in Australia and other places where there is good surf, but the conditions in Hawaii seem to be different, for it is there alone that the sport takes rank as an amusement of both whites and Hawaiians.

There are many expert surf board riders among the white population of Honolulu, but none of them can do the trick the way the Hawaiians accomplish it. The Outrigger club is an organization of young Americans at Waikiki who take to the surf like ducks and who are taught by Hawaiian instructors, of whom Kahanamoku is one, how to use the board. At first they try out near the shore in water waist deep and learn to stay on their treacherous boards riding the spent waves as they curl up on the sands, but with a little confidence they go out farther and get into the real sport.

Any afternoon when there is a good surf running half a dozen dusky shapes may be seen lying flat on long boards and paddling out toward where the blue tropic waves break in white froth over the coral reef a mile from shore. Soon they are but spots on the water, and then they can be seen only for a moment as they breast the combers to get on the outside, where they can make the race in.

Once the line of breakers is reached, they lie in wait for a big one, and as it comes roaring in they paddle ahead as fast as possible to get speed enough so that the wave will pick them up. If they have a good start the comber takes them along on its inner edge, with the white spume curling up behind, and at the speed of an express train they race for the shore.

As soon as they are well started these Hawaiian experts stand erect on the slippery board and do other aerobatic stunts.

CARMODY INSISTS SICKLES IS GUILTY

Misdirected Sympathy For Veteran Won't Avail.

WRITES MRS. LONGSTREET

Refers to "Noble Wife and Loyal Son" Standing Ready to Make Good Shortage if They Are Permitted to Return Home.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 30.—In a letter to Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet, the widow of the famous Confederate general, Attorney General Carmody made it plain that the sympathetic appeals which have been made in behalf of General Sickles will not interfere with the state's case or the efforts of the attorney general to prosecute the aged general until the general has made good the $23,476 deficit in the funds of the state monuments commission, of which he was chairman.

"New York state appreciates her heroes," the letter of Attorney General Carmody says, "and feels humiliated at the spectacle which this case presents. New York state also respects her laws and seeks to enforce them in a spirit of equality to all.

"The act is still less justifiable because of the unfortunate domestic complications which have been forced to public attention because of this case. A noble wife and loyal son stand ready to pay the deficit, conditioned only on his permitting his wife to return to his home and to maintain that home in decency and honor.

Relates Sickles' Acts.

"Your sympathetic and patriotic expressions do justice to your heart, but they do violence to the facts in this case. General Sickles is being prosecuted by the state of New York for converting to his own use the sum of $23,476. This money came into his hands as chairman of the state monuments commission, to be used, among other purposes, for the erection of monuments to mark the resting places on the field of Gettysburg of the brave soldiers who fell in defense of their country and to provide for a celebration upon the field of Gettysburg in which those living might participate at the state's expense in a fitting manner.

"General Sickles appropriated this amount to his own uses. This he has not attempted to deny or to defend, admitting that he took the state's money for private use without authority of law, an act which under our laws and under the laws of all civilized governments means stealing. He was given his own time to repay this amount, and that time was extended at his suggestion without any desire to embarrass him and with the full appreciation of the claim which he has upon this nation for the great services he rendered in the rebellion.

"These services cannot be overestimated, but even the fame of the soldier must not be used as a cloak or protection for the commission of crime, and it is nothing less than misdirected sympathy to undertake to so confuse the questions involved as to make any ordinary prosecution for a crime seem like persecution and to elevate as a martyr a person who confesses his dereliction."

Governor Sulzer has received from numerous veterans in the state requests that he prevent "the humiliation by incarceration" of General Sickles. No one has called for the $100 he offered to the Sickles fund, the governor said.

MRS. MACY HURT IN COAST.

Hurled From Course at Saranac Lake, and Sled Races Are Called Off.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Jan. 30.—An accident to Mrs. Alfred Macy at the Country club slide resulted in discontinuing all the coasting races which had been arranged in connection with the midwinter carnival here.

Mrs. Macy was tuning up a single sled preparatory to entering the races for ladies' singles when at high speed her sled ran off the course, and she was pitched several feet down the hill. She was picked up partially stunned, but soon recovered consciousness. She was found to have a severely wrenched back and a number of bruises, none of which is likely to prove serious, however.

The slide had been iced in preparation for the racing, but after Mrs. Macy's injury it was pronounced too fast for safety, and the races were called off.

The DAY of the STAGE CROOK

THERE is nothing in the world that exhilarates one's system more and costs less than a good hearty laugh. A bunch of giggles wiggling through one's anatomy tones it up and makes the red corpuscles chase one another with greater rapidity, thereby creating a fine, hearty glow; hence the reason for the expression, "Laugh and grow fat." The whole world loves to laugh, but America, most favored of all countries, leads the laughing bunch, for the reason that its people have a keener sense of humor.

Theatrical managers have always contended that laughs are golden, and if this is so Messrs. Cohan & Harris have uncovered a veritable mine of nuggets in their new farce, "Stop Thief," now running in New York. The authority for this assertion comes from the pen of that erudite reviewer of things theatrical, Mr. Alan Dale. Listen to the tale of the great Mr. Dale:

"I've a dreadful confession to make—really an awful one. I'd got it all mapped out that I was going to write a very persuasive and impressive effusion on the subject to 'Stop Thief' at the Gaiety theater. This was my idea: You know that Roman Catholic gentlemen have started talk about a censorship of the stage, and, as usual, the only plays they find to 'cense' are those dealing with sex. According to all censors, there is only one brand of immorality—that appertaining to sex. Yet it has been shown that plays glorifying crime—of the 'Raffles' type—have done more injury than all the 'Anatols' ever staged. (Pardon me a moment. I'm just pretending. I'm not going on in this strain). So when I saw 'Stop Thief,' in which a professional crook and an equally professional crook-ess furnish all the fun of the entertainment and at its close live happily ever after (just as the crooks did in 'Get Rich Quick Wallingford'), I 'purposed' an article that would bring me in grateful thanks from 'Constant Reader,' 'Your Admirer,' 'The Mother of Eight'—in fact, from all my tried and trusted friends.

"And I'm furious because I can't write it. When the curtain rose upon 'Stop Thief' I was feeling a bit gloomy, as people do after receiving Christmas presents, don't you know. Life was a trifle heavy and so on. Then I began to make moral notes. Five minutes later I broke into a smile. Five minutes after that I laughed. Then—the worst happened, and in my own eyes I was disgraced. I howled with mirth. Not in years have I suffered such a mirth convulsion. The tears rolled down my cheeks. I shook till I hurt! I made the most awful picture of a critic my enemies would wish to see. Where was my judgment? Where my unemotional stolidity? Where my acumen? Where that perfectly gorgeous plan of writing a luminously moralistic review of a play that joked with crime?

"No matter. The man who laughs is lost, but it is a lovely sensation. I am bound to say that 'Stop Thief' toned me up. It made the outlook brighter; also remember, the man who has once wholly and irretrievably laughed cannot be very evil! So I console myself. I must be saint, for 'Stop Thief' got me and kept me merry. It will do the same for you; also for all moralists, all altruists and every censor.

"Talk of your detectives as seen in 'The Argyle Case' and indorsed by Detective Burns! Go and see the fat Rhode Island detective of whom they all make a monkey and who has his $600 watch 'pinched' before he has been with the crooks for ten minutes. Here is some faint skeletonic idea of the story: A wedding is about to take place at the Carr residence in Providence, R. I. The house is full of wedding presents—silver, jewelry and handsome appointments. Mrs. Carr has engaged a new lady's maid, who arrives on the day of the wedding. Nell is a first class crook, operating with Jack Doogan, another of her ilk. Before she has been in the house five minutes she has started on the wedding presents.

"Old man Carr is a very absentminded, distracted party, who believes himself to be a kleptomaniac. The bridegroom had a kleptomaniacal uncle and by dint of brooding over the legends of heredity he 'kind of' fancies that he, too, has got it. The man crook profits by this and, inserting occasional thefts into the two men's pockets, disarms suspicion from himself. When they call up police headquarters for a plain clothes man the he crook poses as that person.

"All the ladies in the house ingenuously give the crook a list of all their valuables, with the keys to the boxes that contain them. It is a cinch for the crooks. They work for all they are worth. They bamboozle the detective (not a 'Never Sleep Kayton'), and they remove all suspicion from themselves. At one time each person in the Carr house suspects the other. Everybody is a suspect. The complications are so clever and so unusual that never once for a moment does the fun flag. It is plausibly unplausible, it is improbably probable, and—you sit back and revel.

"As a farce 'Stop Thief' is the best thing of its kind that has been offered in season. It has 'Officer 666' lashed to the mast. In fact, 'Officer 666' is a tragedy compared with 'Stop Thief.' It is short and very fast. It all takes place at one time. The curtain falls, but rises on the 'next minute,' and the intervals are short. It is a masterpiece of farcical construction, and, oddly enough, its end is as funny as its beginning. The minister in the house (also a suspect for 'Stop Thief' is a trifle irreverent) joins in wedlock not only the bride and bridegroom, but the thief and the thief-ess, who promise to turn over a new leaf.

"But it is not possible to set down 'Stop Thief' in cold blood. It is not for analysis or to reason why. It even seems silly to say that it is clever, because the 'masses' won't mind as long as they laugh, and the only immunities from laughter would be the deaf.

"'Stop Thief' is a wholesale laughter factory. In fact, it's quite irresistible."

"If you are bound to be an actor," says George M. Cohan, "don't, I prithee, join a dramatic school. Join the army first and learn the right foot from the left and how to mark time. Then if the dramatic spark is still sputtering annex yourself to some good stock company and get your rope around the ethics of the stage in the rigid routine demanded in that branch of histrionic endeavor. Better still, hitch on to a grass belt troupe that plays seven towns a week and two performances a day with a change of bill at every one of them. The rules laid down by the fly by night folks may not be as altogether exacting as the stock company, but it's a 100 to 1 shot and a cinch bet to boot that after you have toured umpteen hundred and umpty-three 'high grass burgs' you will be able to distinguish R. U. E. from the ladder that leads to the electric switchboard, or you will forever have lost your desire for the nomadic life of the thespian."

George M. Cohan's newest play, "Broadway Jones," has proved the absolute hit of the New York season at the George M. Cohan theater. This latest offering from the pen of the gifted Mr. Cohan is one of the most entertaining plays he has written down to date. It is a comedy devoid of slang as that vernacular is popularly defined, yet it contains enough smart and breezy chatter to keep the four acts in which it is written whizzing along at a speed pace that keeps it abreast of the stride that Cohan sets for all his brain children, and in this case perhaps a stride or two ahead.

The play starts at high speed after a very brief scene that simply serves to show "Broadway" Jones, the hero of the work, is some sport.

The development of the play is accomplished at high tension, and the story is told in the rapid fire manner that characterizes all of George M. Cohan's plays.

Cohan and Harris, having concluded that the Augustin McHugh melodramatic farce "Officer 666," after making good on two continents, is worthy of a tryout at least in other parts of this world of ours, are now arranging for its presentation in Australia and Japan. Already the play has been translated into French, and it will be done in Paris shortly. The German version also is ready.

CLAIMS WILSON SINGLE TERMER

Heckled by Dixon, Martine in Senate Puts President-elect on Record.

IN PARTY PLATFORM

Progressive Party's National Chairman and Senior Senator From Jersey Get Into Argument As to Position of Latter's Party.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Senator James E. Martine in the course of a debate in the senate stated that Governor Wilson had publicly avowed his approval of the single term for president.

The statement aroused the greatest interest. The Democratic senators, especially Governor Wilson's close friends, appeared for the moment to be in a panic. Hurried conferences were called and Senator O'Gorman of New York rapidly crossed over to the Republican side, where Senator Martine's fervor in the debate had carried him, and engaged the New Jersey senator in quiet conversation. Senator O'Gorman's attitude appeared to be one of admonition.

The senator from New Jersey was put into action by Senator Dixon, the Progressive leader. Dixon was addressing the senate in opposition to the resolution of Senator Works of California, limiting the president to one term of six years and making him ineligible for re-election. He had declared that the people were not demanding the limitation on the presidential tenure. The Progressive leader proposed an amendment limiting senators to one term, suggesting as he did so that "sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander."

To Let Wilson Out.

He said he would offer another amendment in the nature of a proviso that the limitation should not apply to Woodrow Wilson. The Democrats seemed much disturbed over the prospect of having to vote on an amendment exempting Governor Wilson from the single six year limitation up or down. It was at this point that Mr. Martine blurted out

"The senator from Montana may maintain his soul in peace so far as Woodrow Wilson is concerned. He has repeatedly given public expression to his approval of the wisdom of the single term."

A commotion among the Democrats followed, and there were half a dozen whispered conferences.

As Governor Wilson has avoided expressions on this subject during the campaign, the Democrats realized Mr. Martine had blundered.

Senator Dixon seemed disposed to pursue the matter. He demanded to know upon what authority Senator Martine took Governor Wilson out of the race for re-election. Coached by Lodge, Senator Dixon continued to pursue the New Jersey senator. He inquired when and where Governor Wilson had said it; whether it was before or since his nomination.

"It was before his nomination," said Mr. Martine. The New Jersey senator intimated that it was a long time ago.

A Blunder, Democrats Think.

"The senator from New Jersey must concede," said Senator Dixon, "that Woodrow Wilson has given expression to many views that he does not entertain now since he has become more experienced in politics."

"Woodrow Wilson doesn't shift over night," retorted Mr. Martine. "He is stable. You can rest assured that his views on the wisdom of the Democratic platform declaration in favor of a single term have not changed."

"Does the senator know who is the author of that plank in the Baltimore platform?" inquired Mr. Dixon.

Senator Martine observed that "it was probably the product of many minds."

Meanwhile Democratic senators were seeking to "dag" the senator from New Jersey, and signals of distress were run up from the Democratic side every time Senator Martine made a new statement connecting the president elect with any definite policy in the matter.

The senate went on record overwhelmingly against the recall of presidents at biennial elections, but did not reach a vote on the main proposition.

LOCAL CYCLIST IS READY TO RETURN

After Nine Days of Pushing the Pedals George Adams Longs for Plainfield.

Tired of his cycling travels and far from home, George Adams, of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, is now making preparations at Jacksonville, Florida, to return as quickly as possible to the Queen City of the East, which he says in a letter is good enough for him after traveling for nine days by pedal. During this time he has averaged forty-one miles per day and has covered a total distance of 369 miles on his mount. In order to make the trip seem less monotonous and see as much of the country as possible at the same time Adams took an 800 mile railroad trip and a sail of 150 miles in the sunny South.

Mr. Adams has had some thrilling experience to record on every one of the nine days of his trip and has some narrow escapes from death or serious injury. In one instance, while crossing a railroad trestle which towered over a stretch of marsh land, he narrowly missed being struck by a train traveling at a sixty-mile an hour clip. He says the South is a beautiful country and he has enjoyed his trip immensely.

SEVEN YEARS HENCE YOU MAY GET AN "INVITE"

When Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., was approached by a timid reporter this morning as to whether he would prefer to continue in his present office or become corporation counsel of Plainfield, the popular lawyer was busily engaged in study. It was not a law book, but a treatise on terrapin culture he was perusing.

On the table before the barrister was a tiny terrapin. It had been received by parcels post some hours before. The donor was Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, who is enjoying a much needed vacation in Georgia.

"Ad," as he is familiarly known to his friends, had also sent a letter in which he said, "It takes about seven years for one of these animals to reach manhood About that time you should be attorney general of the State and of course would have to give a feast. This is why I send the menu."

Harvester Company Head Calls 'em 7 Business Commandments.

APPROVES WILSON BILL

Wealthy Manufacturer Compares the Plans of Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson, Respectfully, to Prevent Monopoies.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who has just been elected president of the new $70,000,000 International Harvester Corporation, formed under the laws of New Jersey to take over all the foreign properties of the International Harvester Company, told a reporter yesterday that Governor Wilson's seven trust bills would have his heartiest support. He called them the seven Business Commandments rather than the "seven sisters" as Governor Wilson has referred to them.

Mr. Saunders referred severely to President Taft's manner of dealing with big business abuses; at the same time rejecting as harmful and impracticable the remedies offered by Colonel Roosevelt. For Governor Wilson's plan he had nothing but warm commendation, asserting that he was as strongly opposed as Governor Wilson to holding companies which were capable of and did do great business wrong.

"A careful study of the seven bills now before the New Jersey Legislature," said Mr. Saunders, "will convince any impartial person that they have been framed in the interests of the people as a whole and with due regard for the safety and integrity of business. It is evident that much earnest thought has been given in an effort to heal, or, at least ameliorate, a difficult situation without disturbing business interests. The motive behind these bills are plainly high, and no one having a true interest of the business prosperity of this country at heart can denounce them. On the contrary they should be sup-

As a method of raising funds to meet current expenses, the Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, at its annual birthday party last night, presented each member of the congregation present with a small sack in which one was requested to place a penny for every year of his age. The program included solos by George Ball, who was accompanied on the piano by his wife; solos by Miss Elizabeth Forster and Joseph Gilbert, and recitations by Miss Constance Durrant and Richard Borden. WARREN TWP. WOULD ORGANIZE A GRANGE

Farmers and Near Farmers to Form Combine for Mutual Protection.

More than forty farmers of Warren township met at the Mt. Bethel Hotel last night to take steps towards forming a township grange. All were enthusiastic over the proposition and it is predicted that the grange will be one of the strongest in the State. A temporary organization was effected by electing William Horton, chairman, and William Freiberg, secretary.

Addresses were made by former Sheriff Edward E. Cooper and William Hoppheimer and others present, along the line of the advantages to be gained by organizing a grange. It was explained that members would be able to buy their feed, farming implements, etc., at wholesale prices and be able to dispose of their products in the best markets. An additional advantage is to be found in the social features.

It was announced that at the next meeting to be held soon when a permanent organization will be effected, there will be present officers of the State grange who will explain in detail the objects and workings of a grange. It was stated last night that the Monmouth County Grange disposed of a million and a half dollars worth of produce last year.

COUNCIL TO FEEL PUBLIC'S PULSE

MEMBERS ARE SILENT

City Fathers to Pass On All Applications on Monday Night, February 10, at the Council Chambers.

For the purpose of carefully investigating the various liquor license applications, as well as the many protests against increasing the number of licensed places, granting any renewals or changing the "Tyler Saloon Zone," the Councilmanic license committee and their colleagues conferred last night. In response to several requests, the councilmen decided to hold a public hearing at the Plainfield High School on Friday night, February 7, and Monday night, February 10, was fixed as the time when the Council will act on the license applications.

During the two hours spent at the conference here was no attempt to get an expression of opinion from any of the members. It is known, however, that there is sentiment for allowing excise conditions to remain as they are at present, while some of the members are said to favor granting an additional license or two. The majority of the members are adverse to expressing an opinion at this time, preferring to wait until they have heard all the arguments pro and con.

One thing that appears to argue strongly in favor of present conditions is that the people generally seem to be satisfied. The majority of the protests received, it is said, show that is the sentiment.

Notwithstanding the large number of protests received, it is known that strong pressure is being brought to bear to have the Council grant additional licenses and the applicants are leaving no stones unturned in doing all that they can to secure favorable action.

It has been said that it would do no good to change the license zone this year, as no new applications could be granted. This is a mistake. The Council has the right to grant licenses for any part of a year. There appears to be no reason to expect that this would be done.

Among the applications this year are two for a wholesale license and a new one for a saloon. One of the wholesale applicants, Thomas Traynor, wants a license for a store on Somerset street, near the dividing line between the city and borough. Many arguments have been offered in an effort to show that a licensed place there would not be for the best interest of either city or borough.

The other two new applicants want to locate on North avenue, one being George Alcorn, who wants a saloon license and Morris Latzko who wants a wholesale license. In addition to these Christian Gloekler and Alexander Findlay are asking for renewals, beside the regular applicants who now hold licenses.

The members of the Mt. Olive Baptist church have made a strong protest against the renewal of the license for Clark's saloon at West Third and Liberty streets, on the ground that it is within 200 feet of a church. Affidavits have been presented showing this statement to be true, but whether the Council will refuse this application is not known at present.

At the public hearing on February 7, the liquor interests, or at least some of the applicants will be represented by counsel, who will address the members of the Council and others present. There will also be able speakers to present the cause of the protestants.

Christian Gloekler has presented to the license committee a sketch of a proposed new three-story building to be erected at West Front and Somerset streets. According to the plans the saloon would be located on the rear of the lot, with the entrance off of Somerset street. Provision is made for stores on the corner. Mr. Gloekler proposes to erect such a building provided he is granted a license.

WOMAN ACCUSES HIM OF BIGAMY

Deserted Wife Finds Husband In Bayonne.

HAD TO WORK FOR LIVING

Wife No. 1 Says "In Order to Keep Roof Over Her's and Children's Head She and Oldest Son Had Gone to Business."

Bayonne, N. J., Jan. 31.—Mrs. Mary Gelabert, accompanied by her three children, boys of fifteen and seventeen and a girl of eight, left her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., and came here to press a charge of bigamy against John Gelabert, father of her children, whom she accuses of bigamy.

Gelabert, forty-one years old, who has built up a good business here as a photographer, did not so much as glance at his wife and children when he was arraigned before Recorder Mara.

Mrs. Margaret Agnew Gelabert, who says she was married to Gelabert a year ago next month and has been living with him as his wife at 13 Willow street, this city, was in court.

Mrs. Gelabert No. 1, thirty-five years old, told the recorder she married Gelabert May 4, 1892, the Rev. C. C. Meadow of Washington, D. C., performing the ceremony. She said that last March Gelabert deserted her and the children and had never let her know where he was or contributed to her support in any way.

To keep a roof over her and the children's head, Mrs. Gelabert said, she and her oldest son had gone to work.

"A few days ago," she continued, "I was looking for employment and met an old man who was looking for the same place. He told me a man named Gelabert had recommended him for the job. I questioned him and learned that this Gelabert lived in Bayonne. That night, accompanied by my two sons, I went to Bayonne and called at the Willow street house.

"There I met the woman my husband had deceived into marrying him. She insisted she was the lawful wife of John Gelabert, and to prove it showed me her marriage certificate.

"The young woman who believed herself the wife of my husband begged me to leave the house before John came. This my sons and I refused to do. We said we would remain until John came. When he did come I denounced him, and then I went to the police and swore out a warrant charging him with bigamy.

"Now I propose to prosecute John to the limit of the law. I don't know what Margaret Agnew thinks about it or whether she will join in the prosecution or not. She seems to be a good woman and very fond of my husband."

RETRACES HIS PATH TO FAME

Attorney Shows Clubmates Walk He Took Forty-eight Years Ago.

Newton, N. J., Jan. 31.—For the past ten years Charles M. Woodruff yearly has marked the day he left Sparta to go to Newton and study law by walking back over the route he took on that fateful day. He is now practicing in this place.

Recently was the forty-eighth anniversary, and the march was made by the Ramblers' club, friends of Mr. Woodruff, who have gone over the ground with him on other occasions. They took it by easy stages, winding up at the Glenside hotel, where they had a dinner.

On the way the host pointed out the wells from which he drank on his first journey and the farmhouses where the dogs did their best to discourage his entrance into a wide, wide world.

HE'D DISPOSSESS OWN WIFE.

Jersey Man Says She and Children Are Quarrelsome Tenants.

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 31.—Frank Jager, seventy years old, of this city began dispossess proceedings in the North Hudson district court in an effort to oust his wife and three children, who live in the same house with him, but on another floor. He alleges that they are "disorderly, noisy and quarrelsome" and that they quarrel with and abuse other tenants.

Mrs. Jager, having paid her rent up to the 1st of February, ignored the three days' notice to move when it was served on her a few days ago by a constable. She occupies five rooms on the second floor and pays $16 a month rent.

PRISONER WALKED OUT.

Sheriff Let Twelve Visitors In Jail and Saw Thirteen Leave.

Belvidere, N. J., Jan. 31.—A prisoner who walked out of the Warren county jail under the nose of Sheriff Henderson has not yet been captured. He is Anthony O'Donnell of Allentown, Pa., accused of having broken into New Jersey Central freight cars at Phillipsburg and stolen merchandise.

The sheriff admitted twelve visitors to the jail. He did not know O'Donnell was there. At closing hour thirteen persons started to leave the jail. The sheriff supposed the thirteen had been admitted by the undersheriff. At time to lock prisoners in their cells it was found that O'Donnell was missing.

ported, and if any errors can be pointed out the business men of the country should co-operate with those who are now striving to meet this difficult situation.

"Can any one deny that something must be done, that the present situation is indefinite, and because it is indefinite it is harmful to business interests? No permanent prosperity can exist until the laws on this subject are made plain. Uncertainty is a constant handicap to business. Furthermore, no one can deny that abuses under the present laws have been flagrant.

"Three distinct plans are before us, each one having for its champion one who either is, has been, or is to be, President of the United States. In the first place, there is the Taft plan, which we all know all about, because through his Department of Justice he has been playing the executioner during the last four years. The Taft plan takes the Sherman law on its face and uses it as a club to destroy without in any way building up. It is a brutal policy at best, because it disregards precedent and the generally accepted interpretation of what was right and wrong in the past.

"Next we have the Roosevelt plan of control by commission. When any one criticises this plan the distinguished ex-President refers to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, and asks why the same control should not be applied to corporations. That the Inter-State Commerce Commission is a good thing is generally admitted. Its control over railroads will probably prevent a repetition of things done by Jay Gould, Jim Keene, and Harriman. It has prevented, probably permanently, the iniquitous rebate system, but the supervision and control of railroads by the Government is quite a different thing from the exercise of such control over manufacturing and other corporations. Railroads are public carriers, they are public service corporations, and as such they enjoy special privileges which should subject them to public control. Railroads are not in the same position with reference to competitors that manufacturers are. It will do no harm, for instance, if the Pennsylvania Railroad's figures of costs per car mile for freight are known to the New York Central officials.

"The third plan is that fathered by Governor Wilson in those bills which he calls the Seven Little Sisters. I call them the Seven Commandments, because the intent behind them is righteous and the spirit within them is just. Governor Wilson's plan is to encourage individual liberty of action, to separate Government control from corporations, but to lay down certain well-defined laws for the future. He lets the past be the past. The bills are not in any way retroactive—he does not disturb what has been built up on the lines of past experience, recognizing that there is much good in the midst of some evil, but that the good has probably predominated. The most important one of these seven commandments is No 56, which prohibits future holding companies.

"The proposed New Jersey statute makes it unlawful for one corporation to purchase the securities of another competing corporation, though this law has recently been amended so that the surplus may be invested in securities of a non-competing concern. There is no effort made in any of these bills to interfere with business progress and prosperity. An individual either alone or through his corporation is free to develop his business, in his own way, and make it as big as he likes so long as it grows on lines of efficiency or economy and not through absorption, acquisition, or destruction of its competitors. This system is really the very opposite of the Roosevelt commission system."

BIG CHARITY MEETING AT P. H. S. AUDITORIUM

Those in charge of the twelfth annual meeting of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction to be held in this city for three days, commencing Sunday, want it known that all of the sessions are to be held at the Plainfield High School Auditorium. Hogan will offer prayer, Mayor Percy H. Stewart will give an address of welcome, with a response and the president's address by Dr. Frank Moore, and an address by Joseph P. Byers, commissioner of charities, of Trenton. Two union services have been arranged for Sunday evening, one at the First Baptist church and the other at the Crescent Avenue church.

The conference will continue Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, the topic being "Jails, Almshouses and Inebriety," with Henry L. DeForest, of this city, presiding. Monday afternoon the topic will be "Mental Hygiene and Prostitution." Dr. Henry A. Cotton, of the State Hospital, Trenton, will preside. "Prisons and Reformatories" will be the topic of the meeting Monday night. Seymour L. Cromwell, president of the State Charities Aid and Prison Reform Association, will preside.

"Feeblemindedness, Eugenics and the Blind" will be the topic for Tuesday morning's session, and Professor E. R. Johnstone, of the New Jersey State Traning School, Vineland, will be the chairman. STYLE AND SR RELIABILITY

The Autobiography of A Suit of Clothes

I am an all wool suit of clothes. I was born three months ago in a "clothing incubator." My first recollection was of a man standing over me with a big pair of scissors in his hands. "Who are you?" I askt. "I'm the man who made you," said he. "What are you going to do with me?" "I'm going to send you out in the world with your brothers." "Brothers?" I inquired? "Have I brothers?" "Sure you have, a hundred of them" "Are they all like me?" "Yes, all like you," the man replied "only some are bigger than others."

So about ten of us were sent to Rothberg's Clothes Shop and a $17.50 tag was put on me. That made me "hot." I went right up to the boss and said, "See here, what do you mean by selling me for $17.50? I want you to know I'm not that kind of a suit! There are stores right here in Plainfield selling my brothers for $25, and they're not a bit different than I am."

But there was no use pleading. The boss was stubborn. I'm to be sold for $17.50. I hope that I'll get an owner that will appreciate a good $25 suit for $17.50. Would you?

ANTHRACITE SUPPLY WILL MEET ALL NEEDS

Steady operation of the mines and unusually mild weather have made it practically certain now that the hard coal supply will be ample to meet all needs this Winter and Spring. The high temperatures of the last two months have gone far to offset the effects upon the coal supply of the severe weather and the seven weeks' suspension of last Spring.

The large companies have adhered strictly to the circular price, and whatever coal has been sold by producers at a premium has been that produced by individual operations.

On account of strikes and special holidays—feast days, etc—which the mine workers have celebrated, the production has not been as heavy as it would have been if the whole labor force had kept steadily at work. The agreement between the mine workers and the operators provides that all grievances be settled by negotiation between the officials and the men, or, that failing, by the Conciliation Board; but in the case of most of the recent strikes the men quit work without attempting a peaceful settlement.

PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 31.—A committee composed of members of the legislature and representatives of the Democratic State Committee met today and agreed upon measures of progressive legislation that will be urged upon the legislature now in session for consideration and enactment. The measures are six in number. They call for a corrupt practices act, the stricter regulation of public utilities, a State-wide primary, elimination of the evils of the ballot laws, woman and child labor, and employers' liability and workingmen's compensation.

Walter Droll, formerly of this city, who was called home from Birmingham, Ala., because of the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Frank Droll, of West Front street, left Wednesday for Carson City, Nev., where he will be located in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberlain have removed from West Fourth street, near Lee place, to West Third street, opposite Muhlenberg place.

THE SEVEN SISTERS.

The people of New Jersey, without regard to party, have been greatly gratified at the course which Governor Wilson took in selecting Chancellor Walker and former Justice Van Syckle to draw the laws to amend our Corporation Act, and which are called, because of their number, the Seven Sisters. These proposed acts are the first efficient attempt to correct the radical features of the New Jersey Corporation law, and if they are enacted, they will do so effectively.

New Jersey has been called the "Mother of Trusts." This is because so many companies are incorporated in our State. Many people have misunderstood the State on this account. We have been maligned and unduly criticised for this, but most of this criticism has been unjust. Our laws are not bad. Other States are worse. It is true we have derived a large revenue from this source, but the corporations have received value for everything they have paid the State. Public sentiment a few years ago was not what it is now, and hence the legislation of our State was not considered then as now.

The bills now pending before the Legislature have been admirably drawn. They have the support of Governor Wilson. They are what might be called constructive statesmanship. The Governor is to be congratulated upon his work. The Legislature will answer the demand of public sentiment if it shall speedily enact them into law. No attempt should be made to defeat them on partisan grounds.

With these bills part of the Corporation Act, New Jersey will then have the safest act of any State in the Union, and we will not lose our corporation business, for the reason that all over the country there is confidence in our courts and in the stability of our laws; and investors and business men care more for that than anything else. The State derives a revenue of two million seven hundred thousand dollars per year from this class of Corporation Tax. It should do nothing to drive this away, and yet it should do everything to strengthen our Corporation laws in the public estimation and for the protection of stockholders and bondholders holding securities of New Jersey corporations under our laws.

With the passage of these seven acts, New Jersey will demonstrate that she is able to meet a grave crisis in her corporate legislation in a conservative, safe and satisfactory way.

BIG BUSINESS VIEWPOINT.

In our news columns today we publish the more important parts of a remarkable interview given by William L. Saunders to a New York Times reporter on Governor Wilson's anti-trust bills. We say it is remarkable because it expresses the opinion of a representative of Big Business and can be viewed as the attitude of a giant corporation towards the most progressive and radical legislation proposed in the country's history. To the people at large Mr. Saunders' statements will appear to be most surprising but to those of us who know the author it will all be taken as the characteristic and sincere utterances of a really big captain of industry.

The New York World, the unrelenting enemy of the trusts and all combinations that are vicious, applauds our distinguished fellow-townsman for his vigorous support of the Wilson doctrine. "The most notable utterance on behalf of Big Business in many a day," says the World, "is that of William L. Saunders, President of the new International Harvester Company. He accepts the New Jersey Anti-Trust bills prepared under the supervision of Governor Wilson as "the seven commandments" of industry, commerce and finance. He not only accepts them but approves of them. He believes that the principles which they embody will bring peace, justice and prosperity to the people.

"An expression of this kind from such a source would be of the first importance in any case, but it gains impressiveness from the fact that it is seemingly in direct response to Gov. Wilson's recent appeal to business men for co-operation. So far as we are informed, it is the first reply."

Because of the situation in Hudson county, where the new prosecutor, Robert S. Hudspeth is anxious to reward some of his friends, report has it that an attempt will be made to induce the Legislature to repeal that part of the Civil Service law protecting assistant prosecutors. This would affect Union ocunty for should such a measure become a law the efficient assistant prosecutor, Walter L. Hetfield, would be ousted. But there is not the slightest danger, for the people of this enlightened and freed State would not permit any tampering with one of the most progressive bits of legislation on its statute books.

NEW YORK CITY CAN'T BORROW $155,000,000 FOR SUBWAYS

New York, Jan. 31.—The total borrowing capacity of the city for building subway, etc., for the present is $155,000,000, according to a decision handed down this afternoon by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

The court permits the city to apply approximately $70,000,000 which was to set aside for the purposes of purchasing dock bonds for use for the purpose of building new subways.

IS NEW DANCE HALL BILL UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The bill introduced in the Legislature Monday placing the regulation of all dance halls, bowling alleys and poolrooms, under the jurisdiction of the Board of Freeholders is clearly unconstitutional, authorities who have read the proposed law claim. It gives the freeholders power to interfere with affairs within a municipality, they declare, and under the law this is not the province of a county board.

The bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Colgate, and in the Assembly by Assemblyman Matthews. If it were amended so that the municipalities themselves were ordered to regulate dance halls, bowling alleys and poolrooms, then it would stand the test in court, it is believed. Regardless of the action of the Legislature, however, poolrooms and bowling alleys may be regulated by the Council.

Another measure has been introduced in the Assembly granting municipalities the right to license and regulate dance halls. The following description from this latter bill is interesting. It is as follows:

"Any room, place or space in which dancing is carried on and to which admission can be had by payment of a fee, or by the purchase, possession or presentation of a ticket or token, or in which a charge is made for caring for clothing or other property, or any room, place or space located upon premises which are licensed to sell liquors other than a hotel having upwards of fifty bedrooms, in which dancing is carried on, and to which the public may gain admission, either with or without payment of fee. But the word 'dancing,' as used in this act, shall not apply to exhibitions or performances, in which the persons paying for admission do not participate."

CHURCH-GOING HABIT AS A CIVIC DUTY

Church going is a habit. It is a very simple and easy habit to acquire, but it is just as easy to neglect it. Altogether we think it is a very good habit. There are men who try to convince themselves that it is not. They argue that they can be just as good without going to Church. Any Christian will admit that there are plenty of high principled, noble, honest and useful citizens outside the Churches. But any unprejudiced critic ought to be equally ready to admit that in a general round up the Church-goers out-rank and out-shine the non-church-goers as all round citizens. Judge for yourself. Church-goers represent all classes in the community, does not your experience prove that those who make a habit of attending some place of worship are a little more worthy of your confidence than men who hold proudly aloof from practises of religion? Compare the relative influence of the religious and non-religious man in polities, in the shop, in the law courts, anywhere at all. Are you not obliged to confess that the religious man has "something on" the non-religious man,—not always but as a rule? Look at the home. Is the home more happy, more restful, more wholesome where Sunday is spent with the funny sheets of the weekly paper, with the gossip of neighbors, and an occasional drink to pass the tedium of the day? Is it true that a "man can be just as good without going to Church?" Is your home as good and your city as pleasant a place without the Churches? Last week a certain clergyman in New England advanced the idea that he would like to try the experiment of a perfectly "open" Sunday. He would like to have all the Churches closed for a time. How would you like to see the trial made? If the religious work in Plainfield were to stop tomorrow every man in the city knows what he ought to expect in a year's time. You could not get six votes in the community for such a measure. Why? Because our religious institutions are the great moral engines of the community. The most flippant man would sooner conform to the Christian ideal than become the subject of blind uncontrolled license. Then why not follow the logic of the matter? If the Church is good for you, a protection to the home, a benefit to the city, why not give your sympathy and your help to the Church? How much better off the Church would be to have the help and co-operation of those honest, sober, and high-minded outsiders, who are now leaving her on the side lines of their interest. Why not choose a Church, and form the habit? There is a whole lot in Church going that will interest as well as help you; only you don't know it. There is more rest and repose from the wear and tear of the week to be gotten out of an hour at Church on Sunday morning than in any other way. It is a complete change of environment which certainly lifts a man above the grinding commonplace of ordinary experience. The atmosphere is one of hope and encouragement. The music is cheering, and if a man can't get something out of most sermons it will be time for him to quit.

There are as attractive Churches and as sensible helpful preachers in Plainfield as in any community of its size in the country. You can help and be helped, if not satisfied in any one of them. They all need your particular presence and encouragement. It will pay you to get your map, locate the Church nearest your home, or the one closest to your heart, and form the habit of Church going. You will not miss the time, and you will never regret the step.

NO HOPE FOR ANY G. O. P. LEGISLATION IN CONGRESS

Washington, Jan. 31.—An active Republican member of Congress says that there it little probability of any legislation that has been proposed by Republicans being enacted at the present session He states also that the degree of apprehension that might be expected to exist in Republican circles over the effect of the incoming of the new administration is not discernable in a marked degree. He is confident that Mr. Underwood will pursue his conservative policy as far as possible in the matter of tariff revision, and in his judgment this undertaking will not seriously degress or injure the business of the country as a whole.

'CHANGE TO CO-OPERATE WITH GOVERNOR SULZER

Albany, Jan. 31.—The members of the New York Stock Exchange Committee that is to confer with Governor Sulzer today arrived at the appointed time.

The Governor told them that something along reform lines as suggested in his message must be done or Congress will act.

Said the Governor: "I advocate home rule and State rights. I don't think the Federal Government should invade any of the State's affairs unless absolutely necessary for the country's welfare."

John G. Milburn, attorney for the Exchange, replied to the Governor, and said that the governors of the Exchange appreciated the attitude of Governor Sulzer. "We want especially to assure you," he said, "of the Stock Exchange's hearty co-operation to enact reform legislation."

PRESIDENT-ELECT SEES CURRENCY BILL DRAFT

Washington, Jan. 31.—It is understood here that Congressman Glass on his visit to Trenton yesterday showed the President-elect the outline of a new currency bill. Its terms are being strictly guarded for the present. Such a bill may be introduced at the extra session and discussed from time to time but no one expects action on it before next winter. It is thought more than likely, however, that Congress will pass early in the session an act continuing in force the $500,000,000 emergency currency provision as even the most bucolic members from the country districts realise the necessity of that asset against financial panics.

Which Begins Tomorrow, with Average Savings of One Dollar in Every Four

Colonial Walnut Bedroom Suite
Toilet Table, $28 from $35

To justify its existence nowadays, a February Furniture Sale must have distinguishing excellences.

The encouraging growth of these GIMBEL half-yearly events proves that the New York public, critical as it always is, has discovered their points of superiority.

They are not boomerang sales—in them there is no poor or unworthy Furniture to "come home to roost."

Every piece in this newest February Sale, which fills one acre-big floor solidly full, and overflows on to the floors above and below, has been as rigidly inspected, as though intended for our regular stock.

Character is the dominating quality in the whole collection.

Character which comes from careful making from sound, well-seasoned woods; from the beauty of simple and harmonious lines.

And so, in presenting THIS FEBRUARY FURNITURE OCCASION, we invite

The Most Careful COMPARISON By Experienced Furniture Buyers

1. We invite the most drastic scrutiny of the CONSTRUCTION of the Furniture offered.
2. We invite the judgment of cultured New Yorkers as to the STYLE-CORRECTNESS and GOOD TASTE of the patterns shown.
3. We invite the most careful analysis of the VALUES presented—compared with the best to be found elsewhere.

We shall expect to find continuing success only by SUPPLYING YOU WITH FURNITURE THAT YOU LIKE BETTER than can be found in other sales; or by SERVING YOU WITH FURNITURE OF UNQUESTIONED EXCELLENCE AT LOWER PRICE THAN YOU WOULD PAY FOR FURNITURE OF SUCH QUALITY ELSEWHERE. But chiefly we count on winning New York friends by supplying AT LOW FEBRUARY PRICES the MOST FASHIONABLE and MOST DESIRABLE FURNITURE, from THE BEST MAKERS IN THE CRAFT, rather than by offending their good taste by showing undesirable "odd lots" that factories might be glad to be rid of.

This February Sale is still based on the lower prices that ruled before January 1st. Since then, we have been served with notices from every manufacturer, of a rise in the price of his goods. But the Furniture in this Sale was all bought before this rise in price; and the savings are figured on the old prices, and not on the new.

Besides our special purchases, we have reduced prices from 10 to 50 per cent on all the Furniture in our regular stock. Making in all a collection of over half a million dollars' worth of superb Furniture, all of Gimbel quality, with an average saving of 25 per cent.

WHEN IN DOUBT PLAY TRUMPS, EH, SCOOP?

"MAC" SAYS

With the opening of the Interscholastic league series between Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon some real progress toward determining the 1913 title holder will be inaugurated. All of the previously played games have been mere formalities.

Wonder if monthly reports will have any effect on either lineup. Today is the last day in January but the school faculties may overlook this fact on account of tomorrow being Saturday. Aside from this every player on either team is in first class condition and some good basketball ought to be the issue.

Although all paths lead to the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon it will pay local basketball enthusiasts to retrace their steps to the same place in the evening when the Y. M. C. A. Ajax lineup against the Bound Brook High School quintet.

This will be the first appearance of the Bound Brookers on a local court this season and the outcome will be watched with interest.

Some real basketball teams ought to be engaged to put on the weekly attraction at the theatre. The independent aggregations that are lining up there now are doing more harm than good as far as advertising the popular indoor sport is concerned.

Frank Dunning will captain the 1913 baseball team at North Plainfield High School and Newton Spencer will be the game booker

Jack Martin has taken the Plainfield High School diamond candidates in hand and is holding regular practices in the school gym.

Coach Wardlow, of the Leal School baseball team, has secured the Company K armory for indoor practice and the numerous candidates are loosening up their wings at that place.

Instructor Brodziak, of the Scotch Plains Parish House, is taking entries for a bowling tournament to be held at that place some time during February. He wants to hear from all the local pin smashers.

The Nonpareil girls basketball team will hold a dance at Debele's Hall tonight If the affair is as big a success as their playing has been there ought to be something doing.

Somebody has asked us to ascertain who donated the medals for the Holy Cross football team to strive for in their race for the State Championship. We have never been able to find out, but possibly Manager Doyle will enlighten the questioner through these columns.

Hope chapel and First Presbyterian basketball teams will clash at Hope chapel tomorrow night. Both of these aggregations have scored a defeat over the Y. M. C. A. Ajax and the game ought to be a hummer

BOXING "CHAMPS."

Cleveland, O., Jan. 31.—Many of the highest class amateur boxers to be found in the middle West have gathered in this city to contest for honors in the Central A. A. U. boxing championships. The championships take place under the auspices of the Cleveland Athletic Club, beginning with the elimination contests tonight and concluding with the title events tomorrow night. Events have been arranged for all classes, from 105 pounds to the heavyweight division.

Those work seekers who expect to find a job through one publication of a want ad are sometimes disappointed—though not always.

RECORDS OF THE PLAINFIELD AND NORTH PLAINFIELD HIG H SCHOOL BOYS' TEAMS

Basketball Quintets Scheduled to Clash at the Y. M. C. A. in the Interscholastic League Series Tomorrow Afternoon Are Unusually Evenly Matched—Both Teams Have Reliable Scorers—Each Has Played Eleven Games to Date—Dunning Out of the Game.

Some real progress toward determining a 1913 interscholastic basketball champion will be started at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon when the Plainfield High School and North Plainfield High School teams meet in their first contest of the league series. Although two other contests have been decided in the league, both of the games turned out to be mere formalities as the Leal School aggregation, with which the games were played, is considered to be practically out of the running for the championship and either N. P. H. S. or P. H. S. will have to take home the cup. Some discussion was prevalent earlier in the season as to the court on which the games would be played but the respective managers have at last held a meeting and decided to stage the opening game at the Y M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon. As is always the case in games in which these two fives are the participants, a great deal of school spirit and good natured rivalry will probably be evidenced, as each has a large band of loyal cohorts who are anxious to have their favorites cop the title and all that goes with it It fell to the lot of the Boroughites to take the trophy last year and they very nearly had a walkover in accomplishing the trick, but things have shifted considerably this year and if a favorite were to be picked, those interested would likely find that the P. H. S. quintet was holding the bigger hand just at present.

Season's records, both individual and as teams, show that the local boys are in the van. N. P. H. S. has played and won more games than their rivals but the teams met by the players from this side of the brook have been of a higher calibre than the N. P. H. S. opponents and therefore their battles have been stiffer and ,on the whole, closer than those of the Boroughites. Out of eleven games player, North Plainfield has come home a victor in seven; while P H. S. has been victorious in six out of eleven. It is a peculiar coincidence that each of the teams has played eleven games to date and the fact that the twelfth will be a defeat for one and a victory for the other is of couse a certainty.

Both of the quintets started off the season rather disastrously but they have both buckled down now and have been chalking up victory after victory almost consecutively. N. P. H. S. has been resting up since its game with Kearny High School and Coach Webster has been putting the team through some stiff signal drills which the fellows say are enough to baffle any combination—P. H. S. included. Coach Wriston, of the local five, has been working on the same code of signals all season, and the P. H. S. players have perfected their team work and scoring to a superlative degree of efficiency The most dangerous men in the scoring department, as far as records show, appear to be Good, Woodhull, Heron, Taylor and Love. North Plainfield, of course, will be greatly handicapped by the loss of Frank Dunning, who is still suffering from an injury sustained in a recent scholastic game, as his playing has been a most valuable asset to his team in all of its games during the past two years. Any one of the Plainfield players can be counted on for a contribution of field goals in a pinch and the Borough guards will have their hands full taking care of their department.

The Y. M. C. A. court is more or less familiar to both of the teams and they will be on an even footing when they take the floor in the important contest. The P. H. S. team consists of at least three players who have been playing the game on the Y. M. C. A. floor for some time and their familiarity with the court should be a valuable asset to them in the game tomorrow. A summary of the individual and team records of the contestants is compiled below.

COLOR LEAGUE STANDING.

The official standing of the teams in the senior department Color League at the local Y. M. C. A. has just been issued by Physical Director Ostlin and is as follows: Orange, 688.9 points; Reds, 560.1 points; Whites, 543.6 points; Greens, 437.9 points.

WOMEN GOLFERS TO PLAY EARLY IN JUNE

Local Representatives Are Among the Delegates at the Annual Meeting.

Forty representatives from nearly two dozen clubs attended the annual meeting of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association yesterday at the home of the president, Mrs. M. D. Paterson, in New York. This is the largest representation the association has ever had. No opposition was made to the ticket selected by the nominating committee, with the result that Mrs. Paterson was chosen chief executive for the fourth time. The officers are as follows:

President, Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Baltusrol; vice president, Mrs. Francis E. Donohoe, Montclair; secretary, Mrs. Lawrence Swift, Englewood; treasurer, Miss Eleanor Whitney, Morris County. The other members of the executive committee are Mrs. W. D. Judson, Scarsdale; Mrs. W. I. Seaman, Richmond County, and Mrs. C. F. Uebelacker, Hackensack.

Plans were made for the annual championship of the association, and a communication was received from the Nassau Country Club, at Glen Cove, offering its course. It was decided to leave the matter to the executive committee. It was also decided to hold the championship later than usual, probably the first week in June, depending largely on the dates selected for the tournament of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, which is generally held in the second week of June, occupying three days and followed by the tri-city matches for the Griscom Cup.

The plan for the holding of several team matches was also adopted, combinations of fourteen or sixteen being desired from the Long Island, New Jersey and Westchester districts. These contests will not interfere with the regular schedule of medal play handicaps, which proved so popular last year. It is expected that the team matches will materially bolster up the strength of the metropolitan district in the tri-city matches in June over a Massachusetts course.

The Plainfield Country Club, of this city, was represented by Mrs. A. S. Avery and Mrs. H. R. Stockton, and Mrs. N. P. Rogers was the Baltusrol Club's delegate.

FISHING NOTES

Housewives evidently read this column, as many of them in purchasing flounders yesterday told the marketman that we said they were plentiful and fresh. A few roasts were handed out with some of the wrapped fish, but that doesn't hurt.

Several boat owners have said that they intend to look their boats over Sunday, and March 1 will find them in commission. There is very little chance of ice on the Passaic River in March, so an early start will make a long summer.

The New York State fish hatcheries turn out millions of small tomcods annually. The tommy is as readily hatched as the trout, and until they are caught or killed they will always hang around the place where they were liberated. This accounts for the great number of tomcods caught in the rivers and Staten Island Sound.

January passes away today and eight weeks from tomorrow will see the opening of the trout season. If our prognostications on the weather for February prove true the season should open in good shape, as what little cold weather we have had will not hurt any. Reports show that the legal-sized fish are more numerous than ever and that many yearlings or fingerlings will have attained six inches in length by that time.

Work on the inland waterway from Bay Head to Cape May is being carried on every day, and there is now a movement on foot along its route to have a connection made with the Raritan River. If South Jersey wants something it will happen, as they are past masters at getting appropriations from the Legislature. There are 682 farms along the route of this canal and every farmer realizes that if he could carry his produce to the markets of Newark, Jersey City and New York, to say nothing of the shore resorts, on his own bat, he could make money.

COLOR LEAGUERS PLAY BASKETBALL

Orange and Green Teams Are Victorious in League Battles.

Basketball was on the program for the Y. M. C. A. Color leaguers last night and two of the closest games that have yet been contested in connection with the organization were decided, the Greens defeating the Whites by a score of 7 to 4 and the Reds falling before the Orange aggregation for a count of 12 to 9. It is getting to be a usual thing for the Orange aggregation to win and the team is beginning to think that it does not have to extend itself in order to get decisions, but the game last night was won by the narrow margin of three points and the top-notch combination was extended to the limit in doing this.

"HOG WILD" RUNNERS IN BIG LEAGUES.

On nearly every ball club there are some players who are known in the frank parlance of the profession as "hog wild" runners.

The expression means that these players are bitten by a sort of "bug" which causes them to lose their heads when once they get on the bases. They cannot be stopped, oftentimes fighting with a coacher to go on to the next base, when it is easy to see that if the attempt is made the runner is doomed.

New York fans have often seen McGraw dash out into the line at third base, tackle Murray and throw him back on the bag. He is a "hog wild" runner, and with him on the bases the duties of a coacher become most arduous. He will insist on scoring if he is not stopped or does not drop dead.

Some youngster was coaching on third base in a game with Boston in the summer of 1911, and the Giants had a comfortable lead of several runs. Murray was on second when the batter hit clearly and sharply to left field. Murray started and with his usual intensity of purpose rounded third base at top speed, bound to score. The ball was already on the way home when Murray, about ten feet from the bag, tripped and fell. He scrambled safely back to the cushion on all fours. There was nothing else to do.

"This is his third year with me," laughed McGraw on the bench, "and that's the first time he has ever failed to try to score from second base on a hit unless he was tackled."

HOPE JUNIOR FIVE HANDED A DEFEAT

Close Game Won by the Orange A. C. on the Hope Court.

A junior basketball team representing the Hope Chapel boys' club was defeated by the Orange A. C., of this city, last night, on the former team's court by the score of 21 to 20. LaPorte and Seidel starred for the winners while Duncan and Bunn occupied the centre of the spotlight for the losers.

HOPE CHAPEL PRELIMINARY.

As a preliminary appetizer to the Hope Chapel-First Presbyterian game at Hope Chapel tomorrow night, the Hope second five will lineup against the second team representing the Scotch Plains Parish House. On the previous occasion when these two aggregations met the game turned out to be a close and interesting one and tomorrow night's game ought to bt a duplicate of the initial game.

INDEPENDENT FIVE DEFEATED MYSTICS

A Rough Game Results in Many Fouls on the Part of Both Teams.

One of the roughest games of basketball ever witnessed in this city was played on the stage at the Plainfield theatre, last night, when the Independent Five defeated the Mystic Five by the close score of 30 to 26. Fouling was frequent and deplorable and the offenders were pretty evenly divided up among the ranks of both teams. The contesting aggregations were composed of players of various amateur quintets in this city and the lineups presented were formidable enough and a good game might have resulted but for the frequent exhibitions of rough-house.

CONQUERORS MEET.

When the Hope Chapel and First Presbyterian basketball teams meet on the Hope court tomorrow night one of the best games of the season will probably be the issue. Both of the teams have a win to their credit over the Y. M. C. A. Ajax and many are anxious to see what they can do against each other. Hope Chapel has not been defeated in three years by a Sunday-school quintet and the players are naturally reluctant to drop their initial contest.

ELKS BOWL TONIGHT.

The Plainfield Elks' bowling team will go to Queensboro tonight, where they are scheduled to roll a three-game match with the antlered leaguers of that place. This is the series that was scheduled to be rolled last Monday night but was cancelled by the Queen City delegation because several members of the team had important business engagements.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

All of the members of the Y. M. C. A. senior department are preparing for a grand finish in the class membership caimpaign which closes tonight. The Orange team is now in the lead but it has been rumored that it will be deposed before night-fall and the point score of the winner will be materially increased by the outcome.

AJAX VS. BOUND BROOK.

On the Y. M. C. A. court tomorrow night the Ajax basketball team will line up against the strong Bound Brook High School aggregation. The Bound Brook team has been putting up fast contests against many scholastic combinations in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and a good game is expected when they invade the local association.

COLOR LEAGUE PICTURE.

Physical Director Ostlin, of the local Y. M. C. A., has issued an invitation to all members of the association's senior department to be present next Tuesday night when a group picture will be taken. Paul R. Collier is the executioner.

SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT.

Jimmy Clabby vs. George Brown 10 rounds, at Milwaukee.

Clarence Ferns vs. Tommy Howell 15 rounds, at St. Joseph, Mo.

THREE ARE IN RACE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

To Launch Katzenbach's Boom a tDinner—Fielder and Wittpen Active.

Trenton, Jan. 31.—It was announced here yesterday that the boom of former Mayor Frank S. Katzenbach, of this city, for the Gubernatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket would be formally launched at a dinner to be given in his honor in this city February 11. This will mean a three-cornered race for the coveted prize and the campaign before the primaries promises to be an exciting one.

Friends of Senate President James F. Fielder in Hudson are arranging the organization of the James F. Fielder League of New Jersey. This league will be born this evening in Philip's Hall, Jersey City, and will be the signal of the springing into life of branches all over the State. It is said a State conference of Fielder men will be held within a week.

Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, of Jersey City, who has been an avowed candidate for a long time, is rallying every friend he has to his standard and all three men will leave nothing undone to secure successes once they have become avowed candidates.

SOMERSET JUDGESHIP FOR STEELE LIKELY

Saunders' Choice Considered to Have th eBest Chance to Land the Job.

Somerville, Jan. 31.—Governor Wilson has not yet given any indication as to whom he will appoint as Judge of the Somerset County Court to succeed Judge Case, although the latter is very desirous of being relieved of the duties Mayor William V. Steele is now looming up as a formidable candidate, so it is said.

W. L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who recently resigned from the State Democratic Committee because he was displeased with action of Banking Commissioner George L. La Monte in reference to the judgeship, has urged Governor Wilson to name Mr. Steele. He was emphatic in his denial that Mr. Steele was an anti-Wilson man. The majority of the Democratic County Committee is declared to have informed Governor Wilson that it favored Mr. Steele and a number of other influential Democrats from the county have done likewise.

It may be several weeks before the appointment is made because of the difficulties of the political situation.

WILL VOTE AGAINST PRUDENTIAL TAX BILL

Bergen County Assemblymen to Oppose Measure to Tax Insurance Dividends.

Trenton, Jan. 31.—That three Bergen county assemblymen will vote against the passage of the Assembly bill No. 57, introduced from Essex county, providing for the taxation of the dividend fund of the Prudential Insurance Company so as to benefit the city of Newark, became known when Assemblymen Hennessy, Agnew and Zisgen gave out a statement to that effect

The bill was introduced at the behest of City Attorney "Jim" Nugent, of Newark, it is said. He is seeking to increase the revenue for Newark and worked the bill into the Assembly. The statement by the Bergen county men was made in answer to hundreds of letters from their constituents, as it would be impossible to answer them personally. The statement follows:

"The members of Assembly from Bergen county having received various protests from citizens of the county against the passage of Assembly bill No. 57, a bill to impose taxation by the city of Newark upon the deferred dividend funds of the Prudential Insurance Company, desire it to be known that as they are at present informed their intention is to oppose the passage of the proposed act. This means of communication is taken because of the great number of letters received by the delegation from their constituents and the impracticability of personally answering each letter."

It is likely that the Union county members of the Assembly, William A. Leonard, Hugh McLaughlin and John J. Griffin, will receive letters also, as Prudential Insurance Company agents have been urging local policyholders to ask their representatives in the Assembly to vote against the bill, as it would deprive them of the dividends accruing from their weekly payments.

The desirable boarders are not all satisfied with their present boarding houses. Your ad will interest some of them.

The condition of Marshall A. Sayre, of Chester, who has been ill from heart trouble for several weeks, shows little improvement.

Owing to the death of her mother, Miss Linnet V. Beams, of Chester, will not resume her studies in the Trenton State Normal School for the remainder of this school year. She will take up her work again next September.

Mrs. Chalmers L. Crist, of Plainfield, is visiting her parents, Postmaster and Mrs. Jacob W. Welsh, in German Valley.

New Providence.

In accordance with a custom which she has observed annually for many years, Mrs. Henry Peck, of Springfield avenue, tendered a dinner Wednesday night in honor of Mr. Peck's birthday. Eleven years ago Wednesday Mr. Peck moved to this town with his family from Summit. Only members of the family were present at the dinner.

The class of 1913 in the borough schools has thirteen students, but the ominousness of the fact is softened by the assertion of Principal Francis M. Burdick that probably ten of them will graduate.

The borough Board of Education is considering plans for an addition to the Lincoln School, a four-room edifice. Four additional rooms are needed. The Board is using the old building temporarily.

AUTO BANDITS' TRIAL.

Paris, Jan. 31.—Not since Mme. Steinheil was tried several years ago for the alleged murder of her husband and mother-in-law, has a trial in Paris excited the intense interest exhibited in the cases of the surviving members of the Bonnot-Garnier gang of motor bandits, who will be called to the bar next Monday to answer to a long list of charges of robbery and murder. Though a number of the gang, including the most prominent leaders, met death in resisting the sensational siege by the police some months ago, there are still twenty-one members who are to be tried. For the accommodation of the unusually large number of prisoners a special dock has been built in the assize court at the Palais de Justice. It has also been deemed advisable to construct in the courtroom a large glass case for the numerous exhibits, including an amazing assortment of revolvers, carbines, daggers, slungshots and other weapons found on the prisoners when they were taken into custody.

John I. Mitchell, of West Fifth street, who recently suffered a stroke of paralysis, continues to remain in a serious condition.

Miss Ethel E. Humphrey has removed from 161 East Front street, to 475 West Front street.

Twenty-seven States enforce sanitary regulations in factories.

There are one hundred thousand union machinists in this country.

To improve the slum district Los Angeles society will build cheap houses for workmen.

Farm wages with board in the United States averaged for men $10.09 a month in 1866; $13.83 in 1875, and $20.80 in 1909.

Rhode Island and South Carolina have prohibited the employment as night messengers of boys under twenty-one and eighteen years, respectively.

Savannah, Ga., electricians, who were organized a few months ago, have established one of the best unions in the city. The membership includes every eligible electrician.

The number of wage earners in the automobile industry in the United States is 75,721, and the automobile wage standard is said to be estimated somewhat higher than that of other industries.

A bitter fight has been started against the company of so-called "Pluck Me" stores conducted by the steel and iron and coal and coke companies operating in the Pittsburg district in Pennsylvania.

The International Brotherhood of Bookbinders asserts it has gained in membership about one thousand in the last four months, and now has a total membership in good standing of about eleven thousand.

LECTURE ON HYGIENE FOR SCHOOL TEACHE

County Superintendent to D tribute Pamphlet on Mental Training Idea.

County Superintendent of Schoo Savitz has received from the Stat School Commission copies of an ad dress made by Dr. L. F. Barker before the National Committee for Mental Hygiene at the Fifteenth In ternational Congress held recently in Washington. The copies are intended for distribution among the teachers of the county. The speech deals with some phases of the mental hygiene movement and the scope of the work as adapted to the public schools.

"The teachers of our schools should gladly join in the campaign for mental hygiene," Dr. Barker says, "for teachers have been among the first to notice among children great differences in regard to the assimilation of education. Until the reasons were made clear, some teachers unjustly blamed children slow to learn; other teachers, discouraged, unjustly blamed themselves."

Dr. Barker says that in this campaign of education the general public, physicians, clergymen, lawyers, legislators and school teachers must be taught the particular truths regarding mental hygiene which they can best apply. Only a minority of the pubic know that from forty to fifty per cent. of all severer cases of mental disorder are due to known and well-defined cases, preventable by means with which we are now acquainted, the physician asserts.

Continuing, he states that twenty-five per cent. of the patients admitted to institutions for the insane and a large proportion of criminals in confinement have brains that have been injured by the abuse of alcohol. There are about 250,000 insane people in the United States today and that number is increasing at the rate of three or four per every thousand of increase of population, he declared.

"Suicide," Dr. Barker said, should excite the sympathy rather than the moral judgment of those who think humanely. There is a growing tendency to recognize the dependence of criminal as well as all other acts upon the mental state of the agent, and of the latter, in turn upon the functions of his bodily organs."

School physicians are becoming more expert in distinguishing between inborn and acquired defect, he says, with the result that the special classes for "feebly endowed," "backward," and exceptional children were established and removed a great burden from the schools and teacher.

ORANGE SALADS.

If the blood is sluggish oranges are an excellent tonic. The fruit is also helpful for those who are troubled with headaches, biliousness or other disorders of the liver.

Orange salads or salads in which oranges are constituents should be served frequently.

A simple fruit salad consists of slices of oranges combined with nut meats.

Oranges With Herbs.

Orange and Watercress Salad.—Take five tart oranges and cut in thin slices and then quarter the slices. Mix one-third of a cupful of olive oil, one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of lemon juice and vinegar, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of mustard and a dash of paprika. Marinate the fruit with this mixture and serve on a bed of watercress.

Mint and Orange Salad.—Remove rind and white skin from the oranges. Break each in two and separate the sections of each half until they are but slightly connected and look fan shaped. Place each on a lettuce leaf, strew nut kernels over the orange, pour a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing on the fruit and flavor with mint. Mint leaves chopped fine may be strewn over it.

Refreshing Salads.

Orange and Lettuce Salad.—Take a small head of white lettuce, two large oranges and one small pineapple. Crisp the lettuce and arrange on individual salad plates. Peel the oranges and cut in half inch slices crosswise. Cut four half-inch slices of pineapple crosswise. Arrange one slice of pineapple between two of orange, place on the lettuce and pour French dressing over all.

Orange and Celery Salad.—Take the peel and white skin from some ripe oranges, cut them into rather thick slices and divide these into two or four portions according to the size of the fruit. Put the pieces of orange into a salad bowl with some crisp celery which has been cut into small pieces and masked with some sauce made according to the directions given below. Garnish the salad with cress and, if practicable, place it on ice for a short time before it is served.

For the sauce, put the yolks of two raw eggs into a basin, add a little salt, white pepper and half a teaspoonful of powdered sugar and work them with a wooden spoon for five minutes. Then stir in, drop by drop, a teaspoonful of tarragon vinegar, a teaspoonful of horseradish vinegar and half a pint of whipped cream.

Points for Mothers

Giving Your Child a Book.

"What kind of a book shall father bring you?" a small girl was questioned the other day.

"Oh, any book," came the reply with a happy nonchalance, "as long as it can be my very own and stay up in my room."

She voiced the craving of every child, says Carolyn Sherwin Baily in the Delineator. Your child needs his very own "five foot" bookshelf which he may grow up with and which will meet the needs of his developing and expanding imagination. But each book that we put on this nursery bookshelf should be selected having in mind what it is going to do for the child.

Will it frighten him? Will it hurt his appreciation of beauty by its rude colors and poor art? Will it give him warped, twisted ideas of his world?

Rather, will the book that you put into your child's hands make him happy? Will its illustrations help him to love good pictures? Will it teach him something?

If a child can have only four books it will be possible to give him between the covers of these four all that he needs in child literature during his earlier years.

One book should be very beautiful pictorially. Every baby loves color, and a good colored picture of one of his Mother Goose friends, his pet animals, his toys, will be a feast for his soul almost. He should be taught care in handling it, and turning its beautiful pages will be his happy privilege.

One book will answer the queries of our dear little "question mark." It should furnish material to be read to the child to help him understand his environment. Every child is wonderfully, buoyantly interested in animals and stars and trees and waters and the land of little creatures down under his feet. Too often we let his questions in regard to nature phenomena pass unheeded. Let us give him a book that will answer them.

Our third book will be a big, magical collection of child stories—those stories that take a child out of himself and into the places of fancy, stories that make children brave, happy, unselfish, good.

One more book, a doing one. It will be perhaps more a mother's book than the child's, for it will give hints and helps for keeping small hands active, child eyes wider open, child brains busy. It will be a book of games, of suggestions for child hand work, a book of child busy-ness.

With these four books or many books of each of these four classes a child will begin his home education in an efficient, result making way.

Rules For Rearing Babies.

Rules for rearing babies, accompanied by the statement that children are not to be regarded as luxuries by the poor, were given out recently by Mrs. George Herrick of Boston, who four months ago became the mother of a boy declared by a number of eugenic authorities to be the finest physical specimen that has come within their experience. Mrs. Herrick's directions are as follows:

"Three essentials are fresh air, light clothing and plenty of good nourishment.

"Society women should forego society's obligations and nurse their own children.

"Every mother should nurse her own child.

"Kissing and fondling of baby should not be permitted for one minute.

"Don't toss baby up in the air like a bouncing ball.

"One great secret of household economy is making your own and your children's clothing.

"Race suicide is the greatest evil of the day.

"The father contributes as much to the health or ill health of a child as the mother."

The Toys of 1913.

Modern toys for children are marvels of ingenuity. The latest is a model yacht about three feet long which runs by electricity with a motor and storage battery with a speed of 188 feet per minute. The motor is reversible, and it is steered from the wheel on the bridge. There are searchlights and running lights, which are operated by a switch. Naturally there are no sails and only one deck. There are two little lifeboats, and on the deck a small velvet seat with three miniature chairs and three wee cushions lend a suggestion of realism. A moving picture machine for home use, sold with an arrangement with the store to exchange the films, is another scource of unlimited delight to the active child.

Comfort For Baby.

Eiderdown flannel bootees for the baby are excellent for very cold weather. They are silk lined with pink or blue and ornamented with a small design in ribbon work. They are hand made and are washable. Bootees for the baby may also be had now made of corduroy, but either of these kinds should be exchanged for something of a lighter weight in a warm room or on mild days. A hot water bottle for the baby to hold and play with, so that its hands may be kept warm, is dressed as a rabbit doll called "Peter Rabbit." It holds one pint of hot water and is priced at $1.

SPRING FASHIONS.

A Look Ahead at the Coming Styles and Fabrics.

Ribbed Materials to Be Modish For Street Suits—Contrasting Effects Good For Smart Costumes—Cotton Velvets and Crepe de Chine Seem to Be Most Heralded.

For suits this spring all the ribbed goods will be favorites—the bedford cords, poplins, vigoreaus, diagonals and materials of this type. If it were possible to oust serge from its place at the head of the list it might be accomplished this season, for it is not as securely within the sartorial picture as it was formerly. All of these goods are very light in weight and very supple, so that the designer may drape or plait them, as fashion dictates. One of the new three piece suits in taupe poplin is completed with a coat whose skirt portion is plaited, while the skirt is draped both in front and in the back, but not more than six inches from the bottom.

Whether the style of wearing a jacket of one material with a skirt of another, perhaps even in contrasting color, will meet with more favor this spring than during the winter remains to be seen. Among the suits ordered for the south at one of the exclusive houses there are several showing a skirt of striped material with jacket of the plain goods; also a skirt of checked material with a jacket in the plain coloring and skirts of cloth with jackets of broche crape.

It is in the cottons that the manufacturer has far surpassed any previous efforts. Where before this time has there been shown any cotton velvet? Not velvets with cotton backs, but velvets each strand of which is cotton. One of the loveliest of the new cottons is a crape with inch wide stripes of this cotton velvet. Still another new cotton is the broche cotton, which looks ridiculously like a velvet brocade, but which is made entirely of cotton. Cotton, the much maligned cotton, which has been used to adulterate woolens and linen, has now come into its own and is appearing in a guise that is quite as appealing and alluring as silk.

In woolens there are any number of delightfully soft, woolly stuffs which may at first suggest winter, but which are so light in weight that they will be comfortable in warm if not torrid weather. While the white and creamy tints are sure to be popular, there is a wonderful new color chart which has borrowed many a subtle coloring from the east, the conquerors of dyes. Queer greens and blues and browns, more subdued than those in favor this winter, are shown in the newest materials for the top coats.

The new spring gown from Paris suggests one complete trotteur dress unbuttoned to show another underneath. The buttoned outer gown is of smoke colored lansdowne, the petticoat being of charmeuse and the sash of oriental brocade. Buttoned walking boots in the new long vamp style show beneath the skirt.

Egg Salad.

Have the eggs boiled for at least half an hour. Roll fine four hard crackers. Make a dressing with one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of mustard, celery seed and salt to taste and half a cupful of vinegar. Separate the eggs and chop fine. Pour the sauce over them and add the cracker mixed with a little grated cheese and paprika. Serve on lettuce.

The Wilson Colors.

RAILROADS PLEAD WITH EMPLOYEES

ARBITRATION ASKED FOR.

Men Declare They Want to Settle Grievances In Accordance With Erdman Act—Conductors and Trainmen Are Formulating Requests.

New York, Jan. 31.—Representatives of the railroads in conference prepared another statement in a final effort to induce firemen on the fifty-four eastern railroads to call a halt in the balloting, which now seems certain to result in a verdict in favor of a strike.

The basis of the statement is in the nature of a plea for arbitration under the scheme fostered by the railroads and similar to the one used in the settlement of grievances of the engineers.

The roads point out that, though it took the committee of seven many months to settle the question, the enginemen finally received an increase amounting to 5 per cent, with the additional advantage that it was retroactive, the men receiving the increased pay from the date of the filing of the grievance.

Demand Erdman Act Body.

As an exception to this the firemen declare that they will not arbitrate unless it is in accordance with the Erdman act, a federal statute which provides for a committee of three—one from each side, they to choose the third.

They add that, even though they did agree to the scheme proposed by the railroads, they as yet have had no assurance that any increase they might receive would be retroactive, as in the case of the enginemen.

Take Vote to Strike.

Conductors and trainmen on these fifty-four eastern railroads where the firemen are already voting whether to strike were reported to be formulating demands for a wage increase. The reluctance of the railroads to grant an increase to the firemen is said to be because they fear that in yielding to this demand they would increase the movement among the conductors and trainmen to make similar demands. Forty thousand firemen are expected to quit work when the strike order, now being voted on, is given.

Pending the counting of the firemen's vote W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, has returned to Peoria, Ill, leaving the headquarters here at the Broadway Central hotel in charge of E. A. Ball, one of the vice presidents of the organization.

"The real reason," said Mr. Ball, "why the railroads refused to have the demands of the firemen adjusted under the Erdman act is that they fear similar demands from the conductors and trainmen."

GALE BLEW HAT ACROSS BAY.

Newark Woman Gets Lost Headgear Back From Bayonne Druggist's Tree.

New York, Jan. 31.—Druggist Edward Eycke of Broadway and Thirty-second street, Bayonne, received a letter from Mrs. M. Archer of 64 Fabian place, Newark, claiming a black velvet hat with white feathers which was found nestling in the limbs of a tree near the drug store on Jan. 10. It had been blown into the tree during a heavy gale the night previous and was discovered by John Schumacher, an undertaker, who turned it over to Eycke.

In her letter Mrs. Archer said she had read the story in a newspaper. She described the hat accurately and said it had been blown from her head during the gale while she was walking in Broad street, and the last she saw of it it was flying toward Newark bay. Eycke, satisfied the wind had carried the hat across the bay to the tree, about three miles or so, expressed it to Mrs. Archer.

SHEPARDS IN NEW YORK.

Bridal Couple to Sail on Feb. 12 on the Mauretania.

New York, Jan. 31.—Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard are expected to arrive at their Manhattan home, 579 Fifth avenue, from Lyndhurst late today, and on Feb. 12, it is understood, they will sail on the Mauretania for Europe.

Their plans are to go to France and there visit the Duc de Talleyrand and the duchess, who was Miss Anna Gould; to take the various trips of a day or so in different parts of France and finally to visit some popular beach resort in southern France.

HOME RULE BEATEN IN HOUSE OF LORDS

Women In Evening Dress Hear Final Debate.

London, Jan. 31.—As was generally expected, the house of lords rejected the home rule bill by a vote of 326 to 67. Mr. Gladstone's home rule measure in 1893 was beaten by the lords by a vote of 419 to 41. The final debate, which was earnest and restrained, was well attended. The house was crowded throughout the discussion as is rarely the case, particularly in the last two hours.

The peeresses' gallery was thronged with women in evening dress who were glittering in jewels. A score of bishops, who rarely attend the sessions of the house, participated in the divisions, and the great majority of them voted against the bill.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, for the opposition, and Viscount Morley, for the government, wound up the debate. The Marquis of Lansdowne contended that there was no analogy between colonial and Irish autonomy. Lord Morley commented on the difference of the temper of the present and past home rule bills. He said that now there was none of the ferocity which had been shown in the debates of 1886 and 1893. The opponents of the measure said there was no finality to the bill. Did they believe there would be any finality in its rejection? he asked.

Lord Morley continued: "If you will go under the Orange flag, which I grieve to think has been reared, do you believe there will be an end of the wearing of the green? You ask what we are going to do with Ulster; we ask what you are going to do with Munster, Connaught and Leinster?"

BIG SLIDES IN CANAL.

Commission Hears 1,000,000 Cubic Yards Have Been Thrown In Cut.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Further movements of the slides in the banks of Culebra cut, Panama canal, were reported to the isthmian canal commission here. Material to the amount of 1,000,000 cubic yards has been or will be thrown into the cut as a result of this latest activity of the slides. Between 300,000 and 400,000 cubic yards of earth moved into the cut at Curachaca, covering five railroad tracks in the cut at that point, leaving only one open.

Another slide occurred just south of Gold hill, and it is expected that 500,000 cubic yards of earth and rock will have been precipitated into the cut before the slide is completed. The latest slide at Curachaca has also weakened the bank at Purple hill, and it is expected there will be further sliding at that point in the near future.

CONTESTS ASSEMBLY SEAT.

Birnkrant, Progressive, Trying to Oust Greenberg, Democrat.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 31.—Maximum Birnkrant, Progressive candidate for member of assembly in the Tenth assembly district of New York, filed with the assembly notices of contest of the election of Meyer Greenberg, Democrat. Birnkrant claims corrected returns show he was elected by a plurality of fifty over Assemblyman Greenberg, who, on the original returns, had a plurality of twenty-eight.

In his statement Mr. Birnkrant says an examination of the ballots disclosed frauds and that indictments were found against certain election officers. He makes a copy of the indictment a part of his protest.

WEIGHTS, MEASURES LAWS IMPROVEMENTS

Supt. Waldron Makes Suggestions for Some Needed Amendments.

Trenton, Jan. 31.—New Jersey for a long time was noticeably backward so far as legislation to standardize weights and measures and prevent fraud upon the consumers was concerned. Conditions became so bad that they claimed the attention of the Legislature of 1911. The lawmakers heeded the plea for progressive legislation along this line and enacted the present law, which is second to none in the United States. Occasional laws of minor importance had been previously passed, but they were soon lost sight of and never enforced. Practically all work for honest weights and measures were indifferently done.

The passage of the new law raised the standards of efficiency. Now every weights and measures official in the State is under the direct supervision of the State Department and the law against frauds is enforced. The general result has been the reconstruction and reorganization of the entire system of inspection of weights and measures, so that New Jersey is protected as never before. This is the summing up of the annual report of William L. Waldron, State superintendent of weights and measures, which was submitted to Governor Wilson today.

Superintendent Waldron makes a number of recommendations that he thinks are needed still further to safeguard the people against imposition by unscrupulous dealers. He strongly recommends, with the full support of the new State Association of Weights and Measure Superintendents, that a law be passed permitting fruit and vegetable baskets to be only of 2, 4, 8, 16 and 32 quart sizes, the bushel and its multiples. Such a law is an absolute necessity, Mr. Waldron declares to rid the State of odd sizes that defraud the consumers. The superintendent recommends that the dealers be compelled to mark in permanent form the capacity of each basket thereon.

Another recommendation is that a law be enacted making mandatory the use of standard dry measurement quart and pint boxes for the sale of small fruits and berries. All sizes are now permissable, and many of them are short.

All superintendents in the State should be vested with police privileges, Mr. Waldron declares, and he recommends such a law. He says superintendents should not be compelled to wait until a policman can be secured to make an arrest when violators are discovered.

Another way in which the law should be strengthened, Mr. Waldron maintains, is by striking out the provision that a dealer must have known a short weight or measure was false. Several prosecutions failed the past year, the report shows, because it could not be absolutely proved that the guilty dealer knew the weight was short. The superintendent says that ownership or possession of false measures, weights or scales is the most satisfactory kind of evidence, and should be sufficient. Superintendent Waldron further recommends the abolition of the present method of trying cases before juries "because it has not worked out as satisfactorily as we could wish. Offenders have succeeded in having their cases delayed and finally quashed. The trials, in addition, have proved very expensive." Mr. Waldron would substitute a law enabling city magistrates to pass judgment.

The report outlines the organization of the new department following the appointment of Mr. Waldron by Governor Wilson, and refers to the crusades and the resultant reforms already effected. Among these reforms were: Compelling butter dealers to mark the weight of their prints upon the wrappers, thus stopping the short-weight of butter; bringing about the use of standard dry measures for selling dry commodities, thus preventing fraud by the use of the liquid quart measure; prohibition of the use of combination two and four quart measures, as so many of them were short; stopping the use of the so-called "bottomless" measures, as they could be manipulated by dealers so inclined.

Other reforms wroght were: Prosecuting many coal dealers for short weight; prosecution of garage proprietors for having fraudulent five-gallon gasoline cans; standardizing the size of milk bottles. In connection with this latter crusade, Superintendent Waldron had a law passed last winter requiring all glass milk bottles to have their capacity stamped in them. The report refers to the exhibition of crooked weights, measures and scales at the Inter-State Fair last fall, which the report says, was a great success and was visited by over 100,000 people.

Mr. Waldron suggests that the laws of the various States should be revised so as to give a bushel of a standard capacity. At present the bushel capacity varies in most of the States, and this works to the disadvantage of New Jersey farmers and dealers who market products in other States.

The report shows that during the year the department tested a total of 268,066 scales, measures and weights. The total number of prosecutions for violations was 191, and the amount collected in fines was $4,320.25.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The Campfire Girls held a three candle ceremonial meeting at the home of Miss Marguerite Penny, of Watchung avenue, last night, and enrolled a new member. Two of the members received the degree of firemakers. Honor beads were presented to a number of the members for the work done by them in the organization.

A membership campaign has been instigated in the gymnasium classes of the association. Two teams were selected at the meeting held Wednesday night and the captains were voted on. Miss Marion Mair was selected to lead the Yellow team and Miss Ellen Doughty was asked to captain the Blues. The object of the campaign is to secure new members for the gymnasium term to open February 24.

The regular Saturday night supper will be held tomorrow night for the convenience of those who are in town and do not wish to go home and return to do their shopping.

The second Bible study conducted by Miss Angy M. Taylor was attended by forty-five members last night.
